DEFEAT FOR BRYAN IN SENATE CAUCUS

Martin, Whom Nebraskan Opposed, Chosen Minority Leader by 21 to 16 Votes.

EFFECT ON TARIFF PLANS

Most of the Democrats for Lower Duties and Reciprocity, Says Stone—Shively Vice Chairman.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—By the comparatively close vote of 21 to 16 the Democratic Senators this afternoon elected the conservative candidate, Thomas S. Martin of Virginia, to be minority leader over Benjamin F. Shively of Indiana, the choice of the progressive wing of the party. Mr. Shively was then re-elected Vice Chairman of the caucus.

This vote is a direct slap at the efforts of William Jennings Bryan to organize the Senate minority on a radical basis. The division was pretty much along tariff lines, which is becoming more and more the paramount issue, but in the ranks of Mr. Martin's supporters are found several men who can under no circumstances be classed as protectionists. Mr. Culberson of Texas, Mr. O'Gorman of New York, Mr. Percy of Mississippi, Mr. Rayner of Maryland, and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi are all known to be tariff-for-revenue men. Yet they all voted for Mr. Martin, who cast more votes for duties on Southern products in the tariff struggle of 1907 than any other Democrat in the Senate except Mr. Foster and Mr. McEnery, the confessed protectionists from Louisiana.

The votes of at least two of these men for Mr. Martin are said to have been cast in refusal to follow the leadership of Mr. Bryan in his efforts to interfere with the Senate organization. These two are Mr. O'Gorman of New York and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, former Democratic leader of the House. The bitter hatred of Mr. Williams for the peerless leader is ancient history in Washington.

Mr. Martin was nominated by Senator Clarke of Arkansas, and Senator Shively by Senator Kern of Indiana, the running mate of Mr. Bryan in the last campaign. Senator Stone seconded the Shively nomination.

How They Voted.

The Senators who voted for Mr. Martin are Bacon of Georgia, Bailey of Texas, Bankhead of Alabama, Chilton of West Virginia, Clarke of Arkansas, Culberson of Texas, Fletcher of Florida, Foster of Louisiana, Johnston of Alabama, O'Gorman of New York, Overman of North Carolina, Paynter of Kentucky, Percy of Mississippi, Rayner of Maryland, Simmons of North Carolina, Smith of Maryland, Swanson of Virginia, Taylor of Tennessee, Thornton of Louisiana, Watson of West Virginia, and Williams of Mississippi.

The Senators who voted for Mr. Shively are Bryan of Florida, Chamberlain of Washington, Davis of Arkansas, Gore of Oklahoma, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Johnston of Maine, Kern of Indiana, Lea of Tennessee, Martine of New Jersey, Meyers of Montana, Newlands of Nevada, Owen of Oklahoma, Pomerene of Ohio, Reed of Missouri, Smith of South Carolina, and Stone of Missouri.

Only three Democrats were absent from the caucus, where, in spite of the division shown by the vote, good feeling seemed to obtain. The absentees were Mr. Shively himself, Mr. Tillman, and Mr. Terrell—all of whom are ill. Of the sixteen Senators who voted for Mr. Shively eight are serving their first term at this session. Only three new Senators voted for Mr. Martin, who, after the refusal of Mr. Bacon to accept a nomination from a divided party, had a claim to the leadership on the ground of seniority.

A Slap at Bailey, Too.

While to-day's vote might seem to some to be a victory for the Bailey brand of Democracy, there are many causes that contributed to the result. The clearest summary of the whole situation is that the candidate put up by the progressive wing was defeated, while the conservative candidate who was elected is said to be personally hostile to Mr. Bailey. Mr. Martin's nomination was decided on many weeks ago, not as a compromise in favor of Mr. Bailey's views, but in a determined effort to sidetrack Mr. Bailey himself.

William Jennings Bryan, who has been in Washington for a week, trying to influence the organization of both houses, made his position on Mr. Martin clear this morning when he left the White House after an hour's chat with the President. He said that all he could say was that if he were asked to choose, Mr. Martin would not be his choice for leader.

Mr. Stone of Missouri, one of Mr. Bryan's most ardent supporters in the upper house, gave out a statement afterward in which he said that one thing at least indicated by the vote was that seventeen Democratic Senators (counting Mr. Shively) would stand together at all times for true Democracy. Others, he said, like Mr. Culberson and Mrs. Williams, had voted for Mr. Martin for personal reasons, and would line up with the progressives for Democratic legislation when the time comes.

Senator Stone predicted that over thirty Democrats would vote for reciprocity; that the party would be unanimous for the Constitutional amendment for the popular election of Senators, and that not more than two or three would oppose the admission of New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Stone admitted that while the Democrats are practically united in favor of reciprocity and the main body of the tariff, there might be some sloughing off on lumber and particular items here and there.

Owen Promises Results.

Senator Owen also issued a statement explaining the vote of the Democrats.

"Those who supported Shively," he said, "did so because they are militant progressive Democrats, determined to enforce the policies of the National progressive Democracy, and they feared that the country might feel that Senator Martin would not be regarded as progressive as the country had a right to expect of the leader of the Senate. We shall expect the country to be agreeably disappointed in this matter.

"There are at least twenty-two or twenty-three militant progressive Democratic Senators who are going to do things, and I trust and believe that even those Democratic Senators who have not heretofore been regarded as in complete sympathy with the National platform will be found actively progressive, so that there shall be in the Senate a party united in spirit and in common purpose to control the special interests of this country and restore the rights of the common people."

Senator Chilton of West Virginia was elected Secretary of the caucus, Senator Owen having declined a re-election.

Mr. Martin will have the appointment of the Democratic Committee on Committees which will be announced in the next few days. This appointment will really amount to little more than naming men already on the committee, conferring with the other Senators as to filling in the vacancies. The Committee on Committees, however, will have important work to do. There are four vacancies on the minority side of the Finance Committee, which handles tariff matters, and much care will be exercised in selecting the men for these places.

It is yet to be decided whether a separate Steering Committee will be appointed

AFTER NILE VALLEY GOLD.

American Syndicate Said to be Negotiating to Absorb Egyptian Mining Co.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 7.—Reports from American sources are being circulated here as to an ambitious scheme for obtaining control of the gold mines of the Nile Valley. The Daily Mail announces that thus far the matter is merely under negotiation.

It appears that an American syndicate, which includes Mr. Stolz of the Stolz Electrophone, is endeavoring by negotiation or otherwise to obtain for a new company, to be called The Star of Egypt, control of certain Egyptian mining companies, including the Nile Valley Gold Mining Company. The people who are behind the scheme have intimated their intention to invite ex-President Roosevelt to become president of the company and ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw to become a director.

The Daily Mail points out the first Nile Valley Company was formed in 1901 with a capital of 30,000 pounds sterling and that it was thrice reconstructed. The fourth company thus formed is that which the American syndicate is seeking to take over. It has a capital of 305,000 pounds sterling. According to The Daily Mail it has not paid any dividends.

KAISER HONORS PROF. WELCH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 7.—I learn that the Kaiser has conferred the Crown Order of the Second Class on William Henry Welch, Professor of Pathology at Johns Hopkins University, in Baltimore, and known as the "Nestor of modern American medicine."

Prof. Welch has been honored for propagating German medical science in the United States and for spreading the use of the German language in the medical schools there.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—Dr. William H. Welch, known as a physician, writer, and humanitarian, has for a quarter of a century been connected with Johns Hopkins University, and since 1889 he has been pathologist to Hopkins Hospital. For five years he was dean of the medical faculty. His work in original research has closely woven with the progress of pathology.

It was Dr. Welch who suggested the members of the Government commission appointed by President Roosevelt which discovered the cause of yellow fever. Dr. Welch was born in Norfolk, Conn., in 1850, and is a graduate of Yale. He studied medicine in many leading universities of Germany, and Dr. Koch was deeply interested in him.

Dr. Welch has been President of the American Medical Association.

BROADWAY A HOME WRECKER

Mrs. Love Says the Bright Lights Worked a Change in Her Husband.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 7.—"If I had remained in Chicago after my marriage instead of going to New York, I would probably be a happy woman," said Mrs. Sidney C. Love, who as Majorie Burns was named by Burne-Jones, the English painter, as the "most beautiful women in America."

"When I married Mr. Love," she continued, "I thought him the most wonderful man in the world. And he was, until we went to New York to live. Then he changed. New York, and especially Broadway, will do more to break up a happy home than anything else I can think of. That was the way in my case. From the time we went into the glitter of the bright lights everything changed. First came Mr. Love's failure. We tried the other side, but returned to New York, and trouble followed us. So we separated.

"I never want to marry again. All I want is my child and peace. But if I should marry I declare here and now that it will be agreed that we keep away from New York. Chicago is good enough for me. I like Chicago, and it is to be my only home from now on."

Mrs. Love is to remain in Chicago for several weeks, and then intends to go to Europe for the Summer with her child.

MISSOURI MAYOR VANISHES.

Wedded Police Matron of Springfield Friday; Missing Sunday.

Special to The New York Times.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., April 7.—Robert E. Lee, Mayor of Springfield, married Mrs. Kate Cozzens, police matron, last Friday. At noon Sunday he disappeared. Since then neither his wife nor his friends have seen him, although it is believed some of his relatives know where he is. Mrs. Lee is ill at their apartment, but discusses freely the disappearance of the Mayor, although denying strenuously that there has been a separation.

A great stir was created in social and church circles when the announcement was made that Mayor Lee and Mrs. Cozzens had been married. Mayor Lee's first wife died about two years ago, leaving two children. When the latter heard of the step their father had taken they left the Lee home and went to live with an aunt. They refuse to accept the ex-police matron as their stepmother.

Mrs. Cozzens was married to Mayor Lee three months after the death of her husband. Her desk was next to that of the Mayor in his office. The couple were the subject of much gossip before their marriage.

MORE ARMOUR STOCKS FOUND

Securities Worth $45,000 Were Not Sold—Thief Not to be Prosecuted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—The value of the stocks and bonds stolen recently from Mrs. S. B. Armour was $150,000 instead of $105,000, as originally reported, it developed to-day. Securities worth $45,000, the theft of which has just come to light, were never sold. The thief named their hiding place, and they were recovered.

Thus far Mrs. Armour has recovered about $120,000 in cash and securities. What the goods in storage, jewelry, works of art, rugs, and silverware will bring is not known. It would appear from figures now available that Mrs. Armour will not lose more than $15,000 or $20,000.

Friends of the woman who stole the securities recalled to-day that the first theft was committed within a few weeks after she had recovered from a severe case of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Armour still refuses to permit any action to be taken against the guilty person.

SEEKS SAILOR SPOUSE ABSENT FOUR YEARS

English Wife, Parted After Three Days, Asks Our Embassy to Find A. S. Robinson.

HE IS A SHIP'S OFFICER

Has Brother in New Jersey Who Says He Is Sailing in Southern Waters Somewhere.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, April 7, (by telegraph to Clifden, Ireland; thence by wireless)—Married at Southampton on Dec. 18, 1907, to Albert Sewell Robinson, then third officer of the American liner St. Louis, Mrs. Harriet Rosena Robinson, unusually pretty and young, has sought the help of the American embassy here to try to locate her husband, who returned to America three days after the marriage and has never returned.

According to advices recently received the young wife believes that her husband is the son of Mrs. Fannie Robinson, of 208 Hillside Avenue, Glen Ridge, N. J. Mrs. Albert S. Robinson, who is twenty-one years of age, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Gange of Southampton, and, for three years before the marriage, had been acquainted with Robinson, who spent most of his time in her company when the St. Louis was at Southampton. According to the young wife, Robinson, who was a handsome young man, over six feet in height, of fair hair and blue eyes, wanted to marry her, but her parents objected on the score of her youth. Eventually the young couple took the matter into their own hands and were secretly married at the Southampton registry office.

Three days later, Robinson sailed away, promising to send for his bride; but beyond several letters since received Mrs. Robinson has seen nothing of him.

In asking the assistance of THE NEW YORK TIMES to try to find her husband, Mrs. Robinson showed her marriage certificate which described Robinson as twenty-two years of age, a bachelor, son of Irving Robinson (deceased), Inspector of Steamships. The last letter Mrs. Robinson received from her husband was in January, 1910, written on board the New York-Porto Rico steamer San Juan, of which he was then first officer. In this letter he then spoke of settling in New York and sending for her. Since then nothing has been seen or heard of him, and, as the marriage caused friction with her parents, the young wife has earned her own living as a waitress.

Although Robinson never gave her his address, she had heard him speak of a sister Mary and a brother Frank and say that his home was at Walton, N. Y.

With this meagre information the Embassy officials wrote to the postmaster of Walton asking him to make inquiries. The latter replied that a family answering the description had removed to Glen Ridge. A letter came from Frank N. Robinson, care of a New York afternoon paper, saying that the Postmaster of Walton had forwarded to him the Embassy inquiry and stating his belief that his was the family inquired after.

Young Mrs. Robinson, who is eking out a precarious existence, has now written Frank N. Robinson telling of Albert S. Robinson's marriage to her and asking for information of his whereabouts. She is overjoyed at the prospect of being reunited to her husband.

Frank N. Robinson said last night that Albert Sewell Robinson was his brother and that the Mrs. Fannie Robinson of Glen Ridge, N. J., mentioned in the cablegram, was their mother. Mr. Robinson said he was unable to throw much light on his brother's movements. The latter was no longer connected with the American Line, he said, having given up his post on the St. Louis for one on the San Juan of the Porto Rico Line. He thought, however, that he had now left that company for another which operates solely in Southern waters.

According to Frank N. Robinson, the young woman who represents herself as his brother's wife has written to him but once, the letter referred to in the cablegram. To this, he says, he promptly replied, asking for more information. To this inquiry no reply has so far been received. Mr. Robinson does not think any mishap has befallen his brother. Albert Robinson, he says, has always had a predilection for Southern seas, and in now sailing them is only exercising an old preference. His brother, he declared, had not told him that he was married.

STRIPLING MAY BE FREED.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 7.—Edgar Stripling will be a free man within the next week if the Governor agrees with the Prison Commission and accepts its recommendations decided upon to-day. Owing to the overwhelming sentiment in favor of Stripling, it is generally believed that the Governor will accept the recommendation of the commission.

The plaintiff's lawyers concentrated their efforts on proving the good character of Stripling and the bad reputation of William Cornett, the man he killed. Affidavits were introduced showing that Cornett's ideas of morality were of the loosest kind. He was repeatedly warned, according to affidavits, to stop talking about the wives of other men.

Striplin, however, did not escape in the matter of arraignment. Affidavits were introduced in his case to the effect that two men whom he shot in Danville were shot in the back and that he had abused a Confederate veteran. A letter was read from the editor of The Danville Register saying few of the best citizens of Danville wanted him back, and Attorney Cameron said he recognized Stripling as the man who had led a mob in Columbus which had lynched two negroes.

Among the affidavits were one from Mrs. Durham, sister of Stripling, and one from his wife. The first said that Cornett had made an effort to kiss her, the second that he had asked to be allowed to call when he knew the husband was absent.

RITZ-CARLTON LEASE OF WINDSOR ARCADE

Southerly Half of Ornate Taxpayer to be Used Partly for Addition to Hotel.

DEMOLITION SOON TO BEGIN

R. W. Goelet Pays More Than $1,000,000 for Fifth Ave. Leasehold—To Put Up Business Building on Corner.

Robert Walton Goelet increased his extensive leasehold properties yesterday in the block holding the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, on Madison Avenue, and the Windsor Arcade, on Fifth Avenue, by acquiring for a long term of years from Elbridge T. Gerry the southerly half of the Windsor Arcade plot. The aggregate rental that Mr. Goelet will pay for the control of this choice Fifth Avenue corner is considerably more than $1,000,000.

A portion of the property on Forty-sixth Street, adjoining the Ritz-Carlton, will be used for a large addition to the hotel, in the shape of a low structure which will contain a ballroom, a banqueting hall, and several private dining rooms. Last year, shortly after W. & J. Sloane leased from Mr. Gerry the northern half of the arcade for their new building, the Ritz-Carlton Hotel interests sub-leased from the Sloanes an eighty-foot plot adjoining the hotel on the south side of Forty-seventh Street, to protect the light of the rear rooms.

Mr. Goelet, it is understood, will erect his ballroom addition over the entire plot, extending through the block, with an eighty-foot frontage on both Forty-sixth and Forty-seventh Streets. Warren & Wetmore, architects of the hotel, have a commission to prepare plans for this addition, and soon after May 1, when the arcade is to be torn down, active building operations will begin.

Mr. Goelet proposes to improve the corner plot with a high-class commercial structure, designed by the architects of the Ritz-Carlton.

The plot just obtained by Mr. Goelet has a frontage of 100.5 feet on Fifth Avenue, half the block, and 280 feet on Forty-sixth Street. The business building will cover the entire Fifth Avenue side and 200 feet on Forty-sixth Street. Mr. Goelet is President of the Carlton House Company, which owns the hotel, and he now controls on long leases the entire block, with the exception of the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, 100.5 feet on the avenue and 200 feet on Forty-seventh Street, which will be the site of the new Sloane building. Mr. Goelet's total holdings in the block are between 64,000 and 65,000 square feet.

The present deal was negotiated by the Cruikshank Company, and Duncan Harris of Harris & Vaughn has been appointed agent for the business building, which will be managed by a company just organized as the Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street Company.

Ever since the lease was made a year ago to the Sloane firm of the northern half of the Windsor Arcade there has been curiosity as to what would become of the southern portion of this low structure, which, by reasons of its elaborate architectural features, has been a characteristic landmark of Fifth Avenue above Forty-second Street. The tenants in the arcade received notice several weeks ago to vacate by May 1, and on that date the demolition of this ornate taxpayer will begin. The Jockey Club, which has had its quarters there ever since it was built, will move to the new office structure lately finished in Forty-fifth Street, near Fifth Avenue, and the Fencers' Club has obtained rooms in the Tilden Building, in Fortieth Street, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue.

The Windsor Arcade occupies the site of the Windsor Hotel, which was burned, with considerable loss of life, on March 17, 1899, the fire starting while the St. Patrick's Day parade was passing. The hotel had had a long and successful career. Two years after the fire the construction of the Windsor Arcade was begun. Although not intended as a permanent building, it set a new standard in the city for structures of the taxpayer sort. Charles I. Berg, architect of the Gillender Building, lately torn down, on the corner of Wall and Nassau Streets, was the architect, and it was constructed throughout in the best possible manner, and gave a decided impetus to the establishment of a commercial centre on the avenue between Forty-second and Fiftieth Streets.

With the passing away of the arcade the transformation of the avenue in that vicinity will be well-nigh complete. The old Lotos Club, adjoining the southwest corner of Forty-sixth Street, has been torn down, and the new six-story structure for the Knoedler art firm is nearly completed. The old Gould house, owned by Miss Helen Gould, still stands on the northeast corner of Forty-seventh Street, and several other old-time houses are in the block. The late residence of D. O. Mills, at 634 Fifth Avenue, has just been torn down, and an eight-story loft building is being erected there, while immediately adjoining, on the southwest corner of Fifty-first Street, is a twelve-story apartment house. The vacant northeast corner of Fifty-second Street was sold this week by Robert E. Dowling, and a high business building is to go up there, while last Thursday the old Woodbury G. Langdon residence, on the southeast corner of Fifty-sixth Street, was leased for a long term by a firm of operators, who will erect a twelve-story apartment hotel, with stores, on the ground floor.

The new Sloane building, on the Forty-seventh Street corner of the arcade, is to be ready for occupancy in the Spring of 1912, and the new Goelet building, on the adjoining Forty-sixth Street corner, will probably be ready at the same time.

DEFEATED CANDIDATE GUILTY

W. A. Stuart, Who Ran for Congress, Sent to Jail for Forgery.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 7.—William A. Stuart defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Fifth Wisconsin District, last Fall, was to-day found guilty of "uttering a false document," and was sentenced to eighteen months in the House of Correction. He fainted, falling at the feet of his wife, as he was being led from the courtroom.

Stuart was arrested in Cincinnati about two months ago. He was charged with obtaining $300 from Eli Secor by forging the signature of the Secretary of a mining company.

60 MEN ARE CAUGHT IN A BURNING MINE

MANY BODIES RECOVERED

Special to The New York Times.

SCRANTON, April 7.—Between sixty and seventy-five mine workers, of whom a few were boys, lost their lives in the Dunmore, also called the China, vein, of the Pancoast colliery, at Throop, to-day. The work of rescue is still in progress. Twenty bodies have been brought to the surface. It is not believed that any of the entombed men will be found alive. Most of them were foreigners, speaking little if any English. Several mine officials, however, are among the victims. Those known to be in the affected chamber are:

KNIGHT, WALTER, mine foreman.
DAWE, ISAAC, fire boss.
BALLOG, GEORGE, aged 30, miner; Throop.
KASO, ADAM, aged 36, miner; Throop.
OLORKY, STEPHEN, aged 16, driver boy; Throop.
McWATER, THOMAS.
WALLACE, JAMES.
LUCAS, HENRY.
GALL, MICHAEL.
EVANS, JOSEPH M., Federal life saver;
BERRY, JOHN R., City Councilman;
MAY, JOHN.
ROTHWELL, HARRY.

The other bodies discovered are those of foreigners.

The Dunmore vein is 750 feet below the surface, a fact which greatly impedes the work of rescue, making fire-fighting difficult. The colliery is owned by the Scranton Coal Company, affiliated with the New York, Ontario & Western Company.

The fire which caused the mine horror was due to some unknown cause, and began in the engine house at the foot of the shaft, about 10 o'clock this morning. Many attribute it to spontaneous combustion. At that time there were 300 men and boys in the various veins and chambers of the mine.

The flames set off various accumulations of gas, which increased the difficulty, and doubtless increased the loss of life. The crowds about the mine are seething with excitement. It was difficult to obtain a coherent statement from any one. About the head of the shaft were thousands of people, including the relatives and friends of the men entombed. Ropes had to be stretched to keep back the throng and to prevent a stampede when the bodies were brought out.

The company officials acted with the greatest promptness when they learned the extent of the disaster. But once started, the fire spread with remarkable rapidity. It caught in the timbering of the shaft and spread along the gangway. It seized upon everything that it could devour, and interposed its wall of flame between the men who were in the distant chambers of the Dunmore vein and upper sections. As soon as it was seen that the fire was baffling the efforts to subdue it, word was sent for the Government rescue car at Kingston, sixteen miles distant, and this was hurried forward at once, bringing four men equipped with apparatus, including helmets resembling those of divers, for penetrating into smoke and the dreaded fire damp. This was the first test of the rescue car and its crew. The helmeted men were the only ones that could enter the affected gangways up to a later hour, and they recovered the bodies found.

The only man brought out alive from the zone of the fire was Joseph Vickers, a fire boss. Shortly after 10 o'clock Vickers, finding the fire was becoming dangerous, ran down the gangway, accompanied by a companion, to give the alarm. Before they had gone far their lights went out. Vickers realized his danger and started back. He missed his companion. He managed to get by the worst place on his return, but had gone only a little way beyond it when he was overcome by smoke. Hours later he was found by the fire-fighters. It was a long while before he recovered consciousness. He told the mine officials that there was absolutely no hope for the other men in the mine.

"They perished hours ago," he said. "Nobody could live many minutes in such a place. The workings are filled with smoke, and there is no way for the entombed men to get air."

The three bodies first recovered were found only a short distance from the fire, showing that the men who were driven to the end of the workings to escape the smoke have absolutely no chance of escape.

Joseph Birtley, mine foreman of the Scranton Coal Company, directed the fire-fighting and rescue work. Later he was joined by General Supt. William L. Allen, Outside Foreman John E. Jones, and Inside Foreman Paul Bright. They summoned the company's available fire-fighting force and also all the carpenter force. For a time great effort was being made to get as much air as possible into the gangway where the miners were imprisoned. To do this all the other portions of the mine were shut down.

One of the Government rescue men at 4:15 o'clock said that the fire in the Dunmore vein had just been put out, and they were about to proceed in search of the missing. It was a little after this that the three bodies were found, but they were not far from the shaft. They must have struggled to the places where they were found in a desperate dash for safety.

Joseph Evans, in charge of the Government rescue car, was suffocated, owing to the fact that his helmet was defective, and died to-night.

An explanation of the spread of the fire was made in the statement that, owing to the depth of the Dunmore vein, it was afternoon before it was possible to get water on the fire. When a hose was finally turned on the blazing chamber the firemen worked at great personal danger. Later, the rescue squads had to proceed with the greatest caution, otherwise their lives would have been added to those lost. Other of the mining companies sent officials and offers of assistance to the Pancoast Mine, but as many men as could be used were already available. Assistance was accepted from eight members of the Lackawanna First Aid crew.

It was announced at 10 o'clock to-night that the rescue party had found between sixty and seventy bodies, far down in the China, or Dunmore vein, about 2,000 feet from the shaft, where the victims had evidently retreated for safety.

Among the dead is John R. Perry, Councilman of the First Ward of this city, who volunteered to aid in the work of rescue. At a late hour the bodies of the dead were being collected and piled at the foot of the shaft.

Charles Enzian, the noted mining expert, in general charge of mine rescue work for the Federal Government, who came on from Wilkesbarre, was also overcome and is in a serious condition to-night.

Joseph R. Dickson, President of the Scranton Coal Company, said last night at his home in Morristown, N. J.:

"From information available it is not possible to tell how the fire started. It is probable that one of the men employed around the engine house threw a lighted cigarette or cigar into a pile of oil-soaked waste, or the fire may have started from an overheated journal; but this is highly improbable, because the overheating of a journal is always detected before it reaches the danger point.

"No precaution known to mining science was omitted at this mine. I simply cannot understand how the thing happened."

WOMAN CANNOT BE MAYOR.

Mrs. Wilson Counted Out After Decision in Her Favor.

HUNNEWELL, Kan., April 7.—After winning the Mayoralty of Hunnewell, Mrs. Ella Wilson was counted out to-day by the old City Council and the certificate of election given to her opponent, O. H. Akers, who is Town Clerk.

When the vote was counted Monday night a tie was found. A law was discovered directing a casting of lots by the Judges. When the slips were drawn Mrs. Wilson won. The Judges made a return showing her election. The council counted the ballots to-day and reported Akers had one more vote tnan Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson has engaged lawyers to contest the count.

AMERICAN BIDS LOWEST.

Tenders for Chilean Battleship Below Those of European Firms.

VALPARAISO, Chile, April 7.—The American tenders for the construction of a battleship of 26,000 tons for Chile, it is announced, are the lowest of all those received.

The European bidders submitted their bids to the Chilean Naval Commission in London, while the American bidders, of whom there were three, submitted their bids to the Chilean Legation at Washington.

AMERICAN WOMAN HURT.

Miss Rose Forster Thrown from Horse in Boulogne-sur-Seine.

PARIS, April 7.—Miss Rose Forster, an American, living in Boulogne-sur-Seine, was thrown from a frightened horse on the Avenue de la Grande Armée to-day and, her head striking the pavement, she was critically injured.

AN EDITOR'S RETIREMENT.

Arthur G. Burgoyne Lectures on Thirty Years in Journalism.

PITTSBURG, April 7.—Arthur G. Burgoyne, editor, poet, musician, and linguist, a widely known newspaper man, to-night delivered a farewell address at the Carnegie Institute on the eve of his retirement from journalism, necessitated by a serious physical breakdown. For some years Mr. Burgoyne has been connected with The Chronicle-Telegraph.

A large audience, composed of men prominent in business, professional and political life, listened to the address on "Thirty Years of Journalism."

LORIMER IS IN CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Senator William Lorimer arrived here early to-day from Johnstown, Penn., where he yesterday investigated a mining device in company with a Chicago engineer. The Senator went directly to the La Salle Street National Bank, where he spent the early part of the day looking after his bank.

He declined to be interviewed in connection with the proceedings of the Helm committee at Springfield, or with the story told before the committee by Clarence S. Funk of the International Harvester Company that his company had turned down an opportunity to contribute to an alleged $100,000 fund to elect the Senator.

SETON'S GEESE RETURN.

Naturalist Clipped Their Wings Last Year—Thought They Were Stolen.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., April 7.—Naturalist Ernest Thompson Seton and the employes on the Seton place, Wyndygoul, near Cos Cob, were disturbed early this morning by the calling of a small flock of wild geese which were to be seen circling over Pipe Stem Lake in the woodland estate of the author. After circling for about half an hour over the lake the wild fowl alighted in the sight of a number of people and began to swim contentedly over the lake and take their morning meal.

There were seven geese in the flock. They were identified by clipped wings as part of a flock which was at Wyndygoul last Fall.

CLASON POINT COASTER FIRE.

Nearly an Hour Before Firemen Got to Work—Fireboat Helps.

Peter Killian losa coat containing $100 in bils khen fire destroyed the Royal Geoge rroller coaster at Clason Point yesterday afternoon. Killian was an employe of the owner of the coaster. The coaster burned to the ground. It was valued at $10,000.

The volunteer Fire Department could get no water to fight the fire, and it was forty minutes before the first fire company arrived from Unionport. Ten minutes later an engine company from Intervale Avenue and 169th Street, Bronx, reached the fire. The fireboat Zophar Mills also came to help, but its streams could not reach the burning coaster.

The Clason Point property owners, whose petition for a fire company was recently denied, intend to renew their application to Fire Commissioner Waldo.

TAXI AND AUTO MEET HEAD ON

When a motor car in which he was riding ran head on into a taxicab last night at Edgecombe Avenue and 142d Street, eight-year-old Alfred, son of Henry Guttman, a furniture manufacturer at 127 West Twenty-fourth Street, living at 601 West 174th Street, was cut in his face. He was sitting beside his father, who was driving the car.

Ida Rott, 18 years old, of 153 West 142d Street, who was in the taxicab, received a bruised forehead, and Daniel Witti, 35 years old, of the same address, was cut under his right eye. John Rott and a woman also were in the taxicab, but were not hurt. Mrs. Guttman and her daughter, Selma, who were riding in the tonneau of the touring car, were severely shaken up.

FOUR FIREMEN OVERCOME.

Smoke from Burning Straw Knocks Them Out in a Charlton St. Warehouse.

Four firemen of Engine 30, at Spring Street, near Hudson, were overcome by smoke last night at a fire on the third floor of a warehouse at 134 Charlton Street. They were saved by their comrades, and one, Charles Sykes, was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Sykes and William Trice went to the third floor with the first line of hose and found a quantity of straw afire, giving forth smoke in dense clouds. Sykes fell and Trice called to his companions to save him. Edward Rogers and Thomas Calvin came to his assistance, and all were overcome.

All were dragged out by firemen wearing smoke helmets. The blaze was extinguished after it had caused a loss estimated at [illegible].

PASSENGERS OFF; LINER STILL FAST

TRANSFERRED IN FIVE HOURS

CAPTAIN TELLS HIS STORY

Every Precaution Taken, So That the Accident Is Incomprehensible to Him—Left on the Irene with the Crew.

The 1,720 passengers, all but 285 of them from the steerage of the stranded North German Lloyd liner, which ran aground before dawn on Thursday morning on Fire Island, are aboard the Irene's sister ship, the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, at Quarantine, waiting to be landed at the Hoboken pier of the company at 6 o'clock this morning.

The transfer of the passengers was made yesterday afternoon while a heavy sea was running. It was accomplished in the record time of five hours and ten minutes and was without accident. Tugs and lifeboats working in concert furnished the means of the transfer.

The Prinzess Irene, manned now only by her officers and crew of 380 men, is lying where she struck on Thursday morning. Her stern has been pulled a few degrees away from its original position, but otherwise the situation of the boat is unchanged. Life savers predict that it will take a week—perhaps longer—to move her.

Capt. Peterssen gave an interview in his cabin aboard the Prinzess Irene yesterday afternoon to a reporter for THE TIMES, who reached the Irene from the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. The Captain told of the bad weather encountered since his ship left Gibraltar, and of the difficulty he had experienced in taking observations. He explained that the last day or so was sailed by dead reckoning, and that when he struck the sandpit he thought his vessel was seven miles off shore.

Carrying a full equipment of wrecking apparatus and a large crew, the wrecking lighter Henry Seymour left the harbor late yesterday in tow of the tug Charles T. Gallagher, to go to the aid of the Irene. The lighter should reach the stranded steamer this evening.

CAPT. PETERSSEN'S STORY.

He Tells a Times Reporter of His Voyage and Accident.

This interview, with Capt. von Letten Peterssen, master of the stranded North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene, was obtained at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his cabin on the Irene by a reporter for THE NEW YORK TIMES, who succeeded in landing at Quarantine late last night. Capt. Peterssen said:

"We left Gibraltar on Monday, March 27, at 6:05 P. M., and had rough weather to the Azores with west northwest winds. On April 3 there was very stormy weather, with a twenty-five-mile north northwest wind. On Tuesday, April 4, it was so hazy at noon I could not take an observation by the sun.

"I managed, however, to get a start at 6:50 o'clock that night, which was the last observation I made. From that time until we struck on the bar at 3:55 yesterday morning our course was laid by dead reckoning. The position of the ship, as I made it from the observations taken by the star, was latitude 39:24 north and longitude 63 west.

"On Wednesday, April 5, the weather at noon was very hazy with light rains and I could not see the horizon. I had soundings taken every hour, beginning at noon that day and found that they compared with those taken on the previous voyage in clear weather.

"At 8 o'clock that night we ran into a heavy fog and reduced our speed to four knots, just enough to keep steerage way on the ship. All the watertight bulkheads were closed as usual when the first blast of the fog horn sounded and they were kept shut until she went aground.

"The soundings were taken all through the night every hour, and there was nothing to indicate that we were running into the land. At 2 A. M. yesterday I was on the bridge with Second Officer Koennecke and Fourth Officer Vessering. There was a lookout in the bows and one in the crow's nest. The fog lifted then, and I told the lookout forward to go into the crow's nest with the other man and keep his eyes open for the Fire Island Lightship.

"Going by the soundings I judged that the ship was fifteen miles to the south of the lightship. I laid the course five degrees to the north and allowed two degrees for drifting, and believed that we should pass seven miles south of the lightship.

"A few minutes after four bells (2 o'clock) I gave the order to go full speed ahead, which is fourteen knots an hour. The horizon was clear four or five miles ahead. At 3:40 I was on the bridge and could not see any land.

"The ship was drawing 22 feet aft and 19½ feet forward. Suddenly, at 3:55 o'clock, I felt a shock as her keel went over the bar, and I knew that we were aground. I stopped the engines and then went full speed astern immediately in the hope of getting her off, but she did not move.

"The deadlights were lowered over the ports on the steerage deck so that the immigrants could not be alarmed at seeing land at hand when daylight came, and also in case of danger of the water coming in.

"The ballast tanks were pumped out, and I had the ship listed over to 45 degrees. With the aid of one good tug I could have got her off, but the wind rose and blew at the rate of twenty-four miles an hour from the southwest, which set her up again on an even keel."

Capt. Peterssen added that he had been eleven years in command of North German Lloyd liners in China, Australia, Argentine, and the Atlantic trade. This is his fourth year as Captain of the Prinzess Irene, and he has never had an accident before. He was confident, he said, that the ship would float at high water at 2 A. M. to-day.

The passengers of the Irene tell of a stormy trip. No observations could be made for three days. The Captain, looking ahead, saw what he supposed was part of the open sea, but which really was Great South Bay. The strip of sand separating it from the sea was concealed by the fog. The vessel brought up with a shock. All the passengers have words of praise for Capt. Peterssen.

There was some cheering at dinner on the Wilhelm to-night, and a eulogy of the skipper and praise for the officers and crew of the Irene.

TRANSFER OF THE PASSENGERS.

By Wireless Telegraph to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ON BOARD SS. PRINZ FRIEDRICH WILHELM via Sagaponack, L. I., April 7.—In a rolling swell the 1,720 cabin and steerage passengers of the stranded Prinzess Irene, aground on Fire Island, were transferred without accident to-day to the decks of this ship. The transfer was made by tugs and by lifeboats, and the whole work was marked by the utmost calm on the part of the rescued.

We reached a point three miles off shore and opposite the Prinzess Irene, just after noon to-day, and edged into eight fathoms of water feeling each foot of the way. There the anchor was dropped.

A yawl from the United States revenue cutter Seneca immediately put out and stood alongside us as a patrol and guard against an accident of the transfer. She was not needed.

A wireless from Capt. Peterssen of the Irene when the Wilhelm came to anchor stated that he was ready to transfer his passengers, but had some doubts as to the advisability of attempting it immediately in the sea that was running, and it was not until 2:33 o'clock that the tug John J. Timmons came alongside with 203 passengers aboard, the most of them Italians or Greeks in picturesque garb, not cheering, but gazing eagerly at our decks.

The tug made fast to our starboard side, and an accommodation ladder, sloping at an angle of 45 degrees, was lowered to her. Eleven men manned the ladder and assisted the passengers to mount it.

The passengers had to be boosted from the tug's deck to the ladder, and the first load of women and children were passed along from man to man. The Nichols came next with 253 passengers, and on her next trip the Timmons brought 400. The sea was dying down slightly now and the landing was expedited accordingly.

The first of the Irene's passengers to reach the Wilhelm's deck was Mollie Leonie, 3 months old, and after her came seven-year-old Antonio Deniello.

After the passengers had been transferred their baggage was brought from the Irene, the first piece aboard being a Parisian hatbox.

A Quarantine doctor aboard examined each person as he or she came over the side, and at 9:07 o'clock we hoisted anchor and set out for New York.

HOW SAYVILLE SAW RESCUE.

Special to The New York Times.

SAYVILLE, L. I., April 7.—The North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Irene, the bulk of her dimly outlined by the lights that gleam from her portholes, is lying to-night on the outer bar, where she grounded before dawn yesterday morning, her stern slightly less imbedded in the sand than when she landed, but otherwise much in the same position in which daylight found her.

Aboard of her, though, remain only her officers and crew, a company of 380 persons. The 1,720 passengers she carried, 285 of them in her cabins, are bound at last for New York aboard the Prinzess Irene's sister ship, the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. The Prinz Friedrich left here just after 9 o'clock to-night. She will be at Quarantine for the night and will land her passengers in Hoboken at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The transfer of the Prinzess Irene's passengers was made in brilliant sunlight, but in a sea which a northwest wind whipped into foam-crested breakers, things of danger for even the boats of the life savers, though an attempt was made at first to use these. The risk that these small boats ran was so obvious that most of the passengers were transferred direct from the decks of the Irene to that of the tug John J. Timmons.

The first passenger, a woman from the steerage, left the Prinzess Irene at 12:50 o'clock. The last went over the side at 6 o'clock. In the five hours and ten minutes intervening all of the 1,720 passengers were transferred, a record for such work, seamen here say, and they recall that it took eight hours to transfer the 900 passengers from the sinking Republic off No Man's Land two years ago.

Women—and there were women of the steerage, too—were the first to leave the ship, for, until the last of the immigrants below decks had been taken from the Prinzess Irene, her cabin passengers insisted on remaining aboard.

Among them all there was not one who showed the white feather. Greek and Italian women whose ignorance of any but their own language kept them from full knowledge of conditions which enheartened the cabin passengers went over the side, down shaky ladders with smiles on their lips and courage in their eyes. They hugged their babies a little closer to them, but they did not falter.

Nor did they falter as they were lifted or clambered aboard the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. At 9:07 o'clock the big steamship set her engines going and started away for Quarantine. It had taken her about three hours to come from New York, but she would be at anchor in Quarantine in very much shorter time.

Weather Improves with Morning.

Day broke with a haze hanging over the water and a wind still coming briskly from the southwest, as it had last night. But presently the sun began to burn away the mist, and by 8 o'clock white-capped waves were dancing beneath warm sunlight. On the Fire Island strand the life savers were huddled about their fire, as they had been when darkness fell, but the blaze that had been a beacon through the night was dying out. Coffee and a bite to eat took the cold out of the watchers, and a tramp to the shore as Capt. Goddard and his men were seen putting off from the Prinzess Irene, where they had spent the night, worked the stiffness out of their limbs.

The wind veered with the rising sun until it blew off shore from the northwest, a sheering of quarter the points of the compass. It was a good omen. Goddard and his men brought word that Capt. von Letten Peterssen and his crew were preparing to transfer their passengers to the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, whose approach they had heard of by wireless, and for which they were looking eagerly.

Accident Ages the Captain.

Capt. Goddard brought with him, too, what so far is the only explanation of the grounding of the Prinzess Irene. And the explanation was that the grounding was simply inexplicable to Capt. Peterssen.

"He looked like an old man," was the description which the life savers brought of the liner's skipper. "He was weighed down by worry and care. He seemed nearly overcome by his misfortune, but he couldn't explain it."

Capt. Goddard said he had seen Capt. Peterssen's log and that it recorded that just prior to the grounding the lead had marked 18 fathoms, and the speed of the vessel had been 15 knots. The speed, the life savers said, must have been at least this, since there is no depth of 18 fathoms within many yards of the sandspit on which the steamship now lies.

Capt. Goddard said that Capt. Peterssen had told him that he had made three voyages over the identical course he was pursuing when he struck ground, taking the same sounding and the same reckoning. It was this that made the accident inexplicable to him, and which weighed more on his mind than if he had struck when knowingly off his course.

Passengers Showed No Fear.

Of the conduct of the passengers aboard Capt. Goddard had the highest praise. He said that while the steerage passengers had been a trifle nervous, they had been no more than this and had been easily calmed. The cabin passengers, whatever might have been their inner feelings, kept up their spirits in the presence of each other. Throughout the night, the Captain said, he had seen many parties of women playing bridge in the saloons or playing and singing about the pianos. Concerts given by the ship's band also served to keep up the spirits of all hands.

With them from the ship the life savers brought a line with which later to rig a whip for the breeches buoy if this should prove to be necessary. It was a precautionary move only, said Capt. Goddard.

The sea was still too high to attempt a transfer of the passengers from the stranded steamer to any of the many boats which hovered about in the neighborhood waiting for the chance to offer relief, and aboard the Prinzess Irene there was nothing to do but hope for a calming of the sea and await the arrival of the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm. Ashore the life savers busied themselves with the lifeboats, Capt. Goddard getting all three of the Lone Hill Station's boats down to the beach ready to launch.

Rescuing Liner Heaves in Sight.

This work was still in progress when shortly before noon the outline of the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm became visible on the horizon, and she steamed steadily toward the Prinzess Irene. Those aboard the stranded ship evidently sighted her as soon as the life savers, for presently a string of signal flags broke out on the Prinzess Irene. They spelled "F. I.," and by the code the life savers translated this into "Send a boat suitable for landing passengers."

The men aboard the derelict destroyer Seneca and the United States revenue cutter Mohawk evidently read the signal, too, for there was bustle on both these ships. Before they got boats over the side, however, a second signal was broken out alongside the first. This spelled out the letters "S. O. R.," and meant "Send from shore."

In response, Capt. Goddard gathered his crew together, a crew garbed in high boots almost to their hips, oil skins, and sou'westers. They manned their craft, half a dozen to a side, and awaiting the proper moment rushed it down into the sea. But a huge comber swept in on them almost as they were about to vault over the sides of their boat. It swept them from their feet and tossed their craft back on shore, broadside to the waves. There was nothing for it but to turn the water out and try again. This the men did as soon as they had scrambled ashore themselves, but the process was repeated six times before the boat got away.

Capt. Goddard, weatherbeaten and wiry, stood in the stern sheets, manning the stern oar. He steered straight for the Prinzess Irene, and in a few moments had brought his craft alongside under the lee of the vessel, where the sea was comparatively calm.

The Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm was coming in fast now, and presently went to anchor about a mile at sea from the Prinzess Irene. A cheer went up from the passengers on the stranded ship as they saw relief in sight.

It was after 12:30 now, and presently those ashore could see an accommodation ladder being lowered over the bow of the stranded ship. Capt. Goddard steered his life boat directly beneath it, and from the shore a shout arose as a woman was seen to descend the ladder, helped by sailors above until one of the brawny life savers, standing astraddle of a thwart, reached up and caught her in his arms, to pass her along toward the stern sheets, where she was seated safely out of the way.

On the yellow strip of beach was gathered almost all of Sayville. The townsfolk had come over in oyster boats, rowboats, motor boats, and craft of all kind. More than fifty women rode over in a barge towed by a broken-down launch, and when they found that shoal water would not let them within 100 feet of the shore, came the rest of the way astride the shoulders of an old fisherman, who brought them one by one to the beach, across which they ran to the ocean side to watch the rescue.

From Point o' Woods Capt. Baker and his men rowed their lifeboat the six miles to where the rescue was being made and, then, loading the boat on to a beach cart, dragged it, with fifty men at the rope, across the strand to the ocean, where they launched it as Capt. Goddard and his crew had done, only after many trials. By the time Capt. Baker reached the ship, Capt. Rourke of the Blue Point Life Saving Station was already under way, and Capt. Goddard had pulled away with ten women and a baby.

Capt. Rourke took a similar load and Capt. Baker another. Capt. Goddard, meanwhile, had kept his men pulling along the lee of the Prinzess Irene in calm water, apparently not anxious to venture into the mass of white caps beyond.

One Tug Gets Alongside.

On the tugs John J. Timmons and John Nichols his difficulty was seen and appreciated, and with the precision of men-o'-war manoeuvring before an audience the two tugs executed a brilliant piece of seamanship. They steamed into parallel positions aft of the Prinzess Irene so that before rough water could more than strike the lifeboat it had an opportunity to come under the lee of one of them again into calm water. Capt. Goddard swept into the lee of the Nichols, and then the skipper of the Timmons, seeing an opportunity, improved even on the work already accomplished. He slipped quickly, in a momentary calm, beneath the stern counter of the Prinzess Irene, nestling snugly beneath the overhang of her stern, where he made fast.

Capt. Goddard and the other two boats instantly put back to this new haven, and presently all three had landed their loads on the wide decks of the Timmons. It was after 1 o'clock now, and boats put out from the Mohawk and Seneca and from the Relief and the I. J. Merritt of the Merritt-Chapman fleet.

To the Tugs by Rowboat.

Soon there were ten boats taking passengers from the bow of the Prinzess Irene and carrying them aft in the lee of the big vessel to the decks of the Timmons. As the Timmons got her full complement she put off for the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, and the Nichols moved into her place. Thus the work of transfer was carried rapidly on, no effort being made to move the passengers directly from the Prinzess Irene to the decks of the Timmons, because of the difficulty of rigging the necessary ladder. It seemed less dangerous to shift them from boat to boat.

With the steerage passengers safely off the ship, the officers were willing to allow the calmer cabin inmates to descend the shaky ladders from the high stern of the Irene to the decks of the Timmons or the Nichols, far below.

Women tumbled over the side and down the ladders with as much courage and confidence as the men, and when the last passenger had left the Irene there was not an accident to report.

Took Steerage Baggage, Too.

It took three trips each by the Timmons and the Nichols to get all the passengers from the Irene to the Wilhelm, and then the Timmons made another trip for the baggage of the immigrants. It had become clear, early in the day, that most of the Greeks and Italians on board were more concerned about their baggage than they were about their own lives, and it required all the persuasive powers the men and officers of the Irene possessed to get some of them to leave the ship with their goods still aboard.

In the transfer the lifeboats did yeoman service. Capt. Goddard made twelve trips from bow to stern of the Irene, carrying 216 passengers in all. Capt. Baker carried 116 in about seven trips, and Capt. Rourke conveyed 250.

Darkness was falling as the last of the passengers were put aboard the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, and it was quite dark before the last of the baggage had been put aboard, to the intense satisfaction of the immigrants, who lined the rail of the rescuing ship until they saw their goods safely aboard.

Stranded Liner May Stay a Week.

And then the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm steamed away. Behind her she left the Prinzess Irene lying like a spider in her own huge net—a net composed of hawsers which the rescuing tugs have stretched from winches aboard the liner to their own decks, and which already have been strained to the breaking point in an effort to move the huge steamer.

It may be a week, Capt. Goddard says, that the Prinzess Irene must lie as she lies now, and the life savers believe there is grave danger for her safety if a southwest storm blows up. She is imbedded in sand from stem to stern, and the seas and winds rock her. So far her plates and her watertight compartments are sound, but what would happen if a heavy sea were to pound her for hours at a time the life savers don't pretend to guess. She might hold safely together or she might open her plates and her compartments. It is for one of these things that Capt. Peterssen and his crew of 380 are waiting now. None knows which.

THE PASSENGERS' STORIES.

Some Were Not Awakened by the Shock.

Cabin passengers who were taken from the Prinzess Irene had tales to tell TIMES reporters on the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm after reaching that vessel of the calmness with which the steerage passengers had taken the news that they were aground. The lack of panic among them was remarkable, said the cabin passengers, who seemed to think it of no account that they themselves had had the courage to while away the time playing bridge or listening to the band.

Dr. Ernesto Mensi, who is an Italian Royal Commissioner, especially assigned to the Prinzess Irene, and Dr. E. Oteri, the Italian surgeon on board, were primarily responsible for the quiet with which the steerage passengers took the situation, according to other passengers. Dr. Mensi and Dr. Oteri disclaimed credit, although admitting that they had done what they could to encourage their countrymen.

"I had been kept awake most of the night by the fog horn," said Dr. Mensi, "and I was sleeping very lightly when the ship struck. It seemed as though I knew instantly what had happened, and springing from my berth I shouted to Dr. Oteri:

"'We're aground. Jump for the steerage and quiet 'em.'

"We got to the steeerage as soon as we could dress and found the immigrants more or less excited. Women and children were crying, but it seemed to be more through terror of the unknown than through a realization of what had happened. The closing of the dead lights seemed to have upset many of them, and Dr. Oteri and myself quickly reassured them. Once they knew that land was at hand, and that they were in no danger they went back to sleep."

Most of the immigrants came from Palermo, said Dr. Mensi. Almost all of them were Sicilians.

Brig. Gen. A. C. Girard, U. S. A., retired, was a passenger on the Prinzess Irene. He was awakened by the shock of grounding, and said he realized instantly what had happened. He said there was no excitement among the cabin passengers.

"Some of them didn't even arise," said he, "and I believe they were not awakened."

Experiences of St. Louis Man.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Freeman, with their eighteen-year-old daughter, Ellen, who live in St. Louis, were among the passengers. Mr. Freeman corroborated the testimony of other passengers concerning the calmness with which the accident had been taken.

"I was aroused by the shock, and in my half sleepy state I thought we had dropped anchor at Quarantine," said Mr. Freeman. "Many of the passengers were not awakened at all, apparently, for they did not leave their cabins. If we could have got off immediately after striking I believe many of them would not have known that there had been an accident until they reached New York."

Mrs. C. F. Pfaffmann of 200 West Eighty-sixth Street and her mother, Mrs. Annie Pearson, who lives with her, had a cabin close to the steerage. Mrs. Pfaffmann said that when the ship struck there was considerable excitement in the steerage until Dr. Mensi and Dr. Oteri reached their countrymen. Afterward there seemed to be no excitement at all.

"Thursday we spent pleasantly aboard the Irene," said Mrs. Pfaffmann. "The ship did not rock and there was no excitement. We all waited, sure of a rescue in time. It was a little worse this morning, for the steerage passengers had begun to be restless over the long wait."

Other passengers were the Rev. George B. Stone, an Episcopal clergyman from England, and his wife. They have traveled in many parts of the world, and Mrs. Stone is an accomplished linguist. When the ship struck and several times during the wait for the transfer Mrs. Stone made trips down to chat with the steerage women, talking with them in Italian, quieting those who were inclined to be nervous, and cheering those who had taken refuge and comfort in tears.

Both Dr. and Mrs. Stone united in saying that there had never been anything approaching a panic on the Irene, and that among the first and second-class passengers it was all taken in a most matter of fact way. Many of the passengers came down to breakfast yesterday morning ready to accept the assurances that all would be well, and not able to see very clearly what they could do about it anyway.

George W. Schluederberg of Pittsburg spoke of the bad weather which had been encountered throughout the trip and of the difficulty in taking observations. He spoke in the highest terms of the skill of the officers, and in this he was joined by every passenger who spoke at all.

Before leaving the ship the cabin passengers filed past Capt. Peterssen on his bridge to shake his hand and tell him of their confidence in him, of their regret for the accident, and of their hope that it would come out all right for him.

FIRST ABOARD RESCUING LINER.

An Italian Woman and Two Babies—Little Visible Trepidation.

The transfer of the passengers from the stranded liner, as seen by TIMES reporters from the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, was a strange spectacle. Looking down from the Friedrich, seventy men, who had been taken from the North German Lloyd pier at Hoboken, could be seen on the accommodation ladder, passing babies like so many bundles. The real bundles to which the immigrants clung seemed to be matters of far greater concern to them than their own safety or that of those about them.

Almost all the passengers of the stranded vessel made the transfer with a fair amount of good humor and no visible trepidation. Only those who made the passage in the lifeboats seemed to be really scared, but there was fear enough in those boats to make up for the rest of the party. As the boats would approach the side of the Friedrich Wilhelm and ride there dipping on the swells, the reluctant passengers had to be fairly dragged to the ladder and boosted up.

The first woman to reach the rescuing steamer was Priscilla Demello and two little children, one hardly more than a years old, followed as close seconds. Reporters asked their names with interest, but she declared they were not her children and that she did not know whose they were.

The two tugboats each made three trips, and on the second of these the John Timmins carried the heaviest load of the evening, taking off 415 passengers. Capt. Prehn of the Friedrich Wilhelm said that last evening's performance was probably the first time that a 17,000-top ship had got up steam and gone out as a tender. He said he would have been unable to set out early yesterday morning had he not feared he might run short of coal.

Many of the tugboat Captains who watched or shared in the transfer were decidedly skeptical when it was predicted that the stranded ship would be released from its present position very soon. They said the Irene seemed to have jumped squarely over the outer bar and must have struck on the inner bar. They thought her release would be a matter of days at least and of much effort. Her cargo is light, most of it Italian merchandise.

Of the passengers on the stranded ship there were 66 in the first cabin, 156 in the second cabin, and 1,485 in the steerage, of whom 56 were children and 4 were infants. When the ship struck eight men were in the hospital and four babies with their mothers, but there were no serious cases.

WAITING AT THE PIER.

Crowd Had Expected Passengers to Reach There Early This Morning.

At 9:10 o'clock last night Gustav Friedrichs, chief dock clerk on the pier of the steamship company at Hoboken, received a wireless message from Capt. Prehn of the Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm, saying that the vessel was under way, and would dock in Hoboken at 12:50 o'clock this morning.

This message was sent to the telegraph offices, and they in turn sent it to all persons who had requested to be kept informed so that they might meet relatives and friends when the liner arrived.

On the pier last night there were many persons awaiting the arrival of the ship. Capt. George Stenken, in charge of the docking, had a large force of men and several tugs waiting.

At 10:45 P. M., however, there came another wireless message from Capt. Prehn asking that he might be allowed to anchor off Quarantine for the night. Mr. Friedrichs took this message to Capt. Max Moeller, Superintendent of the North German Lloyd, who is sick in bed at his home in Hoboken. After a long consultation over the telephone with officials in the New York offices it was decided, at midnight, that the Friedrich Wilhelm should remain at Quarantine during the night and make the remainder of the trip early in the morning.

FIRE ISLAND WRECK IN 1657.

Prins Mauritius Grounded There, but 128 Passengers and Crew Were Saved

In connection with the stranding of the Prinzess Irene on Fire Island, it is of interest to know that one of the first shipwrecks ever recorded in the vicinity of New York occurred in 1657, at nearly the same time of the year, when the little Dutch ship Prins Mauritius went ashore at about the same spot.

In 1655 Peter Stuyvesant made the conquest of "New Sweden," and the following year Jacob Alrichs was appointed its Governor. Early in 1657 the Commissioners and Governor of the new colony sailed from Holland in the Prins Mauritius to Fort New Amsterdam. Their goods and merchandise being conveyed in the ships De Bever and Gelderse Bloom. The last two named arrived safely in New Amsterdam, but the Prins Mauritius, with the Governor for the new colony on the Delaware and his company of settlers, grounded on Fire Island. There were 128 persons on the little ship, but no lives were lost.

Gov. Alrichs applied to the authorities at New Amsterdam for assistance, dispatching messengers with a letter, in which he said:

> We had hoped and wished to reach the Manhattans, but unfortunately we stranded at a certain place situate opposite Long Island, near a river called by the savages, or the bearer of this, Sichtewach. The people have been saved, and we hope to get most of the goods ashore, if it so pleases our Lord God; all this with great difficulties, troubles, and labor, which is daily expended on it, to prevent further losses, in great cold and hard freezing.
> As the ship Prins Mauritius has stranded here, and is in a situation as if it were upon its burial ground, I am obliged to ask for your Honors' good advice and help herein. * * * In the meantime I expect your answer and a small vessel, with a pilot and three or four seamen who know this place and are conversant with it, to see what could be gathered and saved yet.

This appeal for aid was addressed "To the Honorable Worshipful, Wise, and Prudent Gentlemen, the Honorable Director General and Council in New Netherland at the Manhattans, by two savages." Gov. Stuyvesant himself went to the scene to carry assistance. The yacht De Eendracht took the passengers and cargo to New Amsterdam.

All efforts to float the Prins Mauritius proved fruitless, but all the 128 persons on board, of whom were many children, passed safely through the waves and over the ice to the shore.

BANKERS ASK FACTS ON GUARANTEE FUND

Those in Oklahoma, Aroused by Reports of Mismanagement, Call Secret Meeting.

REBEL AT NEW ASSESSMENT

Special to The New York Times.

GUTHRIE, Okla., April 7.—State bankers of Oklahoma are at the present time urging an early convention of State bankers to discuss behind closed doors the condition of the bank guarantee fund, together with the official report, not yet made public, of the fund's condition as found by examiners employed by the State Bankers' Association, and to demand a Grand Jury investigation if the report shows, as understood, that it has been mismanaged and misapplied.

Only on one condition, the bankers state in letters demanding a convention, will they pay any more guarantee fund assessments, and that is absolute proof that the fund has been honestly administered.

Whether they will be able to obtain a convention must yet develop, but indications are that they will force one if peaceful efforts fail. If the guarantee report shows crookedness a demand will be made of Gov. Cruce that all guilty parties be punished.

Many things have happened recently to cause the guarantee system to totter. The climax was reached, however, when, without making public the report of the guarantee fund's condition, the State authorities made an additional assessment of 1 per cent. in March on the average daily deposits of the 700 State banks in Oklahoma. The bankers demanded a report before they paid, and many have not yet met the assessment.

The failure of the Planters and Mechanics' Bank at Oklahoma City yesterday is taken by State bankers to indicate a hastening of the end. Although the Columbia Bank and Trust Company failed in Oklahoma City in September, 1909, no report has ever been made public regarding the causes, and a Grand Jury investigation of the failure was stopped by the then Governor, Haskell.

Including the 1 per cent. assessment recently made, the total assessments thus far made on the average daily deposits of State banks since the guarantee law went into effect in February, 1908, aggregate 3 3-20 per cent., and in addition there was assessed last year 1 per cent. on the increased deposits of the banks.

The total paid into the fund amounts to more than $1,500,000. The total assessments in many instances takes 10 per cent. of the capital from every bank the deposits of which are ten times its capital stock, and in some instances the assessment takes from 11 to 12 per cent. of the capital. These figures are based on the supposition that the last 1 per cent. assessment will be paid.

Altogether thirty State banks have nationalized and four have merged with National banks since the 1 per cent. assessment was recently made. The total deposits of the banks nationalizing amount to $5,000,000 in round figures.

The Controller of the Currency announced that sixty-five applications from Oklahoma State banks to nationalize are still pending. The rate of nationalizing has been one per day, and in every instance the reason for changing given is to escape the burden of the guarantee system.

The State is now contending that banks which have nationalized since the 1 per cent. assessment was made must still pay it, but such banks are organizing to resist it. The banks which have nationalized include many of the largest financial institutions in the State. They have heretofore operated under the guarantee law, but the exceeding unpopularity of the guarantee system among bankers and other drastic laws in force have caused the change to be brought about.

Of the banks that have changed the capital stock is said to range from $25,000 to $100,000. The last includes the Central Reserve Bank of Oklahoma City, the largest State bank in Oklahoma, which has two former State Bank Commissioners, who enforced the guarantee law, among its officers—A. M. Young, President, and E. B. Cockrell, Vice President. It has merged with the Oklahoma City National.

State bankers have recently heard a report, too, that still another assessment, perhaps of 1 per cent., is to be made in the near future, for the purpose of replenishing the guarantee fund. Heretofore the State bankers have not resisted the law, fearful of their depositors' wrath and of the alleged power of the State to close banks that refuse to pay assessments. But conditions have changed, and the State banks are no longer more popular with the people than are National banks, and the guarantee burden has proved in numerous instances even a detriment to business success.

Said one State banker to-day:

"The guarantee system means that the more business a bank gets the worse it is off, and there is no encouragement for a State banker to work up big deposits. It is but justice to Gov. Lee Cruce to state that he is making a sincere effort to save the guarantee system, but he is getting little support from State bankers themselves. He forced the Legislature to enact some safe guaranteeing laws for the fund's management, but State officers are admitting that the law is tottering, and will have trouble in holding its own."

THE ROAD TEMPTED BROKAW

So He Speeded and Pays $20 Fine—Woman Also Fined.

Howard C. Brokaw of 964 Fifth Avenue was arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Fitch in Jamaica on charges of automobile speeding. He was arrested on Hillside Avenue, between Jamaica and Queens. Brokaw said he had never been accused before of too fast driving, but admitted that he was going faster than the regulation speed. When asked why he had speeded he replied:

"Well, there was a straightaway road for three miles and the temptation was too great." He paid a fine of $20.

Joseph Berling, chauffeur for Mrs. A. B. Hannan of 1,222 Albemarle Road, Flatbush, was accused of making thirty-five miles an hour on Hillside Avenue. Mrs. Hannan told the Magistrate that she had told her chauffeur to go faster as there was a clear track ahead and no possible danger. The court said it was not a question of a clear track or of there being no danger, but of a violation of the law. The chauffeur was fined $20. Mrs. Hannan didn't have that much with her, but the chauffeur did, and paid.

Frederick Starr, a contractor of 984 Riverside Drive, explained that he had speeded on Hillside Avenue because he heard a loud chugging behind him and was afraid that his machine might be run into. It turned out that the chugging was the noise of the exhaust of the machine of the motor cycle policeman chasing him. He was fined $20, and paid $10 on account.

BIDE-A-WEE GETS NEW HOME.

Forced Suddenly to Move, It Will Open Quarters on Monday in Times Square.

The Bide-a-Wee Home, at 244 East Sixty-fifth Street will establish new headquarters and a receiving station in the Triangle Building in Times Square on next Monday. The new place at 716 Seventh Avenue will be not only headquarters, but receiving Station No. 1 for animals.

As soon as sufficient funds are available it is the home's intention to open a string of such receiving stations in different parts of the city. The home is now negotiating for the lease of a building in West Thirty-sixth Street, which will be used as an animal hospital.

The home received notice to vacate its present quarters a little while ago, and had some difficulty in providing new ones on short notice.

It is now caring for 200 dogs, 150 cats, and 4 horses, and is in need of an ambulance and horses.

SUES PLYMOUTH'S PASTOR.

Engineer Wants $51,000 from Coal Deal—Dr. Hillis Has His Receipt.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 7.—The Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, was sued here to-day by Edward Hodgson, a Victoria mining engineer, for $50,000 worth of stock in the Western Steel Corporation, as well as $1,000 wages alleged to be due for development services in connection with the coal lands on Graham Island, B. C.

It was stated that the plaintiff undertook to examine coal lands for Mr. Hillis, and that he was instrumental in putting through a deal by which the Western Steel Corporation of Seattle and Vancouver acquired them. It is alleged that when the sale was consummated and Mr. Hillis received more than $250,000 worth of stock, Hodgson was forgotten.

The attention of Dr. Hillis was called last night to the dispatch telling of the suit brought by Edward Hodgson in Vancouver.

"I did employ a man named Hodgson to examine some coal deposits that had been found on my property on Graham Island," said Dr. Hillis, "but I have had for eighteen months his receipt for payment in full for his services and have not employed him since. He has made no demand on me for money, but recently I heard from the President of the Western Steel Corporation that he had sought money from that company. I had nothing to do with the organization of that corporation, although it bought my property. If Mr. Hodgson has any claim in connection with this purchase it must be against the company."

WOULD AMEND FIRE LAWS.

Central Federation Will Ask Legislature to Make Enforcement Mandatory.

Thomas J. Curtis of the Legislative Committee of the Central Federated Union told a meeting of that body last night that his committee will ask legislation for the prevention of fire disasters, and will ask the Legislature to make the enforcement of statutes designed to assure the safety of employes mandatory instead of discretionary.

Ida Rauh of the Woman's Trade Union League told the Federation that 400,000 working girls in the city, 800,000 in the State, and 6,000,000 in the Nation need the ballot to obtain protection. The delegates gave her a vote of thanks.

DEFEAT FOR BRYAN IN SENATE CAUCUS

or not. No question of policy was discussed at the caucus, and a resolution offered by Mr. Owen, dividing, for purposes of committee assignments, the Senators into three groups, according to seniority and giving each group equal representation, was so sharply criticised that he withdrew it.

TROUBLES OF LEADER MANN.

Democrats Unfair with Committees, He Says—May Supplant Longworth.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—It will only be by dint of much hard work that Mr. Mann, the minority leader of the House, will be able to get his committee appointments in shape so that the House may ratify the selection of both majority and minority members of the committees on Monday and be in shape to begin work on the legislative programme of the session.

There was a running conference all day in Mr. Mann's room, all the Republican leaders, including Mr. Payne of New York, Currier of New Hampshire, McKinley of Illinois, Haugen of Iowa, Gardner of Massachusetts, and the most acceptable insurgent members being called in by telephone invitation from time to time.

There were two kinds of insurgents to deal with in making up the committees. One is the old and unterrified sort who to the last refused to submit to Cannonism, and voted for a very good man, Mr. Cooper of Wisconsin, for Speaker, and the larger number who under the leadership of Mr. Madison of Kansas fell over themselves to get Mr. Mann to take the leadership rather than serve under Mr. Cannon.

The insurgents of the Madison type are now very sorry they asked Mr. Mann to run, because they are bound to line up with him and their reputation as progressives has suffered just at a time when their brethren in the Senate have won an unparalleled victory over the regulars.

Mr. Mann, however, is showing greater sagacity than Mr. Cannon ever did in like circumstances, and is treating all the insurgents with a velvet hand. He assured Messrs. Cooper and Nelson of Wisconsin, Madison of Kansas, Hubbard, Good, and Kendall of Iowa, and Norris of Nebraska to-day that they should all have full and fair representation on the committees so far as it lay in his power to take care of them.

One of the most crucial perplexities that has come up to the new Republican leader is a personal one with regard to his going on the Ways and Means Committee as ranking member. This is demanded, not only in obedience to the immemorial usages of the House, but also as a matter of profound necessity.

The minority leader must have full knowledge of what goes on in the Ways and Means Committee room as far as he may be able to know, in order on the floor to lead the minority in debate against the tariff assaults of the majority.

If Mr. Mann is to go on Ways and Means it seems likely that Mr. Longworth of Ohio must retire. There are eight Republicans in this House who were on the majority side of the committee in the last Congress. There are but seven minority places on the committee. This eliminates Mr. Dwight of New York, who was the lowest ranking man of the eight. Of the seven remaining Mr. Longworth is the last, and if Mr. Mann goes on Mr. Longworth goes off.

Ohio has never been without representation on the committee since the civil war, and to lose representation now is an unspeakable and revolting possibility to many Republicans. Nevertheless it seems unavoidable unless some Republican member of the committee further up the list manifests phenomenal self-abnegation.

At the conclusion of the conferences of the day Mr. Mann stated that as the Republican caucus of the last House had decided not to appoint the Chairman of any important committee member of the Rules Committee, he would follow the precedent and not select for the Committee on Rules any Republican who was to be appointed as the ranking Republican member of any of the more important committees.

He further stated that any Republican selected for the ranking minority places on any of the leading committees would not be placed on any other committee, nor would any member be placed on two of the committees which prepare appropriation bills. This action is in the way of matching the reforms that the Democrats have made in the method of constructing their committees.

Mr. Mann also gave out a carefully prepared statement complaining of the treatment that the Democratic Committee on Committees had shown the minority in refusing to them the representation in committee places that they believed was due them. Mr. Mann, having asked the Democratic Committee on Committees yesterday for a larger number of committee places, he received to-day from Mr. Underwood, Chairman of the committee, a letter stating politely and positively the decision of the committee not to make any change in that direction. Mr. Mann's statement, criticising this action of the Committee on Committees, follows:

"The Democratic members of the Committee on Ways and Means Committee have turned down my request to add one additional minority member to the fifteen leading committees where they propose to take two and three additional majority members. Their action in putting fourteen majority and only seven minority members on fifteen of the leading committees is unprecedented, is unfair, is arbitrary, and brutal. No Speaker appointing committees has ever so absolutely disregarded the rights of the minority."

MADERO WILL YIELD A POINT FOR PEACE

BUT DIAZ MUST GO FIRST

Madero Kinsmen to Urge Yielding That Point, Too, but Leader Says He Will Not Be Influenced.

SAN ANDRES, Madero's Camp, Near Chihuahua, April 7.—What he declared to be his ultimatum on the question of peace was delivered by Francisco I. Madero to-day. While insisting that President Diaz retire and the country have a new election, Señor Madero said he was willing to resign as Provisional President and if necessary would allow a Provisional President to be selected from Diaz's Cabinet.

The tenor of Señor Madero's interview was rather to discredit the possibility of immediate peace. He said no peace overtures whatever had been received by him. He did not intend to move camp toward the border or anywhere else with a view to receiving any Peace Commissioners. The report that his father was in El Paso and was preparing to enter the insurrecto country to see him interested him, but would have no influence on his actions, he said.

With every insurrecto provided with ammunition and ready for instant marching orders, the impression grows in camp that Madero's objective point is Chihuahua City.

Giuseppe Garibaldi, a grandson of the Italian patriot, and a veteran of many Central American revolutions, has just completed a reconnoitring expedition about the city. He found many of the houses in the outskirts deserted, apparently on warning from the Mexican officials that all non-combatants should seek safety in the city.

The land near by is rolling, almost barren of verdure, and filled with ravines and rocks, which form natural breastworks. From within sight of the insurgent ranks the Federal pickets may frequently be seen outlined on the hill tops. Skirmishes in these environs have been almost daily occurrences.

News reached camp to-day of the attack at Aldama last Saturday, when at dawn the Federal troops came upon the insurrectos and, as the story is told here, killed thirty while they slept. The reported killing of eighteen non-combatants, including a girl, who out of curiosity had looked out of a window, was described by Madero as a massacre. He asserted he had become accustomed to expect such tactics from the Federals, and that it only served to enrage the insurrectos and make them less merciful when they fought.

DRILLING RECRUITS IN CAMP.

National Guard Officers Complain That They Are Seeing No Manoeuvres.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, April 7.—Not so much as an aeroplane flight redeemed the dulness of to-day in the mobilization camp north of Fort Sam Houston. Here and there the soldiers were playing baseball, the only thing that approached the military being the drilling of raw recruits by Sergeants and Corporals. Late this afternoon the Eleventh and Seventeenth Infantry Regiments had dress parade, and this is the complete story of the day's events.

Some of the National Guard officers sent here to observe the regulars do things are complaining that they have nothing to do but sit around and meditate on what might have been. They came here expecting to help fight mimic battles, to participate in long cross-country hikes, and see grand reviews. This disappointment on the part of the guardsmen was called to the attention of one of Gen. Carter's staff this afternoon.

The staff officer regretted that such was the case, but pointed out that even if there was no manoeuvring going on the guardsmen could find plenty of instructive things and conditions to study if they tried to. He mentioned such things as perfect camp sanitation, modern commissary and subsistence work, and general care of troops. He said he was afraid the guardsmen would continue in their disappointment if they continued to look for showy exercises. No such exercises are on the schedule for the troops encamped here.

Members of the Madero family in San Antonio said to-day that none of them would try to go to Monterey to attend the funeral of Evaristo Madero, the grandfather of Francisco I. Madero, the rebel leader, who died there yesterday. They do not think it would be a safe journey for any member of the family to which Francisco I. Madero belongs.

REBELS LOOTING AMERICANS.

Our Troops Asked to Protect Ranches from Williams's Band, Also Americans

CALEXICO, Cal., April 7.—Stanley Williams and his rebel band of eighty men stationed at Algodones, a few miles east of Mexicali, began last night a career of robbery and terrorism on the American ranches located in Lower California. The loot of the Williams band is reported already to amount to more than $10,000.

United States citizens have appealed to the American troops here for help. Williams is said to have been a former Quartermaster Sergeant in the United States Army and is charged with desertion. All of his followers are Americans.

The Cudahy ranch, owned by John Cudahy of Chicago, and the ranch of the California-Mexican Land Company, of which Gen. H. G. Otis of Los Angeles is one of the principal owners, are the main sufferers from the raids of the rebel bands. Williams, however, cut the telegraph and telephone wires leading into Lower California, and it is believed that other large ranches have been looted. The situation is considered the most serious since the rebels began their operations in Lower California.

Gen. Salinas, commanding the rebels at Mexicali, to-day disclaimed any responsibility for Williams's raid and declared him an outlaw. Citizens of the Imperial Valley in California are fearful of the security of the irrigation water supply.

Five hundred Federal soldiers are encamped at Little's ranch, five miles to the southwest. Gov. Vega, who is in command, says he will take time to reconnoitre, but probably will attack Mexicali to-morrow. Vega said he had killed three insurrecto scouts.

Fugitives arriving at Mexicali across the border repeat the story of the defeat and rout of Simon Berthold and his band of 65 rebels at Alamo, seventy-five miles south of Mexicali, on March 28. These arrivals also bring word of the presence of 150 Federal troops at Laguna Salada, only twenty miles southwest of Mexicali. This force is believed to be one of the three columns sent by Col. Mayet from Tecate, eight days ago, to retake Mexicali.

Leyva, the deposed Mexican commander, has left Mexicali, and, according to Commander in Chief Salinas, is on his way to Los Angeles. The United States authorities at Calexico have wired the Los Angeles officials to look out for Leyva, and arrest him. He is wanted for alleged violation of the neutrality laws.

GOING TO SOFTEN MADERO.

Leader's Relatives and Others to Urge Peace with Diaz Still in Office.

EL PASO, Texas, April 7.—Peace prospects, somewhat dimmed for the last few days partly owing to misdirected telegrams and confused code messages, are said to be brighter again. The two Maderos, respectively father and brother of Francisco I. Madero, Jr., the insurrecto Commander in Chief; Rafael Hernandez, the so-called go-between, and Roque Estrada, attorney for Don Francisco, the younger, will, it was learned to-day, leave here by automobile for San Andreas, Chihuahua, within the next seventy-two hours. At this place the rebel leader has established headquarters.

The Mexican Government has furnished satisfactory assurances of their safety. It is pointed out that the visit is absolutely unofficial and intended to urge upon the insurrecto leader the broad view of the situation which, in the field, among his own enthusiastic following, he scarcely can be expected to retain.

Primarily it is said it will be necessary to impress him with the view that to prevent anarchy Diaz must remain at the head of the Government for some months at least. This is the point above all others on which Minister Limantour insisted at the New York conference with the elder Madero, while the rebel leader recently declared at Ranco Bustillos that preliminary to any peace negotiations, the aged President of the Republic must resign.

Gen. Snyman, who gained his title as a Boer leader in the Transvaal war and who operates a ranch south of Chihuahua, arrived here to-day and described that city as "dead." He brought his family out of the country because of conditions.

Americans arriving from Casas Grandes, despite official statements to the contrary, declare that Gen. Eguia Lis and the Federal garrison of Casas Grandes have left that city for Chihuahua, taking with them the American prisoners captured a month ago.

Word came from Guadalupe, forty-five miles east of here, on the Mexican side of the river, that the elusive force of insurrectos that has been appearing and disappearing there was seen yesterday. It is said the outfit numbered 100 men, many of them Americans. They are said to have executed a former Government rurale who gave them misleading information with regard to horses for which they were searching. A cavalry detachment of fifty men left Juarez this afternoon to search for this band.

Mail advices from Culiacan, Sinaloa, state that at the battle of Agua Jito a Federal detachment of 105 men with a rapid-fire gun attacked a far superior force of insurrectos and defeated them. The machine gun and the long-range Mausers of the Government troops were too much for the rebels. Both sides fought with desperation, but the insurrectos were compelled to retreat with a loss of forty men and 106 horses.

A private letter states that the Mayor of Cuchillo Parado, with 100 men, has deserted his post and marched to join the insurrectos before Ojinaga.

COX PROSECUTOR VEXED.

Judge Dickson Biased, He Says, After Failure to Get Change of Venue.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, April 7.—Unless Prosecuting Attorney Henry T. Hunt succeeds in getting a favorable decision from the Supreme Court of Ohio, Judge William Dickson of the Common Pleas Court of Hamilton County will try George B. Cox on the charge of perjury.

This became apparent to-day when Judge Dickson proceeded with the hearing of the motion for a change of venue to Clermont County. After reviewing this motion, which was granted by Judge Gorman last Friday, Judge Dickson set aside Judge Gorman's order. Previous to this decision he had overruled a motion made by the Prosecutor not to proceed with the Cox case until the Prosecutor could file a number of motions before the Supreme Court of Ohio.

The feeling that has arisen in the case was intensified when Prosecutor Hunt, after this motion had been overruled, failed to appear in court, and no one from the Prosecutor's office was present when the decision in the change of venue was announced.

In explanation of this action Prosecutor Hunt issued a statement as follows:

"The reason for ignoring the proceedings was that we are following out the instructions of the Supreme Court that nothing be done until the hearing of the quo warranto proceedings next Monday. Feeling that Judge Dickson is without jurisdiction, we also realize that it would be of no use to protest. We filed a motion and the court indicated its bias and prejudice by not even reading it; so what's the use? We will not make any further move until Monday."

BETTER SAFEGUARDS NEEDED

Distinguished Speakers Inspired by the Scranton Mining Disaster.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—Charles Nagel, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, presided to-night at a session of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, when "Industrial Accidents in the United States and Their Prevention" was the topic of discussion.

"The terrible disaster to-day at Scranton, news of which reached me only a few hours ago," said Mr. Nagel, "is the most powerful argument for the necessity of acting upon the subjects we will discuss to-night." He dwelt on the excessive percentage of industrial accidents, and said that while he is a believer in individualism there is a point where the individual cannot protect himself, and the State must step in and protect him.

"While I believe that the State has not authority to enforce a system of compulsory accident insurance, it should lead the way," he continued. Failure of employers to realize the necesity of safeguarding their employes had resulted in a storm of indignation, the effect of which was shown in excessive awards of damages by jurors and in extreme legislative enactments.

Mrs. Crystal Eastman, Secretary of the New York State Commission on Employers' Liability and Causes of Industrial Accidents, Unemployment, and Lack of Farm Labor, favored heavy penalties for violations of the factory laws.

"Those responsible for loss of life in preventable industrial accidents are guilty of murder," declared Florence Kelley, General Secretary of the National Consumers' League.

J. C. Delaney, Chief Factory Inspector of Pennsylvania, said that there should be legislation that will prevent the manufacturer from installing machinery that is not equipped with the best and most modern safeguards.

GIRL-BEATER TO PRISON.

Father Denounced by Judge, Who Gives Him Year Sentence.

PATERSON, N. J., April 7.—Hyman Berman of Passaic was sent to State prison for one year by Judge Scott in Special Sessions this morning for beating his daughter May, a student in the Paterson High School. In sentencing him the court called him "defiant, vicious, brutal, and a man that ought to be tamed."

A short time ago Berman was arraigned for beating his small boys. He has six of them. It was shown then that he had a daughter living in Paterson who went to school part of the week in her ambition to be a school teacher, and worked the rest of the time to make enough money to maintain herself. The Judge commended this high aim, and when he found that the girl, who was the complaining witness this morning, could not tolerate living at home because of the abuse of her father and stepmother, he ordered Berman to pay her $3 a week.

Berman coaxed and coaxed, and finally May, to please him, left Paterson and went home. At first things went smoothly, but after a time Berman began to beat her. She wore a waist in court this morning that showed bloodstains on the front. Berman is a wood turner by trade.

LARGE ENGINEERING CONCERN IN TROUBLE

EXPECTS TO PULL THROUGH

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Creditors of George W. Jackson, Incorporated, tunnel contractors, capital $6,000,000, announced to-day that the business of the company had been placed in the hands of a Creditors' Committee. Notices were sent to smaller creditors assuring them of the solvency of the corporation and asking them to give their accounts to the committee for settlement.

"Too extensive a line of operations for its financial condition," was the reason given for the embarrassment of the concern.

An effort will be made by the committee to arrange the company's affairs without resort to court procedure, although some of the smaller creditors are reported to have threatened an application for a receiver.

The chief creditors in Chicago admit that the company had, in the last six months, failed to meet bills to an amount at least of $1,000,000. Two Chicago banks, the Western Trust and Savings and the Continental and Commercial, are involved. The former is said to have a claim of $90,000 and the latter of more than $100,000.

The company is in need of a large amount of money, with which to complete its contract on the Yonkers water pressure tunnel, now building, and this was the cause of the action taken to-day. The assets are largely tied up in buildings and machinery.

"There is no question that the assets are more than ample to cover all the liabilities," said Milton J. Foreman, counsel for the creditors' committee, to-night. "It took a good deal more money to start the work on the Yonkers water pressure tunnel than had been anticipated. They struck hard granite, and a larger force of men was required immediately. The company has not failed. It is just a case of needing ready cash to carry on its operations. The company is short on cash and long on assets. It has large investments in Chicago real estate, a disposal station, and a $750,000 steel plant."

George W. Jackson, Incorporated, has offices at 46 Wall Street in this city. Its officers and Directors are George W. and Thomas C. Jackson, William M. Clark, John B. Russell, W. J. C. Kenyon, and A. D. Shanks. None of them could be seen last night.

George W. Jackson was the Chief Engineer of the Illinois Construction Company and supervised the work of constructing forty-six miles of freight subways under the streets of Chicago. He retired from this position Sept. 14, 1906, and shortly thereafter became prominent in the contracting field, organizing the corporation which bears his name. The corporation has been a bidder for some of the largest construction jobs in this country, Mexico, Central and South America.

Mr. Jackson is known throughout the United States as an engineer of superb abilities and a contractor who enjoys the highest reputation for the integrity of his work. He has accomplished some of the most difficult and elaborate works of engineering and construction in the United States and in many cities. He has been frequently called in consultation by New York engineers in connection with important public works.

For more than a year Mr. Jackson has been at work planning a subway system for Chicago, the cost of which he had estimated at $80,000,000.

Other prominent engineering feats upon which Mr. Jackson has been engaged are the Strickler tunnel, Pike's Peak; the fourteen-foot subway in Reading, Penn., the pneumatic tube system for the Associated Press in Chicago, the Wentworth drainage system in Chicago, a large percentage of the underground systems for the Chicago Telephone Company, the Postal Telegraph Company, and the Western Union Telegraph Company, and similar systems in Columbus, (Ohio,) Indianapolis, Philadelphia, and other cities.

FOR U. S. EMPLOYES' UNIONS.

La Follette Tells Postal Clerks He Will Help Them Organize.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Senator La Follette intends to establish, by legislation if he can, the right of Government employes to organize unions in the same manner that trades are organized and affiliate with the American Federation of Labor. His purpose has been made plain in a letter sent to all employes of the railway mail service, bearing upon the issue that has been raised between such employes of the Government and Postmaster General Hitchcock.

A copy of the circular letter sent out by the Wisconsin Senator was made public here to-day. Mr. La Follette asks the clerks to state whether they have been approached in any way and whether they have been threatened with dismissal if they became active in forming an organization.

"If I find conditions in the railway postal service to be generally such as has been reported," says the Senator, "I shall introduce and do everything in my power to pass a bill to prevent the continuation of such un-American practices and to preserve to all Government employes the right of petition which belongs to every citizen and the right to form or join organizations for the improvement of their labor conditions."

PRESIDENT SEES BALL GAME.

Stops on His Afternoon Walk to Watch Amateur Teams.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Taft saw his first ball game of the season to-day.

The President went out for a walk late this afternoon with Secretary Hilles and Major A. W. Butt. Coming back to the White House from Potomac Park the party passed through the White House ellipse, where two amateur teams were playing. The President stood through nearly an inning, watching the game.

Few of the "rooters" knew him, but he looked just as happy as when he occupies a box down in front of the Washington grandstand, watching the Nationals play.

STRAUS OFFERS LABORATORY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Nathan Straus of New York is in Washington to do all in his power to prove by personal demonstration that Congress should take over the plant of the Straus Laboratory, which he will be willing to give to the Government free if money is appropriated for its maintenance.

So enthusiastic is Mr. Straus in the prospect for saving the lives of the babies of Washington that he has come from New York to show Congress that the efforts should not be discontinued. The great benefit to the babies, he insists, has been proved and will grow greater next year.

To-morrow and Sunday he will be at the laboratory with Mrs. Straus and Miss Hurn, the Superintendent, to show to the people of Washington, as well as members of Congress, the great value of the plant in the saving of the lives of helpless infants. William Jennings Bryan, a personal friend of Mr. Straus, has been asked to attend.

Visitors will be shown over the plant and every detail of the work of the pasteurization of milk will be explained. Butter made at the laboratory also will be shown. Mrs. Straus, who is just as enthusiastic as her husband in the work, will invite several women of her acquaintance to be present.

It is expected that the invitation of Mr. Straus will bring out large numbers who heretofore have not investigated the workings of the establishment. He decided to issue the general invitation to Washingtonians and Congressmen to visit the laboratory after the same had been suggested to him as a means of impressing more thoroughly the benefits of the laboratory on the people.

TO AID STRAUS LABORATORY.

Mayor Urges Watson to Reconsider Decision Against Free Water.

Mayor Gaynor has written to Corporation Counsel Watson directing him to investigate further the matter of exempting the Straus Laboratory from the payment of water rents, against which he recently reported. The Mayor says:

> April 6, 1911.
>
> Sir: It has been brought to my attention that your department has ruled that the Straus Laboratory, in East Thirty-second Street, Manhattan, is not entitled to free water from the city under Chap. 185 of the laws of 1907, providing that hospitals, dispensaries, day nurseries, and corporations or societies for the care and instruction of poor babies and small children, &c., should be exempt from the payment of water charges.
>
> Of course you know that this is the institution where milk is sterilized and bottled and supplied to many children whose parents are not able to afford the luxury of pure milk at the present high prices, and where also sick babies are treated gratuitously by an attendant physician, and mothers instructed in the feeding and care of their infants.
>
> Will you not be kind enough to take this matter up personally and examine into it thoroughly, and see if this opinion previously rendered is sound. As I understand it, the work done by this excellent charity should entitle it to come within the exemption from water charges preferred by law. Very truly yours,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
>
> A. R. Watson, Corporation Counsel.

It is generally believed about City Hall that Mr. Watson will reconsider his decision.

OSTRACIZE CALEB POWERS.

Kentucky Democrats Refuse to Serve on Committees with Him.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Representative Caleb Powers of Kentucky, a Republican, whose Democratic colleagues have announced that they will not serve with him on any committee of the House, left to-day for Kentucky to look after his home interests.

The plan of the Democratic members from Kentucky to ostracize Mr. Powers, if successful, will prevent the Kentuckian from serving on any of the important committees of particular interest to his constituents and district, including Ways and Means, Judiciary, War Claims, Rules, Agriculture, Expenditures, Military Affairs, Mines and Mining, Invalid Pensions, and others, on all of which are Kentucky Democrats.

The election of Powers, the Kentucky Democrats have been advised, cannot be contested on the ground of loss of citizenship by reason of his conviction of complicity in the murder of Gov. Goebel, because citizenship was restored by pardon.

TAFT TO DINE NEW SENATORS

Chooses This Way to Meet All of Them Quickly—Dinner on April 15.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Taft has adopted a unique method of meeting the new members of the Senate. Usually a President must wait until a Senator comes to the White House or must send for new members one at a time to consult with them.

The President has decided to get it all through with at once. He is going to invite every new member of the Senate, republican or Democrat, and their wives, to a dinner at the White House on April 15.

Ex-City Official's Son a Thief.

Mathew J. Brennan of 215 East 149th Street, son of a former Street Cleaning Commissioner, pleaded guilty yesterday to grand larceny in the second degree before Judge Foster in General Sessions. He was remanded until Thursday for sentence. Brennan telephoned to a tire company at 154 West Fifty-second Street on Jan. 10, and asked that four tires be sent to 304 West 112th Street. The tires were delivered and Brennan gave a check for $128.60, which was worthless.

ACCUSED GIRL A SUICIDE.

Drinks Poison After Stepfather Charged Her with Being Wayward.

Stephana Banish, 20 years old, of 150 Avenue E, Bayonne, was summoned to court on Thursday and accused by her stepfather, Karl Dermbarky, of being wayward. She denied the charge tearfully, and after the hearing was postponed went to a drug store and bought carbolic acid.

She spent the night writing to her mother, to friends, and to Joseph Mushowsky, to whom she was to be married in June. Yesterday she mixed the acid with milk and drank it. She died three hours later in City Hospital. The police took the stepfather to Headquarters, but soon let him go. To her mother Stephana wrote:

> Dear Mother: I am leaving you forever and all my dear brothers and sisters. I am sorry for doing this, but I will not give them the satisfaction to have me arrested. Good-bye, dear mother. Thousands of thanks and kisses for your troubles. My trunks you can take care of. The one with my clothing give to Annie, and the one with the silver, china, jewelry, linen, lace, pictures, and other things you must keep all to yourself. I am going away to make you happy. Your daughter,

> Dear Joe: I do not want you to worry about me. All I want you to do is to clear my good name before the Judge and that lawyer who is the cause of all this trouble. You will find your rings about my neck. We were to be married in June. You will get some one to take my place. I have always thought of you and loved you, and you know I have never said a wrong word to anyone.
>
> Now I must bid you good-bye for the last time. Tell my dearest mother not to worry. I have done this so as not to give them satisfaction.

> STEPHANA E. BANISH.

To a girl friend, Belle Jersyk, who was to have been her bridesmaid, Stephana wrote:

> Dearest Belle: I have told you all my troubles, all I am suffering God only knows. I was to your house Wednesday evening and I said farewell to all before I left. Since then my stepfather has threatened to have me under arrest, so before they take me to jail I might as well make some end to it. I have told you I was beaten like a dog in the street and called all sorts of names which I am ashamed to mention. Just think, after being torn by my hair in the street Sunday morning, when I left you Sunday evening I was just in the hall of my home when my stepfather came rushing at me and punched me and I fell.

COURT TO AID BOY BURGLAR.

Judge Humphrey Will Intercede for Prisoner, Who Had No Chance.

James J. Kelley, 23 years old, who is serving nine years and eight months in Auburn Prison for burglary, and who wrote a pathetic letter to Judge Burt J. Humphrey of the Queens County Court, where he was sentenced, will get an opportunity for freedom and reform.

Since the publication of Kelley's letter Judge Humphrey has received many letters urging mercy for Kelley, and yesterday the Judge said he had written to Kelley that if he will file an application for pardon the court will intercede for him. In the meantime the Judge will conduct an investigation on his own behalf.

In his letter Kelley stated that while in the Catholic Protectory he was not permitted to attend the funerals of his father or mother, though he "crept from the lowest to the highest authority beseeching them to allow" him to do so. When he tried to escape he said he was "beaten unmercifully."

George B. Robinson, President of the New York Catholic Protectory, denies there is any record of the death of Kelley's father or mother, and says that inmates are allowed to visit their parents when either dangerously ill or in case of death. He says he "has little doubt but this statement of the boy was made up to create sympathy in his present situation."

AGAIN PADRE VITOZZI HALTS VITERBO TRIAL

Curses Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the Informer, Down to the Seventh Generation.

HAD FASTED FOR TWO DAYS

VITERBO, April 7.—Again to-day the trial of the Camorristi was interrupted when Don Ciro Vitozzi, the accused priest, the "guardian angel of the Camorra," weakened by a self-imposed fast, fainted. He was under interrogation and had worked himself into a state of mental and physical exhaustion until he tumbled over against the steel bars of the prisoners' cage.

Lawyers and Carabinieri rushed to his assistance and in the confusion President Bianchi declared the sitting suspended. At the same time the court ordered Vitozzi to break his fast with the yolks of half a dozen eggs.

The climax came opportunely for Vitozzi, following his declaration that he had abstained from food for forty-eight hours. He had been telling the story of his alleged persecution in prison and the recital was not without dramatic effect.

"With me in my cell," said the priest, "I had a lock of hair from the head of that holy soul, my mother. This was taken from me upon the order of the Magistrate, who insisted that the hair was that of some woman companion of mine. What nonsense! Why, it was even gray. Can any one imagine a greater profanation?"

Here the accused man invoked the soul of his mother in support of his statement, and the recollection of what he described as the insults to her memory overwhelming him, he was seized with a fit of weeping. Between his sobs he cried out:

"I have been fasting for forty-eight hours, supported during my whole interrogation by Divine power."

With the words he collapsed.

Giovanni Rapi was not present when the trial was resumed this morning. His physician certified that he was suffering from a sore throat as a result of having "cried too much during his interrogation."

The proceedings opened with the recall of Vitozzi. The prisoner described attempts, which, he said, had been made to make him appear guilty of complicity in the murder of Gennaro Cuocolo and his wife. While he was in prison, he said, he was confronted with a man, who offered him $20 to denounce certain persons as guilty of the Cuocolo assassinations, adding that if it were necessary he would send the priest to America, as Enrico Alfano, alias "Erricone," the head of the Camorra, had been sent. Vitozzi said that he did not know the man who approached him, and whose name as given him was fictitious.

The prisoner told of the alleged abuse of him by the examining Magistrates during his preliminary examinations, and while he was in prison, Magistrate Detilla, he said, had insulted him, calling him "a Camorrista pig."

"This," declared Vitozzi, "was cowardly, savage, and inhuman, while the Judge ought to represent honesty."

Growing more excited as he continued Vitozzi shouted:

"Those Judges trampled not only upon the human, but upon the Divine law. I reminded them that they must die, saying, 'Beware! beware the anathema!'"

Urging the priest to calm himself, President Bianchi inquired whether he knew Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer.

"No," replied Vitozzi, who added:

"All the statements of Abbatemaggio are false. I will ask him to swear on the ashes of his father and on the ashes of his dead son, hoping that he will be touched."

At this thrust, Abbatemaggio, who had listened calmly from his solitary cage broke his usual impassibility of manner and replied:

"I will swear on anything you please."

Enraged Vitozzi turned upon his accuser and cried:

"I will curse you down to the seventh generation."

"I am sorry for you," rejoined the informer.

At this the priest suddenly changed his tactics and in a voice filled with pathos said:

"No. I will not curse you. I remember that I am a priest and must pardon even those who injure me. I wish to take you to my bosom."

In the same emotional strain Vitozzi continued with the reference to his mother's gray hairs until he was overcome and the proceedings halted.

President Bianchi asked him if it were true that he was present at a banquet given by Camorristi at Castellamare, where, it was said, he had removed his gown, danced, and sung vicious songs.

Vitozzi answered that he was present at a banquet but saw no Camorristi. He added that he had a good tenor voice, but used it in singing only the Gregorian chant. He expressed the hope that he soon would be released and sing in the church at Viterbo.

Several times Vitozzi appeared about to faint, but he was restrained by the President, who finally adjourned the sitting.

Just before Don Ciro Vitozzi succeeded in procuring the release of his godson, Enrico Alfano, Ciro Alfano, Gennaro Ibelli, and Giovanni Rapi, and after the police had arrested Gaetano Amedeo, but were still looking for Tommaso de Angelis, who had been denounced by him as the real murderers of the Cuocolos, the priest caused the following letter to appear in the papers of Naples:

> I was born amid the people, and amid the people I have always lived. Few there be to whom I have not given aid and counsel, and in the furtherance of my work I have asked naught from rich or poor. But I have always gone about my labor with zeal and the spirit of Christian charity, (l'opera mia con zelo e con spirito di carita cristiana.)
> Is it a wonder? (Qual meraviglia?) I would not pause to relate how many, many times I have bestowed peace and honor on a family; how many, many times I have fended off tumult and disgrace. * * * Still, to unveil the assassins of the Cuocolos I took no initiative; I have simply done my duty as a citizen who respects the laws and bows to justice. I have no guide but duty and the heavy fear lest honest men should suffer.

On July 20, 1906, three days after the release of Enrico Alfano and his companions, Abbatemaggio has informed Maresciallo Capizzuti, the Carabiniere detective, that Rapi met him and asked him to go with him to visit Don Ciro, who was just recovering from an illness.

They met Luigi Fucci (a Camorrista, who is expected to turn King's evidence) and all three went to the Padre's house at S. Giovanniello. There was a woman of Don Ciro's household present, and so they only talked "academically" until she withdrew. There was also there a certain Botta.

"Rapi," Abbatemaggio continued, "seemed to lose all patience with the Padre and declared that he had told the Magistrate things about him in order to free his godson Enrico, for he knew that he was under secret surveillance and would be obliged to go away. I felt uneasy, for I saw that I was not wanted, and I immediately went away, leaving Rapi and the others with Vitozzi."

American Shot at Tuxpan, Mexico, Reported Recovering.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The condition of George Critchfield, the American who was shot from ambush near Tuxpan, Mexico, several days ago, has improved, according to a telegram to the State Department to-day from American Consul Miller at Tampico.

The first reports indicated that Critchfield had been fatally wounded.

DEFENDS FRENCH POLICY.

Minister Cruppi Denies Cause for Alarm and Promises Firmness.

PARIS, April 7.—M. Cruppi in his maiden speech as Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Senate to-day replied to the criticisms of Senator Adrien Gaudin de Villaine, who asserted that France's foreign policy was decadent.

"When I came to the Foreign Office," said the Minister, "the situation of France from the point of view of foreign politics was not without difficulty, but it would be an exaggeration to say it called for anxiety and disquietude. I purpose to practice a positive policy of foresight and precision, inspired by the ideal of making France a force in the world."

France's alliance with Russia and her entente with England, continued M. Cruppi, far from being decadent were daily in most active operation and formed the basis of the foreign policy of the country. With Germany, he said, France would practice a policy of co-operation, wherever the interests were in common.

"When we have to defend our special interests," declared the Minister, "we will do it with moderation and firmness."

He said that the coming visit of President Fallières to Tunis, where he would be greeted by British and Italian fleets, would contribute greatly to the enhancement of France's prestige abroad.

The situation in Morocco, where the Sultan's throne was again endangered by rebellious tribes, he admitted, was calculated to cause some uneasiness, but he added that in event of the situation at Fez becoming threatening all measures within the limits of the Algeciras convention would be taken, to insure the safety of Europeans.

OUR SHIPS TO VISIT BALTIC.

Second Division of Atlantic Fleet Likely to Call at German Ports.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The second division of the American Atlantic Fleet will make a cruise in the Baltic Sea this Spring and Summer. The itinerary of the vessels has not yet been definitely determined, as that question is now in the hands of the State Department which is taking up the matter through diplomatic channels.

On this cruise the warships will in all probability make stops at ports of Germany.

DISBAR LAWYER SCHAPIRO.

Appellate Court Also Suggests Action Against Witness Who Testified Falsely.

Louis E. Schapiro, an attorney, was disbarred yesterday by the Appellate Division, on the complaint of the New York County Lawyers' Association. The court recommended that the association call the attention of United States District Attorney Wise to Dr. R. H. M. Dawbarn's testimony for a client of Schapiro in the United States District Court, under an agreement to share in the proceeds of the verdict, although he denied on the stand that he had such interest in the case. Schapiro was disbarred for making the agreement.

The matter came to the attention of the Lawyers' Association after Dr. Dawbarn had won a verdict for $420 in the City Court, his share of a recovery of $2,600 for personal injuries. Dr. Dawbarn had amputated the leg of Schapiro's client and it was charged had stated that unless he received a share in the verdict he would "tell the truth" and let the hospital records stand.

The court found that Schapiro should have informed the Judge and the jury of Dr. Dawbarn's interest after he heard him testify falsely, and that even if Schapiro's story were true that Dr. Dawbarn had merely threatened to testify falsely unless he were paid it would not excuse his silence.

Bequest to Mrs. Hessler Valid.

In the first long decision since his appointment, Surrogate Fowler upheld yesterday the will of Charles Klinzer leaving an estate of $16,000 to Margaret Hessler and their two children. The will was contested by Klinzer's aunts and cousins, who charged that Mrs. Hessler had exerted undue influence.

DIX HEARS REPORT ON CARNEGIE TRUST

Supt. Cheney Talks Two Hours with Governor and Then Returns Here for More Data.

CRITICISM IS EXPECTED

Dix Said to Disapprove Department's Handling of Situation — Carnegie Trust and Fleischman Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 7.—That Gov. Dix is deeply interested in the disclosures growing out of the failure of the Carnegie Trust Company and the Robin chain of banks was shown to-day when he questioned O. H. Cheney, State Superintendent of Banks, in a two-hour interview in the Executive Chamber. At the end of the conference Mr. Cheney returned to New York to secure more data for his formal report, which it is expected he will make to the Governor early next week.

Gov. Dix refused to make any statement concerning the Carnegie Trust case to-night, except to state that he would make public the report of Supt. Cheney as soon as he received it. It is understood the Governor has asked the Superintendent to furnish data to show to what extent the State Banking Department was informed as to the condition of the financial institutions in question before their doors were closed. Some of the information which Mr. Cheney is to get, it is said, is contained in documents now in the possession of District Attorney Whitman.

It was said at the Executive Chamber to-day that Supt. Cheney's term will expire about the middle of next month. It is the belief of those conversant with the affairs of the Banking Department that the Governor will criticise the course of the department in connection with the case of the Carnegie Trust Company.

The State Banking Department, in its capacity as Acting Receiver for the Carnegie Trust Company, has assumed the rôle of landlord of the Hotel Le Marquis at 12 East Thirty-first Street and will probably be the temporary proprietor in a few days of the Roman Baths at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue. This unusual situation has been brought about by the muddled affairs of the Carnegie Trust Company, which at one time had extensive dealings with Joseph Fleischman, head of the old Fleischman Baths Corporation, which was recently reorganized as the Roman Baths Company.

The Carnegie Trust Company, as Trustee, controls the Hotel Le Marquis, and a court order is expected soon which will place the control of the Roman Baths Company among the assets of the Carnegie Trust, which is now being liquidated by Examiner George W. Egbert of the State Banking Department.

Several years ago Mr. Fleischman, the florist, began building the Turkish baths which formerly bore his name. He organized the Fleischman Baths, a corporation, and agreed to take stock to cover his expenditures on the building, as all the contracts had been given in his name as an individual. Some of this stock he carried to the Carnegie Trust Company and borrowed $65,000 on it. Later on, when the Fleischman Baths negotiated a mortgage and issued bonds the Carnegie Trust Company was appointed Trustee under the mortgage. Not long after this Mr. Fleischman found himself in deep financial waters. John B. Stanchfield, a bondholder of the Fleischman Baths and a Director of the Carnegie Trust Company is said to have joined with others in an equity suit against Fleischman, brought in the name of A. G. Spalding & Co. The Fleischman Baths corporation was then reorganized. Fleischman was petitioned into bankruptcy in January, 1909.

In the following month Fleischman and the other stockholders of the National Center Realty Company, a Fleischman family concern, which owned the Hotel Le Marquis, agreed to transfer their holdings to Robert B. Moorehead, then Assistant Secretary of the Carnegie Trust Company and now Secretary. In turn the holdings were transferred to the Carnegie Trust Company as Trustee upon condition that the latter would assume and liquidate all outstanding obligations of the hotel and the holding corporation. The Hotel Le Marquis is said to be worth about $600,000.

The Carnegie Trust then began acting as landlord, collecting the rental of $32,000 a year. When Mr. Fleischman and his family asked for a statement they found that the Carnegie Trust Company had them entered on its books as owing $125,000. When Mr. Fleischman's creditors learned of this they took the matter to court.

Judge Hand of the United States District Court decided a few days ago that the transfer of the hotel to the Carnegie Trust Company through a dummy was illegal. He has appointed Samuel H. Ordway as Special Master to arrange the restitution of the property. It is likely that the Fleischman creditors will allow the State Banking Department to continue its receivership. When the transfer is made the Carnegie Trust will get back bonds it previously held in the Fleischman Baths, now the Roman Baths, and this is expected to prove a good asset.

Several agencies have been in the field in the last few days offering to purchase deposits in the Carnegie Trust Company at from 40 to 50 cents on the dollar. While some of the depositors have sold out, the majority have decided that if the agencies can afford to pay that rate, there is a good chance of realizing at least 60 cents on the dollar by awaiting final liquidation. One of the agents who has been bidding for deposits is Andrew C. Cobe of 149 Broadway. Another is J. Carlisle Boyd of 115 Broadway. Mr. Boyd, the State Banking Department has learned, has been turning his assignments over to Hirsch, Lillienthal & Co., brokers, at 115 Broadway. The State Department would like to know how the bidders managed to get possession of the list of depositors of the Carnegie Trust Company.

Three lists are known to be in existence. One is held by the State Banking Department, another by the Carnegie Trust Company, and a third by Liston L. Lewis, a Carnegie Trust Company Director and counsel for the company. It was learned yesterday that $6,000,000 of the money on deposit in the Carnegie Trust Company is owned by less than 200 firms and individuals, and that $1,500,000 represents the savings of about 4,000 small depositors. There are 121 depositors whose deposits are between $5,000 and $10,000.

The Grand Jury had before it yesterday Willis G. Nash, President of the Mercantile National Bank, and W. O. Allison, President of the National Reserve Bank. Both of these institutions loaned money to the Cummins syndicate and were in receipt of liberal deposits of city funds. Mr. Nash and Mr. Allison entered the Grand Jury room prepared to answer the twenty-five questions regarding city deposits, Cummins loans, and other banking matters which had been asked in the subpoenas served on them several days ago.

The Grievance Committee of the Bar Association met yesterday afternoon, presumably to continue its investigation of the manner in which court trust funds were formerly invested in mortgages by the City Chamberlain's office.

CHECKING TUBERCULOSIS.

State's Fight Proving Effective—Hereditary Theory Disproved.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 7.—That there is a uniform lessening of the number of deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis in this State is shown in a report made public to-day by the State Department of Health. This improvement is traceable to the activity manifested in the tuberculosis campaign of the last three years, according to Dr. E. H. Porter, State Commissioner of Health.

The number of deaths from tuberculosis in New York City in 1885 was 7,189, and in the entire State in that year the total was 11,235. The records show that in 1910 New York City's total was 8,690, and the State's total 14,047, but the increase was not in proportion to the increase in the population. In February of this year the total number of deaths from consumption in this State was 1,245, while the total number from all causes was 12,548, tuberculosis causing about one-tenth of all the deaths.

The State Health Department has been working in co-operation with the State Charities Aid Association in a systematic campaign against the disease, and it has appealed to the Legislature for a larger appropriation to carry on the war.

"Many views regarding the cause formerly held, as, for instance, hereditary, are now disproved and disbelieved," says the report. "The beneficial effects derived from higher altitudes in the treatment of tuberculosis are now known to be obtainable also from lower climates, and thereby the tuberculosis victim is relieved of the burden of the extra expense of seeking treatment in a distant locality higher than his own home. The unanimous opinion of physicians after these years of work is that the disease is an infectious one and is transmitted from the sick to the well largely by the expectoration of the careless consumptive."

It has been found that tuberculosis thrives best where there is overcrowding, poor ventilation, insufficient food, and long hours of confining work. The chief features of the work against the disease are efforts to arouse the public to a sense of danger by giving illustrated lectures and in segregating those afflicted in institutions especially equipped for the treatment of the disease.

STATE RIVERS NEAR FLOOD.

Only Warm Weather Needed to Melt the Ice—March the Coldest Month.

ALBANY, April 7.—Abnormal temperature and stream flow conditions in New York State are shown in a report made for March to the State Water Supply Commission by C. C. Covert, district engineer of the United States Geological Survey.

The month was the coldest since 1906. In the northern part of the State most of the streams and lakes are still icebound, while last year by April 1 they were practically clear of ice. Some sections of the Adirondacks report three feet of snow on the ground and high water is expected.

"In fact," says the report, "heavy rains with a warm spell would undoubtedly send all streams heading in the Adirondack section to flood stages."

Although there is very little ice in the streams in the southern section of the State, high water conditions are expected within the next month.

EXILED NINE YEARS, RETURNS FOR TRIAL

RESULT OF FOLK'S CRUSADE

C. H. Turner, Who Confessed in Boodle Cases, Is Dead, and Conviction of Wainwright Is Doubtful.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 7.—Ellis Wainwright, retired millionaire brewer, indicted for bribery in the Suburban Railway boodle scandal in 1902, and who has been a fugitive in Paris ever since, walked into Judge Hitchcock's court, at the Four Courts, this morning, and surrendered. Within fifteen minutes the long-sought alleged boodler, having given $20,000 bail, with Augusta A. Busch, C. Marquard Forster, and Herman C. Stifel as sureties, was on the way to the St. Louis Club, where he is to live.

Only Circuit Attorney Jones and Sheriff Nolte knew of Wainwright's coming, having been told last night by M. G. Reynolds, Wainwright's attorney. Jones announced, as soon as Wainwright had given bond, that he will ask former Gov. Folk, now in San Francisco, to prosecute for the State. The penalty is two to seven years in the penitentiary. Folk said several months ago if Wainwright returned he would aid in the prosecution.

"All the evidence necessary for the Wainwright trial is intact in my office," said Circuit Attorney Jones, after the surrender. "Not a paper is missing. Even the exceptions noted in the other bribery trials will be easily accessible. The papers in my office include the much-talked-of confession of Charles H. Turner. It is my personal opinion as a lawyer that this confession cannot be used against Wainwright because Turner is dead."

Jones said that Wainwright will be tried in Judge Hitchcock's court as soon as possible, but that he will make no recommendation as to the date for trial until he has consulted Folk.

It is understood that Wainwright was informed by St. Louis lawyers that the chance of conviction was so remote that it was perfectly safe for him to return and stand trial.

Wainwright was the first of the many men of great wealth to be indicted by the famous "boodle" Grand Jury of nine years ago, when Folk was Circuit Attorney of St. Louis. Folk's crusade, the pioneer of many that followed in other cities, landed him in the Gubernatorial chair, and his record as Chief Executive of the State has made him a Presidential possibility in 1912. Folk sent many boodlers to the penitentiary, and one still has a term that has not expired.

Wainwright has lived in splendor in Paris and Monte Carlo since he became an exile, and has been host to many millionaire Americans. He was traveling in Egypt when he was indicted, nine years ago, and refused to return to St. Louis.

507 AUTOISTS CONVICTED.

$6,232 in Fines Collected Under the Callan Law.

ALBANY, April 7.—Secretary of State Lazansky made public to-day a report of the number of convictions of automobilists under the Callan law, as thus far certified to him by the officials in eighteen counties. There have been 507 convictions reported and fines amounting to $6,232 have been paid into the State Treasury.

New York, Westchester, and Nassau Counties report the most convictions in the order named. Only nine were reported from Brooklyn. The counties heard from and the number of convictions follow:

Cayuga, 2; Chemung, 4; Columbia, 1; Nassau, 57; New York, 136; Niagara, 2; Orange, 2; Queens, 46; Richmond, 2; Suffolk, 4; Tompkins, 1; Westchester, 79; Cortland, 1; Franklin, 1; Jefferson, 1; Kings, 9, and Livingston, 1.

New York County reports 76 suspended sentences, Westchester 23, Kings 14, Queens 11, Nassau 9, Cortland 1. In New York 24 were held for trial.

All moneys paid into the State Treasury for fines under the Callan law are to be used for the maintenance of good roads.

CO-RESPONDENT IN DISGUISE.

Husband Says Person Discovered with Him Was a Man in Woman's Garb.

Hans Christian Madsen, a chemist, testifying before Supreme Court Justice Crane and a jury in Brooklyn yesterday in Mrs. Alfhild Marie Krarup Madsen's suit for divorce, asserted that the co-respondent found in his room was a man disguised as a woman "with long black hair which fell over his shoulders."

Madsen declared he had entered into an agreement with Nils B. Krarup, his father-in-law, whereby Krarup could get the evidence which Mrs. Madsen needed, but decided to fool his father-in-law, and on Oct. 31 he had with him in his room his friend, Einer Peterson, disguised as a woman. On that night Mr. Krarup, William H. Mumme, his cousin, and Harry Fitchel, a friend, of 896 Willoughby Avenue, Brooklyn, entered Madsen's room.

Peterson swore he was the person that the plaintiff contended was the woman in the case. Justice Crane then said he would consider the question of perjury having been committed in this action.

COURT CONDEMNS REFEREE.

Orders New Hearing on Mrs. Coventry's Application to Set Aside Deed.

A condemnation of the report of Referee James B. Butler is embodied in the opinion of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, which unanimously orders a new trial before a new referee of the suit of Mrs. Edith Kip Coventry, granddaughter of Pierre Lorillard, to set aside a trust deed in favor of her son, Lawrence McCreery. The court concurred in the opinion written by Justice McLaughlin, which said:

"So far as I know, no decision is quite as curious and absurd as the judgment in this case."

Referee Butler decided against Mrs. Coventry, who wished to destroy the trust deed on the ground that it had never become effective. She had made it, she said, while she was Mrs. Richard S. McCreery, and with the understanding that it should not become operative until the consent of Henry Thomas Coventry, whom she was to marry, could be obtained. Mr. Coventry never consented, and after the birth of her second son, Victor Henry Coventry, she began the proceedings now being litigated.

Applaud the Drill of Cadets.

The cadet corps of the Berkeley School held its thirty-first annual drill last night in the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment, Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street. Col. W. B. Hotchkin and staff reviewed the cadets. The armory was filled with a throng which applauded the skillful evolutions of the young soldiers.

BLACK HAND LEADER IS FOUND GUILTY

MANY MURDERS LAID TO GANG

Alongi's Crime Was a Death Threat Sent to an Italian Meat Dealer, Followed by Bomb Explosions.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The United States Government to-day won its first case in the fight it has begun to drive out of Chicago members of the Black Hand who are said by the police to be responsible for nearly fifty dynamite explosions and a score of murders. Gianni Alongi was found guilty of using the mails in sending threatening letters, the jury in the United States District Court bringing in the verdict, after Judge K. M. Landis and Post Office Inspector James E. Stuart both had received threats of death should Alongi be convicted.

Alongi was accused of having written threatening letters to Garmila Marsala, a meat dealer in the northwest side Italian section, near "death point," where many explosions and murders have occurred. Marsala refused to pay the tribute demanded in the letters and five bombs were exploded near his shop before Alongi was arrested.

Extraordinary efforts were made to prevent the conviction of Alongi. Immediately after his trial began Judge Landis received a letter signed "Black Hand" and threatening death if the Italian should be found guilty. Secret service men placed a strong guard about the United States Judge, and his office was watched constantly by detectives. In spite of this, the guards discovered the next day that a bomb had been placed under his desk. The bomb was harmless, but officers stated it probably was placed there to show the ability of the writer of the letter to outwit the Government detectives.

Chief Inspector Stuart also was threatened.

Alongi was tried twice, Judge Landis in his instructions to the jury in the first trial warned the members against being frightened by the threats to intimidate the court, but the jury disagreed, it being said that one juror voted for acquittal. The second trial began three days ago and resulted in the conviction.

Alongi during both trials insisted on having an interpreter, saying he could not understand English. Yesterday, however, he lost his temper at the continued questioning of attorneys and broke into a tirade in English. After this it was discovered he had acted for four years as interpreter for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and to-day's proceedings were held in the English language.

REFEREE IN GATES SUIT.

Speedy Report to Court Ordered in Wife's Divorce Action.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum appointed ex-Justice Leventritt yesterday to act as referee in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. Mary W. Gates against Charles G. Gates, son of John W. Gates.

Dr. Wills Made Chief Veterinarian.

ALBANY, April 7.—Dr. John G. Wills of Chateaugay has been appointed chief veterinarian in the State Department of Agriculture, salary $3,000 a year, by Commissioner Pearson. He succeeds Dr. J. F. Devine.

ANOTHER FIRE VICTIM DIES.

Death Roll Now 144—Grand Jury Hears How Bodies Were Found.

Annie Miller of 154 Attorney Street, who was employed by the Triangle Waist Company, and who jumped from the ninth floor of the Asch building at the fire on March 25, died in St. Vincent's Hospital yesterday from her injuries. Her death makes the total number of the dead 144. The girl was unconscious for several days, but the hospital surgeons succeeded in reviving her, and for a time it was thought she might recover.

Assistant District Attorneys Bostwick and Rubin, who have been in charge of the investigation of the disaster, presented their case to the Grand Jury yesterday, and four witnesses were examined. They were Deputy City Clerk Cary, Simon Stern, Superintendent of the Asch building; Battalion Chief Norton, and Assistant Foreman Wall of Hook and Ladder Company 20.

Deputy Clerk Cary produced the articles of partnership between Harris & Blanck, members of the Triangle Waist Company, to show that they had been associated for ten years. Supt. Stern's testimony was of a technical nature, simply describing the building. Battalion Chief Norton, however, told of going through the eighth, ninth, and tenth floors after the fire, and of the discovery of the bodies piled against the doors on the ninth floor. Foreman Wall corroborated Norton's story, and described the condition of the doors on the ninth floor.

The Grand Jury will meet again Monday afternoon, when John D. More and J. P. Whiskman, consulting engineers retained by the District Attorney, and Fire Chiefs Shannon and Worth will be questioned. Beginning Monday the Grand Jury will sit five days a week, devoting Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday to the Washington Place disaster, and Tuesdays and Fridays to the Corrigan charges.

Declaring that she had lost two sisters in the Triangle Waist Company fire, a woman who said that she was Annie Cohen of 144 Orchard Street, became insane yesterday in William Seward Park, and bit several children and a park attendant, and knocked down women who tried to restrain her.

Policemen caught the woman, but they had to tie her to a bench while they waited for an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital. At the Orchard Street address it was said that the woman did not live there.

VICTIMS REPORT DAYLIGHT ROBBERIES

BATTLE LIKELY TO RESIGN

Lawyer Called to Assist District Attorney Said to be Too Much Disposed to Mayor Gaynor's Views.

George Gordon Battle, who was appointed a special Assistant District Attorney to help in the Grand Jury's investigation of crime conditions here, is to resign, it was rumored about the Criminal Court Building yesterday. Friction is said to exist between Mr. Battle and the District Attorney's staff, who are actively interested in the investigation. It has been said that Mr. Battle has seemed disposed to accept Mayor Gaynor's views to the effect that crime is not rampant and that the police force is not demoralized.

Friends of Mr. Battle were saying yesterday that if he does resign it will be because he is likely to be appointed to the Supreme Court bench to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Justice O'Gorman, who was elected United States Senator. Mr. Battle has been a candidate for the position.

Mr. Battle was appointed by District Attorney Whitman to help Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss, notwithstanding vigorous protests from several quarters. It was said against him that he was too closely allied with the Tammany organization and the present city administration.

Criticism of Mr. Battle again came out when he sent a letter to the newspapers last Sunday in which he denied that Police Commissioner Cropsey had told members of the Grand Jury that citizens should arm themselves with revolvers. Mr. Battle also sought to show that the increase in crimes along West Street was due to the building of the new Chelsea piers, which brought more sailors to that quarter. Persons opposed to Mr. Battle having anything to do with the present investigation pointed out that his letter was convincing proof that he was anxious to give the city administration a clean bill of health.

As one of several who are conducting the investigation, it was pointed out that Mr. Battle should have submitted the letter to his associates before making it public. If all the counsel agreed that the letter should be published, it was argued that all their names should have been signed to it, while if any one objected to its contents, that also should have been noted.

"It was discourteous, to say the least, for Mr. Battle to rush to the defense of Commissioner Cropsey and the police," said a member of the District Attorney's staff yesterday, "when the investigation had hardly started."

More objections were raised yesterday when it was reported that following his visit through the Tenderloin and at the Night Court with a number of the jurors Thursday night Mr. Battle had said that he had found conditions much better than he had been led to believe. Mr. Battle's resignation, it was said, is to be handed in next week.

It was explained yesterday that Mr. Battle was appointed because District Attorney Whitman did not want it to appear that the investigation was an attack upon a Democratic administration by a Republican District Attorney. Mr. Whitman, it was said, was anxious to keep the investigation out of politics, and Mr. Battle had been recommended as being entirely non-partisana.

District Attorney Whitman made it plain yesterday that he does not intend that the present investigation shal resolve itself either into a whitewashing or a fishing excursion. A vast amount of material which the Grand Jurors had gone through, he said, was more or less useless, but there was enough to make it certain that much good may be accomplished. The District Attorney is determined to follow up the case of Inspector O'Brien He feels sure that in this case the investigators have struck a lead.

"I understand that the case against O'Brien in Brooklyn where he is under indictment for a misdemeanor, cannot go on until Commissioner Cropsey has rendered his decision," remarked Mr. Whitman. "It looks to me as if one of the real tangible results of the investigation so far has been the disclosure of this very matter. The investigation will go on until the mystery has been thoroughly cleared away. The minutes of that trial before the Police Commissioner have been subpoenaed, and Commissioner Cropsey will have to go before the Grand Jury again, and tell all he knows about the case.

"It may not benecessary to subpoena the Mayor. If it is necessary, however, he will be subpoenaed. If the Mayor wishes to voluntarily appear and testify we wil lbe only too glad to have him."

It was learned yesterday that the Grand Jury is investigating a report that two men are in possession of important information concerning Coney Island affairs when Inspector O'Brien was in charge there.

The Grand Jury learned yesterday that the total losses in 1910 through robberies and burglaries will amount to millions of dollars. It was ascertained that there is no book at Police Headquarters which gives any adequate record. A general report of the Police Department, now in the possession of the Jury, shows that the list of property put down as lost or stolen but recovered during the past year reached $1,000,000.

The property listed as "recovered," however, is only a very small percent. of the stolen property which has never been recovered. Outsid of this is an enormous amount of property stolen which the police, apparently, have no record of at all. Twenty and odd persons anxious to give testimony of robberies and other crimes appeared voluntary yesterday, but only a few of them got into the Grand Jury room. Their complaints were taken by Assistant District Attorney Moss or his secretary, Mr. Dillon.

Former Assemblyman Robert S. Conklin of 610 Riverside Drive told Secretary Dillon that his apartment had been burglarized in daylight while his wife and servant were shopping. A large amount of clothing and silverware was stolen, a part of which was later recovered in a second-hand store in Fifty-ninth Street. Mr. Conklin said he knew personally of a dozen daylight burglaries and three hold-ups in the neighborhood of his home in the last few weeks.

"Women are afraid to say alone in the apartments in my neighborhood," said Mr. Conklin. "The thieves sometimes come in the guise of old clothes men or laundry collectors. Most of them are young fellows."

Several business men from upper Broadway and upper Sixth Avenue told of having their places robbed in broad daylight. Thieves smash showcases and windows and get away with the loot. All demanded better police protection.

Dr. H. W. Rosalsky, brother of Judge Rosalsky of General Sessions, told Mr. Moss of a sneak thief who entered his dental office at 115th Street and Lenox Avenue, a short time ago, and stole his overcoat.

"There seems to be a gang of thieves organized solely to steal from dentists," said Dr. Rosalsky. "I know one dentist, Dr. Rachlis of 115th Street and Madison Avenue, whose place has been burglarized three times. In each instance the burglars stole a quantity of gold. Their system is to go to a dentist and ask to see specimens of his work. In that way they learn if he has a large stock of gold on hand. If he has they generally pay him another visit."

Lothair Rich, a jeweler, of 1 West Forty-second Street, said that beggars and panhandlers were never so plenteous around his neighborhood as now. They make their headquarters in Bryant Park, he said.

Among those before the Grand Jury yesterday were Policeman Nolles, Flaherty, and Brown, who were recently on trial before Commissioner Cropsey, charged with persecuting a man named Tanner Smith. Nolles and Flaherty were fined fifteen days' pay and Brown thirty days' pay. Brown then retired from the force in disgust. It developed that Smith was later arrested, charged with shooting a policeman. The Rev. J. F. Raywood of the Church of the Guardian Angel in Twenty-third Street, near Tenth Avenue, was also before the Grand Jury. It is understood that he testified that a great injustice had been done the three policemen. James Forbes, head of the Mendicancy Squad of the Charity Organization Society, testified, it is said, that the city was "wide open," and that the Municipal Lodging House had recently cared for twice as many lodgers than ever before in many years.

Judge O'Sullivan instructed the Grand Jury to meet, beginning next Monday, every afternoon instead of only three times a week. Three hours will be devoted daily to the fire investigation and two hours to crime.

"Yiddel" November, alias Harry Smith, who was caught in the raid on the Delaware Social Club last Tuesday night and later held by Magistrate Corrigan on charges of perjury, carrying concealed weapons, and impairing the morals of a child, was yesterday held by Magistrate McAdoo in the Essex Market Court in $500 bail on the latter charge, and his examination on the perjury charge was put over until next Wednesday. He has already been held for Special Sessions on the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Charles Rossmore, charged with interfering with an officer at the time of the raid, was held in $500 bail for trial. Jacob Levy, father of Morris Levy, the 14-year-old boy caught in the raid, was held in $500 bail for trial on a charge of allowing the morals of his son to be impaired.

Daniel Collins of 300 West 125th Street was held by Magistrate Steinert in the Harlem Court in $500 bail for trial o na charge of being a common gambler. He was one of three prisoners taken in a raid Thursday night by the Deputy Commissioner's detectives in a basement in Eighth Avenue, between 121st and 122d Streets.

SPECTACULAR BLAZE IN AN OIL WAREHOUSE

Thousands Watch the Firemen Fight Flames Near the Old Brooklyn Bridge.

GIRLS HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

With Fire Close to Them, They Save the Firm's Books and Flee—Two Men Rescued from an Elevator.

Where Peck Slip and Dover Street run into Front Street, almost in the shadow of Brooklyn Bridge, is an old section of New York. The streets are narrow and crooked, and the buildings, many of them approaching the century mark in years, form cañons through which the wind rushes with strange twists and eddies. On these currents sparks and embers and billows of heavy smoke rolled riverward at noon yesterday, and the throngs emerging from surrounding buildings for luncheon knew that a fire had gained good headway in one of the old Front Street structures.

Toward the spot from which rose the sparks and smoke they rushed to find the source of the blaze was the five-story building at 253-255 Front Street, in which Chard & Howe carried on their business in grease and oils. Behind the windows on all but the lower floor, flame played hide and seek with the smoke.

The first to reach the place saw three girls dash from the building. They were stenographers, the Misses Emma Archer, Mabel Drouett, and Grace Gordon. The last named, a new-comer with the firm, had just put her hat and coat away, and taken her seat at a typewriter when the fire was upon them. Through a glass partition in the rear of the office the girls saw the fire leaping down the stairs toward them from the second floor, and they had only time to throw a few books in the safe and shut the door, before they had to run for their lives.

William G. Howe of the firm and an employe were still in the building when the girls left, and after a moment those in the street, among them Alexander Reitsch of 791 Danube Avenue, Stapleton, S. I., heard them yelling for help and pounding on the elevator door on the first floor.

Reitsch and others ran into the building and opened the door, releasing Howe and the other man from the elevator, above which flames were already leaping in the elevator shaft. On the floor of the car beside them stood three barrels of naphtha and a barrel of turpentine, which the flames would have reached in an instant. The rescuers rolled the barrels into the street not a moment too soon.

Every floor in the building was oil soaked, and tinder could have burned no more fiercely. Blazing oil dropped everywhere. Rivulets of the burning stuff flowed down the stairs and along cracks in the woodwork. Fire fell upon the firemen and drove them to the street.

The first fire company to arrive had sent in two more alarms, bringing to the pier in Peck Slip the fireboats New Yorker, George B. McClellan, and Zophir Mills. Then lines twisting up through the crooked street to vantage points atop the buildings, where the men fought the flames in the warehouse, now an active volcano.

Thousands of gallons of water were driving into the flames from dozens of nozzles, but still the oil-fed fire gained until they leaped to the adjoining building, No. 257, the five-story factory of Louis Jaeck & Co., dealers in dye stuffs and chemicals. On this roof were dozens of firemen, and when the fire burst through they were driven back before it. But their work enabled their mates below to keep the flames within bounds, and after nearly two hours the fire was under control. Chard & Howe's plant was almost ruined, but the fire in the adjoining building was kept to the top floor.

Commissioner Waldo was at the fire, watching with interest Chief Croker directing his men. It was estimated that the fire did $40,000 damage, and it formed a spectacle for more than 5,000 persons, to keep whom in order required the reserves of all near-by precincts.

Brooklyn Bridge was thronged by folk who walked back and forth to keep the fire within view. The blaze is supposed to have started on the fourth floor of the oil building from spontaneous combustion.

THREE DEAF MUTES MAY LAND

Secretary Nagel Reverses Deportation Order on the Plea of Their Sister.

Mrs. Ray Nasinow who, with five children, arrived here from London on March 11 last and was ordered deported because three of the children are deaf mutes, by a decision of Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, will be permitted to land after all.

Mrs. Nasinow and her three girls and two boys came to join her husband, Joseph, and her twenty-year-old daughter, Goldy, who live in Camden, N. J. When the husband learned that his wife and children were to be deported he engaged counsel and had the case reopened in Washington.

The daughter told Secretary Nagel that she was an instructor of music and had many pupils, and that her brother George, 18 years old, had received a degree from Oxford University. Secretary Nagel was so impressed that he reversed the order of deportation and said that the family could be permitted to land provided a bond of $500 for each child was given.

Another Great Saturday Sale,

TODAY,

Of Handled and Sample Sets of BOOKS

At Prices the Most Amazing That Have Been Mentioned in New York in a Decade

Today's exceptional offering in our big Book Store, on the FOURTH Floor of our MAIN Building, is made up of handsome and valuable sets in de luxe subscription editions, works of standard authors—more or less marred by handling and therefore priced at a GREAT REDUCTION from regular selling figures.

The quantity is so great that we cannot possibly print any extended description of each set; but we have tried to indicate as many as we can, as briefly as possible. They have been gathered from so many sources that in the entire lot you will find represented almost every publisher and society making a specialty of fine editions. A few of these sets are a little the worse for handling; but we guarantee the inside pages to be perfect, and the covers you may easily judge for yourself.

As we have only one, two, three, or perhaps a few more duplicates of any set, and as some are in better condition than others, we advise AN EARLY SELECTION. This is emphatically an opportunity to complete your library that comes only once in a decade.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MAY TRY DR. EWALD

HAS POWER OVER MEMBERS

And One Accused, Though Suspended, May Not Resign While Facing New Accusations, Is Unanimous Opinion.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, reversing unanimously an order by Justice Goff, decided yesterday that the New York County Medical Society may try the charges against Dr. Louis Anton Ewald if it so desires. The charges, which were communicated in writing to the President of the society by Egon Egghard, formerly Superintendent of Sydenham Hospital, alleged that Dr. Ewald and Dr. Robert Kunitzer, acting in concert, had falsified the records of that hospital to bear out the statements made by Dr. Ewald in a scientific article.

In that article Dr. Ewald created something of a sensation in the medical profession by claiming to have performed sixty-nine operations by the Radical Freund method. On the charge that he had altogether failed to substantiate certain statements in the article, the Medical Society, in May, 1910, suspended him from membership for one year. The Board of Censors of the society, after hearing Egghard's story, then expelled Dr. Kunitzer.

In order that there might be a hearing in Dr. Ewald's case on the charges of falsifying the records, it was necessary to restore his membership. So the Censors voted to reinstate him and to serve him with charges, but the notice of restoration reached him two days before the charges did, and in that interval he sent in his resignation and asked that it be accepted. It was not accepted, but when the society tried to proceed with the matter, the Board of Censors was confronted with a court order temporarily restraining them from even discussing the case. I am no longer a member, and you have no jurisdiction over me, said Dr. Ewald in effect. But we have a by-law which holds that no resignation shall be accepted from a member under charges, said the New York County Medical Society.

Justice Goff decided in favor of Dr. Ewald and continued the injunction. Dr. Ewald contended, among other things, that the society had no power to retain a member for the sole purpose of trying him on charges and expelling him, and Justice Goff upheld this idea, basing his decision, in part, on the Dartmouth College case. The Appellate Division thought Justice Goff had a misconception of the application of that famous case.

"It is no part of the functions of the society," said Justice Goff in his opinion, "to discipline physicians merely as such in their moral and ethical relations to the public outside of the society or to discredit them by expulsion merely as a deterrent to other physicians. If a member desires to withdraw the objects of the society are as well promoted thereby as by expulsion."

Almuth C. Vandiver argued the society's case on appeal. Justice Miller, writing the Appellate Division decision, says:

"County medical societies are much more than private corporations or social clubs. The scope of the original act of incorporation and of the subsequent acts relating to them show that they were intended to discharge important duties to the public. It seems plain, therefore, that a member on his admission to the society assumes an obligation, not only to conform to the rules and regulations of the society respecting his immediate relations to it, but as well to observe its standards of professional ethics, and that a breach of that obligation in any respect involves a violation of duty to the society.

"Certainly any discreditable act of a member in his professional relations tends to discredit the society. The by-laws, rules, and regulations of the society would have no sanction if its discipline could be evaded by a resignation. Whereupon it follows not only that the society has the power to expel for unprofessional conduct, not directly involving the relations of the member, as such, to the society, but that it also had the power to pass the by-law that no member should be permitted to resign under charges.

"The plaintiff was at all times a member. His rights as such were temporarily in abeyance. After restoration he probably could not again be tried upon the charges upon which he was suspended. But the present charges are entirely different. He was suspended for an act of charlatanry; he is now charged with forging hospital records to conceal the nature of that act. His guilt of the latter charge cannot be assumed in advance of a trial, and it was of course not passed upon when his suspension was removed.

"While I have discussed the case from the standpoint of the plaintiff's rights and obligations as a member of the defendant society, I am far from suggesting that a court of equity should enjoin a county medical society from inquiring into unprofessional conduct either of members or of non-members."

The County Medical Society has one meeting in May before the Summer vacation. Whether they will proceed immediately with Dr. Ewald's case no one was prepared to announce with authority yesterday.

ROW OVER INSANE SISTER.

One Brother Accuses Other of Committing Her as Pauper and Getting Estate.

Allegations that Anna B. Guiges, who held a life interest in valuable property in the Bronx, was put in an aslyum as a pauper by her brother, Albert A. Guiges, a wealthy leather merchant, figure in the dispute between Guiges and his brother, George J. A. Guiges. After reading the papers on both sides, Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum handed down an opinion in which he said:

"I see no reason why this unfortunate woman should be left in a State institution for the indigent insane, (the New Jersey State Hospital at Trenton,) and steps should be taken by both petitioners, (her brothers,) to place her in an institution of acknowledged standing, where material comforts may be accorded her for compensation."

George A. J. Guiges not only accuses his brother Albert of placing his sister in the New Jersey institution as a pauper, but charges Albert and Burlock A. Rabell, a lawyer, with having engineered a fraudulent transfer of the woman's property between the time she was committed to Rivercrest Sanatorium, Astoria, by Supreme Court Justice Amend, and the time he alleges she was put in the Jersey asylum.

Justice Greenbaum ordered that the dispute of the two brothers over the property and their petitions for an inquiry into her mental status should be consolidated in one action. He appointed Louis F. Doyle, Moses Weinman, and Dr. Richard Van Santvoord to act with a Sheriff's jury in passing on the sister's sanity, and pending a decision he orders all parties interested to refrain from disposing of or from encumbering the property, which is on East 175th Street, east of Marmion Avenue. The two brothers and the sister inherited the property and the brothers deeded their share to their sister for her support for life.

While his sister was at Rivercrest, George declares, he paid $21 a week for her maintenance. On April 23 she was so much improved that she was paroled, and George says he provided her with railroad fare and cash for a trip to the home of Albert, at Kingston, N. J. He told his brother, he says, that he would pay $10 a week for her support.

George says he learned later that on May 14, 1910, his sister conveyed her entire interest in the property to John L. Golden as trustee, "subject to a first mortgage of $3,500 and to a claim of $1,000 to Burlock A. Rabell for past legal services." The trust deed provided that she was to enjoy the income of the property for life and that on her death Theresa R. Guiges, wife of Albert, and George Guiges should be tenants in common. George Guiges attacks the deed as fraudulent. Later he learned that his sister had been put in the New Jersey State Hospital, and brought the present proceedings.

NO HEAD YET FOR PRINCETON.

Nominating Committee, Undecided, Rejects All but Finley and Hibben.

No decision between Dr. John H. Finley, President of the City College, and Prof. John Grier Hibben of Princeton for the Presidency of Princeton University, has been reached yet by the Nominating Committee. The committee had a long session on Wednesday afternoon in the office of John A. Stewart, President of the Board of Trustees, 45 Wall Street, but nothing was given out.

It was learned yesterday, however, that every name that had been suggested to the committee was rejected, except those of Dr. Finley and Prof. Hibben. Whether or not the committee is holding off with a view of entering upon a new quest could not be learned, but the opinion was expressed that this was extremely improbable.

The Princeton Trustees will meet next Thursday, but it is not now expected that the Nominating Committtee will have its report ready at that time.

SCIENCE HEALER HELD IN A NEW TEST CASE

Medical Society Has Wentworth B. Winslow Arrested on Woman's Testimony.

COLE CASE DISAPPOINTING

Jerome Got It Out of Special Sessions and Before a Jury—Both Sides Want Court of Appeals Ruling.

Wentworth Byron Winslow, a Christian Science practitioner with offices at 140 West Forty-second Street, was arrested last evening at his home, 1,925 Seventh Avenue, on the charge of practicing medicine without a license. Detective O'Neil took him to Police Headquarters, where he was released in $500 bail. He will appear this morning before Magistrate House in Jefferson Market Court.

The warrant was issued by Magistrate House on the complaint of Mrs. Frances Benzecry, a representative of the County Medical Society. Almuth C. Vandiver, counsel for the society, explained that the society wanted a ruling by the Court of Appeals on that part of the law regulating the practice of medicine which excepts the practice of religious tenets of any church. The society wanted it determined, once for all, whether or not mental healers, under the guise of religious practices, could conduct the business of healing for money and compensation, irrespective of regulation by the State authorities.

The society thought it had a test case when the police arrested Willis Vernon Cole and Magistrate Freschi subsequently held him for trial in Special Sessions, which court for many years has tried cases involving a construction of the medical statutes. Cole was represented by William Travers Jerome, and on his motion the case was removed from Special Sessions to General Sessions, which means a trial by jury and the delay that comes of congested calendars.

The Medical Society, therefore, proceeded against another healer, as if to intimate that it could keep it up as long as the Scientists could. The same Mrs. Benzecry, who did the detective work in the Cole case, appears as the complainant in the Winslow case, rehearsing in the affidavit which she submitted to Magistrate House the incidents of several visits made to Winslow's offices in the guise of a sufferer in need of treatment. It is said that, with fine humor and literary feeling, she called herself Mrs. Harris.

Here is the substance of Mrs. Benzecry's story as told in the complaint on which the warrant was isued. At the first visit on March 8 there was some such dialogue as this:

"My stomach is out of order. Can you cure me by Christian Science treatment?"

"I can heal you. God is perfect; we must be like God. We must be good, be sincere, be true. We are made in the image of God."

"What does the treatment cost?"

"Two dollars."

The treatment, according to Mrs. Benzeory, consisted of the healer's sitting opposite the patient for fifteen minutes with closed eyes, and one some occasions by the reading of the Bible. At the second visit, she says, she complained of continued stomach trouble, only to be greeted by such counsel as this:

"You can eat lobster, corbeef, cabbage, and everything you like. Your stomach does not know the difference."

"Well, if my stomach does not know the difference I do."

She tells of having asked Mr. Winslow about the story in the SUNDAY TIMES of a Christian Science patient who had killed himself in discouragement. Winslow, she says, made some inquiries of a Mr. Cox over the telephone, and then explained to her that the man was not dead, but that he had taken an overdose of posion and was in Bellevue. At this point, she says, Mr. Winslow volunteered the information that about a year ago The World or THE TIMES had called him a fakir, and a lot of ther names. She asked why he had not sued.

"What is the use?" she gives as his reply. "My friends did not believe it, any way."

She says that he told her that children born under Christian Science treatment were always strong and healthy.

Eugene R. Cox of the Publication Committee of the Mother Church, said last night that Mr. Winslow was protected by the medical law, the provision that it should not be construed to apply to the practices the religious tenets of any church having been made a part of the law at the suggestion of the Medican Society's attorney after conference with some of the church leaders. He, too, wanted the dispute settled soon, and had understood from Mr. Jerome that it might come up in General Sessions in two weekse.

"I had thought that this was beginning to look more like persecution than prosecution," he said, "and history shows that such religious persecution always reacts upon the persecutor. Public sentiment will not stand for it. It seemed to me to be part of the general movement in which the American Medical Association is trying to pass restrictive laws that would tend to monopolize healing for the benefit of one school."

Magistrate Freschi, at the time he held Cole for trial, said that in his opinion the practice of the treatment of sickness and disease by inaudible prayer as taught in the book by Mrs. Eddy, entitled, 'Science and Health, with Key,' violated the law of this State. The Christian Scientist had the right to believe that he could heal by prayer, but he was of the opinion that if he put that belief into practice for hire and solicited patients by advertisements he exceeded his rights as an individual under the law.

Allimony for Wife Suing A. L. Crawford.

To Laura Crawford, who is suing her husband, Alfred L. Crawford, for divorce, Supreme Court Justice Blanchard awarded yesterday $200 a month alimony pending trial. The Crawfords were married on Dec. 28, 1884, and have been separated two years. He is an official of the Welsbach Company, 1 Hudson Street, and in addition to large mining interests in Canada has, his wife says, $50,000 in cash he inherited from his father and a large income from another estate. Mrs. Crawford is a musician. She has educated her daughter, she says, out of her own means.

TAX PROTESTS ARE DOUBLED.

Nearly 20,000 Owners Contest Assessments—Majority of Them in Brooklyn.

Exactly 19,540 property owners have protested against the increase made in their real estate assessments this year, more than twice the number filed in any recent year. These are the figures by boroughs for the last two years:

	1911.	1910.	Parcels.
Manhattan	3,500	3,001	96,838
Bronx	1,200	459	62,243
Brooklyn	11,700	2,760	202,521
Queens	2,400	834	123,602
Richmond	740	336	30,645

The Tax Board will hear the complaints this month.

Wins Usury Suit from Northern Bank.

Louis C. Neuburger, a pawnbroker, won a suit for $1,020 for usury against the Northern Bank in the Supreme Court yesterday. The jury gave Neuburger judgment for the full amount sued for. He alleged the bank obtained usurious interest to the amount of $510 from him and sued for double that amount, as permitted by the State law.

Each Sought Freedom; Must Stay Wed

Amasa B. Clark's suit for divorce from his wife, Harriet N. Clark, and her suit against him for separation were thrown out of court yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Brady, who found that both had failed to sustain their charges. Clark relied in part on the testimony of Weather Forecaster James H. Scarr that weather conditions and sunlight on one of the dates of his wife's alleged misconduct were such as to make it probable that his witnesses could see what they maintained they saw.

1,000 Men's Canes at About Half Price

An Extraordinary Offering for Easter

Probably more men buy Walking Sticks in the Spring than at any other time of the year—and a stick is almost as important an adjunct of a man's Easter dress as his new hat. Hence this unusual purchase of a thousand fine Walking Sticks from a leading New York manufacturer and importer is of splendid timeliness, specially as we are able to sell them at an average of half their usual prices.

The season's newest styles are included, with plenty of the fashionable hook handles. There is a great choice of fine and unusual woods, including Partridge, Grenadine, Pimento, Ironwood, Laguna, Amonsine, Madras, Ash, Acid-eaten, Malacca, Whangee and Nilghiri.

All have sterling silver trimmings; a few are gold-trimmed.

A collection conspicuous for its high character and the appeal that it is certain to make to men of discrimination. Prices are:

50c to $3, regularly $1 to $6

HONOR MEDALS WON BY 24 FIREMEN

Most of Them Awarded for Daring Rescues at Fires in the Last Two Years.

TWO FOREMEN COMMENDED

Honor medals will be awarded by Mayor Gaynor at Fire Headquarters next Tuesday afternoon to twenty-four firemen who risked their lives making rescues during 1909 and 1910. An unusually large number of firemen are on last year's valor list, and most of them will receive other medals presented by citizens of New York.

On the 1909 list are John R. Harcke of Hook and Ladder 102, who rescued Mrs. Mary Louise Bina in a fire at 17 East 134th Street on Aug. 20, 1909; Frank C. Clark, John J. Quinn, and Robert Nelson of Hook and Ladder 24, and Edward J. McCarthy of Engine Company 1, all of whom made heroic rescues of women and children in the fire at 374 Seventh Avenue on March 3, 1909; John S. Langan of Engine Company 120, who crawled through flames and smoke in a building at 313 Seventh Avenue, Brooklyn, on March 4, 1909, and carried several persons in safety to the street; James T. McGrath of Hook and Ladder 54, who ascended a thirty-five-foot ladder and rescued 14-year-old Joseph Glazier from a burning building at 690 Grand Street, Brooklyn, on Nov. 16, 1909; Edward F. McCormack of Engine Company 128, who carried the two children of Mrs. Fernandez from the building at 472 Third Avenue, Brooklyn, on May 4, 1909.

Foreman James J. Walsh of Engine Company 169, Brooklyn, will receive the Stephenson Medal for having the best-disciplined company. Of him the Medal Commission says:

"Superior officers report that Foreman Walsh has brought his command to a high degree of efficiency by well-sustained intelligence, energy, and diligence. His men have excellently performed the monotonous duties at company quarters, and at the same time have made a first-class record as brave and efficient fire-fighters. Foreman Walsh is an example of what individual effort can accomplish toward raising the standard of work among the members of the uniformed force."

The 1910 list includes the following: Richard J. Condon of Hook and Ladder Company 40, for rescues made at the fire at 374 Manhattan Avenue on Nov. 11; Assistant Foreman William F. Elder of Engine Company 165, who rescued the two children of Mrs. Margaret Darcy at the fire on the Boulevard, between Ammerman and Meredith Avenues, Arverne, Queens, on July 14; Assistant Foreman Joseph L. Bonk of Engine Company 30, who rescued Fireman Charles Murphy from the cellar of a building on fire at 26 Cornelia Street, on Nov. 12; George Washburn of Hook and Ladder Company 40, who rescued Miss Wagner and Miss Lahey from a burning building at 374 Manhattan Avenue on Nov. 11; Assistant Foremen Alexander McCrimlisk of Engine Company 121, who rescued Fireman Herbert E. Downward from a cellar at 147 Scholes Street, Brooklyn on June 3; John J. O'Rourke of Engine Company 165, for rescuing little Luke Darcy from the Arverne fire on July 14; William W. Marck of Engine Company 85, John J. Walsh of Engine Company 85, Deputy Chief John Kenlon, Marine Division; Chief of Battalion Edward J. Worth, Third Battalion; Foreman John Kelly and Pilot Laurence Healy of Engine Company 85, (fireboat James Dunne,) all for heroic conduct at the fire in and about Piers 14 and 15, North River, on July 16; Dennis O'Shaughnessy of Hook and Ladder Company 40 for assisting at an unusual rescue at a fire on Nov. 11, at 374 Manhattan Avenue; Joseph Halpin of Engine Company 18, for rescues at a fire on July 31, at 4,101 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn.

Foreman William H. Nash of Engine Company 71, the Bronx, receives the 1910 Stephenson medal for the best disciplined company.

"His record," says the report, "is a long and honorable one and his strict attention to duty and discipline has brought his command to a very high degree of efficiency."

Joseph Johnson, Deputy Fire Commissioner, is President of the Board of Merit and the other members are Arthur J. O'Keeffee, Deputy Fire Commissioner; Edward F. Croker, Chief of Department; Thomas Lally, Deputy Chief in charge of Brooklyn and Queens; John Kenlon, Deputy Chief in charge of the Marine Division; Thomas J. Ahearn, Deputy Chief commanding the Seventh Division, and Patrick Maher, Deputy Chief commanding the Eleventh Division.

After the presentation ceremonies there will be an exhibition of the Probationary Firemen's School of the Fire College in the Sixty-eighth Street Court, in the rear of the headquarter's building.

FAIR FOR WIDOWED MOTHERS.

Spring Millinery Is the Feature of the Charity Exhibits at Waldorf-Astoria.

The latest in Spring hats and trimmings at bargain prices is what the members of the Young Women's Auxiliary to the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association is promising at its Spring bazaar, which takes up all the Myrtle and East Rooms and foyer in the Waldorf-Astoria. It opened yesterday and will close with a dance some time late to-night. The bazaar is a pretty one, all the booths draped with green and vines to give it a Spring-like appearance. It has a number of unusual features. The millinery is one, for instead of having ready-to-wear millinery the greater number of hats are untrimmed, and the buyer can also purchase the flowers and ribbons to trim them.

There is a country store in charge of Miss Rita Simon. Mrs. I. Jacobi has charge of the French shop; there is something quite different from the ordinary bazaar in the music counter in charge of Miss Margaret Neugass, where all the latest things in sheet music can be found. Miss Dorothy Lichtenstein sells cigars and Miss Stella Lesser runs a wheel of fortune. Roscoe Hess is running a photograph gallery for the auxiliary; Miss Ernestine Meyer is in charge of the restaurant, and Herbert Fox is manager for the Café Chantant Vaudeville.

The vaudeville, for which there is a large platform in the restaurant, comes off to-night from 9:30 to 11:30. Mrs. Arthur Spiro will sing, Miss Fannie Dorf will give impersonations, Mrs. Julian Nathan monologues, and Miss Margaret Haymen, Phil Bluhm, and Leo Franklin will form the team of song-and-dance artists. Dancing will follow the vaudeville.

ALTAR IN RYAN'S HOUSE.

Will Cost $6,000 and Be the Finest in Any Private Chapel in This Country.

Thomas F. Ryan is to have a marble altar built in the chapel on the second floor of his home, 858 Fifth Avenue. Mr. Ryan's house adjoins that of George Gould on the northeast corner of Sixty-seventh Street. On the other side is the old Yerkes art gallery, which Mr. Ryan purchased about a year ago.

The altar will weigh four tons, and will cost about $6,000, according to the estimate of the architect, C. T. Mathews, who filed the plans in the Building Department yesterday. It will be the most beautiful altar in any private chapel in the United States. It will be 7½ feet wide and 8 feet high, and will be of Roman classic design to harmonize with the architecture of the chapel.

The chancel of the chapel is to be raised [illegible] which is to [illegible] chapel will

MITCHEL QUESTIONS MILLER.

John Purroy Mitchel, President of the Aldermen, cross-examined President Cyrus C. Miller of the Bronx, a fellow-member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, yesterday in the Supreme Court before Justice Ford. Mr. Mitchel was counsel for George F. Moritz, brother of Herman H. Moritz, who committed suicide and burned his home in a fit of supposed temporary insanity.

Moritz is suing his brother's widow, Anna V. Moritz, to set aside a deed in her favor, executed, he alleges, after his brother became insane. If the deed is set aside Moritz will be entitled to two-thirds of the realty.

Borough President Miller was a witness for Mrs. Moritz, the wife. He admitted that Moritz had a fear of bankruptcy, and the poorhouse, but Mr. Miller said he was able to show Moritz that he owned property worth $100,000 and to reassure him. He said he put Moritz to work in his law office to keep his mind off his worries.

To Retry Breach of Promise Suit.

A new trial of Blanche B. Freeman's breach of promise suit against Clifford B. Harmon, the real estate operator and amateur aviator, was ordered yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. A jury before Supreme Court Justice Erlanger gave Miss Freeman a verdict for $15,000 damages, but this was set aside by the Judge as contrary to the evidence. The suit was brought to compel the performance of an alleged agreement by Harmon to pay her $100 a month for life in consideration of her withdrawal of a previous suit for $100,000 damages.

Wife Sues to Break Somborn's Will.

Kathryn H. Somborn started yesterday to contest the will of her husband, Edward K. Somborn, who died March 8 in the Rivercrest Sanitarium in Astoria. In his will Somborn, who was head of the American Sight-Seeing Car and Coach Company, explained that he had not provided liberally for his wife because "her conduct has been such that through no fault of mine it has become necessary for me to live separate and apart from her." Mrs. Somborn charges that her husband's sister, Sarah H. Somborn, and his brother, Henry W. G. Somborn, exercised undue influence on him after his mind had become weak.

KINGS CO. ELECTRIC BONDS.

Further Issue of $1,500,000 6 Per Cents Authorized by Service Board.

The Public Service Commission authorized yesterday the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company to issue $1,500,000 6 per cent. debenture bonds, convertible at par into stock of the company three years from date, and payable twelve years from date. An issue of a like amount of demand notes was authorized to be made to the Kings County Electric Light and Power Company by the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn, such notes to be without interest.

The Kings County Electric applied originally for permission to issue $5,000,000 bonds, and the commission previously authorized the issue of $2,500,000. The question of issuing the balance covered by the original application was taken up subsequently by Commissioner Maltbie, with the result that $1,500,000 more were authorized. The bonds are to be used to buy the Brooklyn Edison Company's notes, and the proceeds of the issue, so worked out, will go to pay for various extensions of the Brooklyn Edison Company which have been financed either directly by it or through advances obtained from the Kings County Light and Power Company.

In the sale of the bonds the Kings County Light and Power Company is obliged to offer them at not less than par and interest, first to its own stockholders, then to the Brooklyn Edison Fund, which is created as part of a profit-sharing and pension plan of the Brooklyn Edison Company. If any unsold balance remains, the company is to invite public bidding, and may sell the remainder, at not less than par and accrued interest, to the highest bidder. The Kings County Electric Company owns the entire capital stock of the Brooklyn Edison Company.

Olive Schreiner's Great Book

WOMAN AND LABOR

By the author of "The Story of an African Farm"

Modern woman and the work of the world—how much of it she should do, how little of it she is allowed to do, and what the tremendous dangers are, both for society to-day and for the future race—form the basis of this great book. Its logic is iron, its direct eloquence is fire, and its philosophic breadth is like a sweep of wind from a wide country. A book at once so necessary and so inspired is rare indeed. Cloth, 12mo. $1.25 net; postpaid, $1.37.

A TENDERFOOT WITH PEARY

GEORGE BORUP, the "kid" of the expedition, had "the time of his life" with Peary, and here tells you about it; not as people talk in books, but as they talk—slang and all. Very funny, and full of excitement, too. With 43 illustrations. Cloth. 8vo, $2.10 net; postpaid, $2.27.

Three Successful Novels

SYDNEY CARTERET, Rancher

By Harold Bindloss, Author of "Masters of the Wheatlands," etc.

This novel, now in its fourth edition, is meeting with such spontaneous popularity everywhere that it bids fair to be Bindloss' most popular novel. An attractive frontiersman of the Northwest, living under an assumed name, has many unusual adventures, which make a strong story of ranching, hunting, mining, finance and love. Cloth. 12mo. $1.25 net; postpaid, $1.37.

3d Edition.

The VOW

By Paul Trent

John Gaunt kept his word—though the hardheaded carrying out of his bargain (to live according to the precepts of Christ if his wife were spared to him) led to desperate fighting for his reputation, his life, and even his wife's love. It is a dramatic story of original theme. Frontispiece in colors. Cloth. 12mo. $1.25 net; postpaid $1.37.

2d Edition.

The CHASM

By George Cram Cook

"A novel with a big soul. A novel with great ideas. . . . With that sincerity which thrills the reader like a quick look of understanding or a sudden burst of sunshine after rain."—Francis Hackett in Chicago Eve. Post. Cloth. 12mo. $1.25 net; postpaid, $1.37

TRANSIT KICKS MADE PUBLIC.

The Public Service Commission began yesterday the practice of making public the monthly record of the complaints received against the various transportation companies operating in New York. The figures were for the month of March, and showed that the Interborough Rapid Transit Company headed the list with twenty-three complaints. There were nineteen complaints against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit system, seven against the Long Island Railroad Company, seven against the Metropolitan Street Railway, and fourteen scattered among other companies.

The companies against which no complaints were received were: The New York Central Railroad, the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, the Staten Island Railway, the Richmond Light and Power Company, the New York City Interborough Company, the Long Island Electric, the Forty-second Street, Manhattanville & St. Nicholas Avenue Railway, the Coney Island & Brooklyn Railway, and the Central Park, North & East River Railway.

The complaints were all investigated by the commission and various improvements of service obtained.

Blamed for Carrere's Death.

The Coroner's jury held yesterday William Bensell, a motorman, living at 604 Lenox Avenue, accusing him of culpable negligence, resulting in the death of John M. Carrere, the noted architect. Bensell was driving the car that ran into a taxicab in which Mr. Carrere was riding. The jury in bringing in its verdict released from custody Paul Frederickson, the chauffeur of the taxicab.

PHILADELPHIA BOOK NEWS

PHILADELPHIA, April 8.—"The most talked-of book in London," which has passed through two editions since its first appearance at the beginning of February—an unusual experience in the British field of fiction,—is soon to be submitted to the judgment of American readers of cultivated taste; for it is especially to them that the J. B. Lippincott Co. look for the success of "Phrynette," which is to be brought out at the end of the present month. The book is from the pen of Marthe Troly-Curtin, and contains, besides the thread of a charming love-story, a clever and naïve description of British social and domestic life as seen through the eyes of a young French girl, an orphan, who goes to England to visit her relations there.

The Lippincotts have also in preparation a second historical novel by Francese L. (Mrs. Lawrence) Turnbull of Baltimore, entitled "The Royal Pawn of Venice." Mrs. Turnbull has made Caterina of the Ca' Cornaro her heroine, and has sought to surround her with the color and atmosphere of her loved "City of the Lagoons."

Yesterday saw the issue by the Lippincotts of a handsome reprint in two large volumes of Dr. Francis Lieber's famous "Manual of Political Ethics," edited by T. D. Woolsey.

Two or three new juveniles are to be published next week by the John C. Winston Co., two of them belonging to a new series for boys, by Edward S. Ellis—"The Flying Boys in the Sky" and "The Flying Boys to the Rescue." As indicated by the titles, the books tell of the exciting adventures of a couple of lads with a biplane, and justify the publishers' description of "up-to-the-minute." The same house will also bring out on Monday the first volume of a series of stories for girls by Margaret Vandercook, "The Ranch Girls," telling of the experiences of a party on a ranch in Wyoming.

NEW EDITIONS OF THE BIBLE

THE Oxford University Press has just issued an exact reprint, in Roman type, of the Authorized Bible of 1611, edited by A. W. Pollard.

The University Presses of Oxford and Cambridge announce two new editions of the Revised Version, in which for the first time the text is divided into verses as in the 1611 Bible. Hitherto, the Revised Version has been divided into paragraphs instead of verses. One of the new editions, containing central column references, will be published on May 17, the thirtieth anniversary of the appearance of the Revised New Testament, when 1,000,000 copies were sold in the course of the day; the other edition, text only, will appear a few weeks later.

The University Presses have also ready for publication a cheap edition of "The Interlinear Bible," which combines the Authorized and the Revised Versions. Where the versions vary, the passages are printed in smaller type, so arranged that the reader following continuously the upper line has the text of the Revised Version or following the lower line the Authorized Version; and yet sees at a glance the difference.

The Annual Convention of the American Booksellers' Association will be held at the Hotel Astor from May 9 to 11.

"THE GUARDIAN OF KINGS"

XAVIER PAOLI, whose book, "Their Majesties as I Knew Them," is about to appear, has been intrusted by the French Republic, for a quarter of a century, with the delicate duty of guarding the persons of monarchs who visit France. Fifteen emperors and kings, a half-dozen empresses and queens, and unnumbered grand dukes and princes of the blood have been safeguarded by him. He has enjoyed the confidence of many and has heard their impressions. Queen Victoria would have no one else to watch over her when in France; and his latest charge was the young King of Spain. The King of Greece called him "the Guardian of Kings."

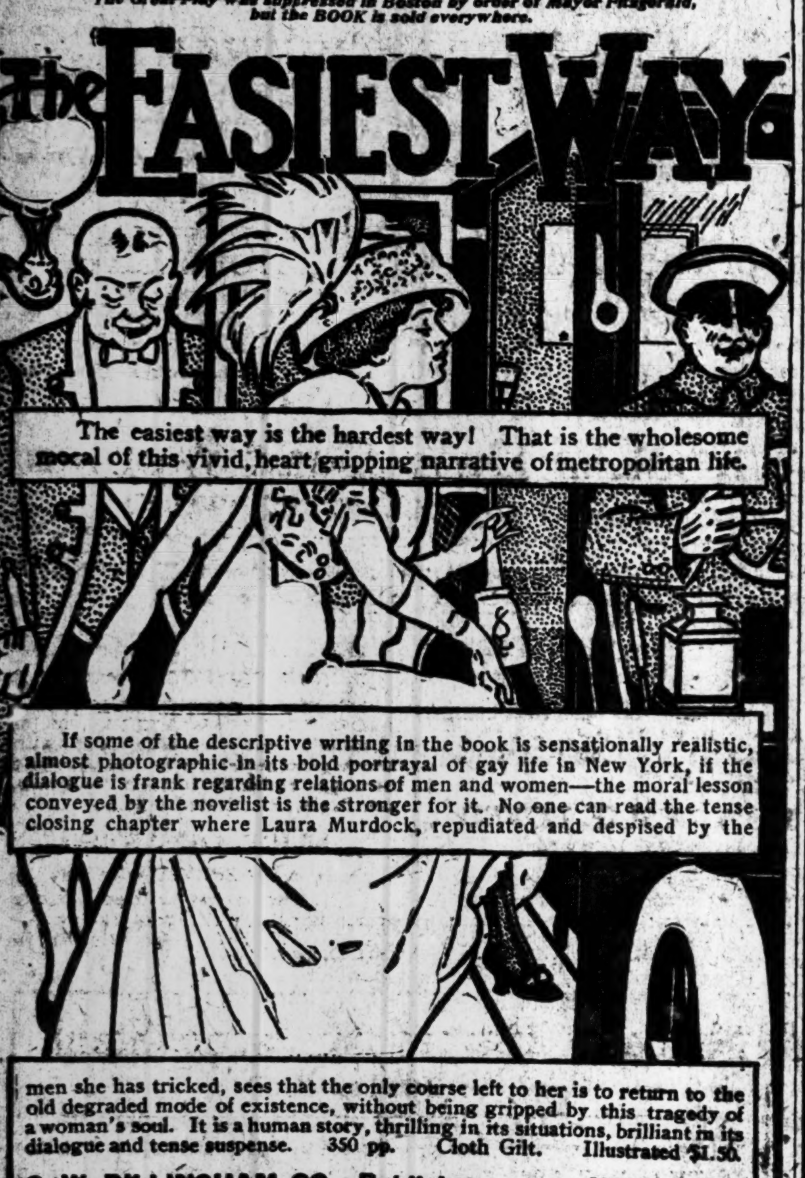
THE COUNTRY LIFE MOVEMENT

Prof. L. H. Bailey's "The Country Life Movement," which the Macmillan Co. announced for publication several weeks ago, has just been published. The postponement was made necessary because of certain changes suggested by the report of the New York State Commission on Distribution and Population, of which the author is a member. Published at the same time is Mrs. Helena Rutherford Ely's "The Practical Flower-Garden." This is written from the author's own experience, and illustrated with eight color plates and photographs of her garden.

APROPOS of the coming coronation in England, the Everett Publishing Co. of Boston will issue at an early date a work by Miss Alice D'Alcho, entitled "The Queens of the Early Roman Period." The book will be illustrated.

A Powerful New Novel of City Life
BY
EUGENE WALTER and ARTHUR HORNBLOW

The Great Play was suppressed in Boston by order of Mayor Fitzgerald, but the BOOK is sold everywhere.



The easiest way is the hardest way! That is the wholesome moral of this vivid, heart gripping narrative of metropolitan life.

If some of the descriptive writing in the book is sensationally realistic, almost photographic in its bold portrayal of gay life in New York, if the dialogue is frank regarding relations of men and women—the moral lesson conveyed by the novelist is the stronger for it. No one can read the tense closing chapter where Laura Murdock, repudiated and despised by the men she has tricked, sees that the only course left to her is to return to the old degraded mode of existence, without being gripped by this tragedy of a woman's soul. It is a human story, thrilling in its situations, brilliant in its dialogue and tense suspense. 350 pp. Cloth Gilt. Illustrated $1.50.

THE PROFESSOR'S MYSTERY
A New Novel by Wells Hastings and Brian Hooker
Pictures by Hanson Booth

"Love and mystery about equally divide these pages, or perhaps it would be more accurate to say that this is a mystery story colored by love.

"Excellent character drawing, unusually good workmanship and a vivid style combine to lift the story into a class above that of the ordinary mystery tale. The ingenuity of its weaving is remarkable. As the street faker says, 'Now you see it, and now you don't.' Apparently right within one's fingers, it slips again.

"As a love story it is charming: as a mystery story it is constantly absorbing. Interest ceases only with the last page."—Detroit Journal

NEWS OF BOOKS

Dr. Nordau on History.
As now written it is absolutely false, he says. Even if true, it would be practically worthless.

Immortal.
By Alice Cunningham.

Mediterranean Civilization.

Behind Japanese Screens.

Canada's New Copyright Act.

Stedman on Edgar Allan Poe.

Knut Hamsun, the Norwegian.

The Poets and Womankind.

"From Memory's Shrine."

"In the Kaiser's Capital."

"Yosemite Trails" Described.
By a nature-lover who has the eye of an artist and the pen of a poet.

Chesterton on William Blake.
The poet-painter finds in G. K. C. his most amusing and illuminating critic.

"Samuel Rogers and His Circle."
A very interesting book, that owes little of its piquancy to scandals.

Literary Notes from London.

New York Literary Notes.

BOOKS REVIEWED

The following books will be reviewed in to-morrow's NEW YORK TIMES REVIEW OF BOOKS:

THE INTERPRETATION OF HISTORY. By Max Nordau. Translated from the German by M. A. Hamilton. Moffat, Yard & Co.

FRENCH MEN, WOMEN AND BOOKS. By Amelia Betham-Edwards. A. C. McClurg & Co. $2.50.

FROM MEMORY'S SHRINE. The Reminiscences of Carmen Sylvia, Queen of Roumania. Illustrated. Translated by Edith Hopkirk. J. B. Lippincott Co. $2.50.

AMONG THE AUTHORS.

PROF. GEORGE E. WOODBERRY has returned home from Europe and is already hard at work on his new Desert volume.

MR. ERNEST THOMPSON SETON has returned from a two months' tour of England. While abroad he reviewed bodies of the Boy Scouts and told them what the American boys were doing.

MISS CLARA E. LAUGHLIN sailed last week for the South of Europe, where she expects to remain five months "on a literary hunt." Her last story, a modern "fairy-tale," "Everybody's Lonesome," is in its fourth edition here and is now coming out in England. This summer a novel of hers will be published, and in the fall a novelette, "The Gleaners," founded on Millet's famous painting.

MRS. KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN has written an epilogue for Miss Edith Taliaferro to speak at the last performance of "Rebecca" at the Republic Theatre on April 8. Mrs. Wiggin will give a dinner for Count Tolstoy and take her guests to this farewell performance of her play.

MISS CAROLINE FULLER, author of "The Bramble-Bush," published her first story when she was thirteen years old. She was graduated from Smith College in 1895, and brought out the same year a volume of Smith College Stories which are still read. Music has always been her chief recreation, and several of her songs have been published.

DR. WILLIAM J. DAWSON, author of "A Prophet in Babylon," "A Soldier of the Future," etc., has just accepted the pastorate of the Old First Presbyterian Church in Newark, and will now have an opportunity to put in practice some of his radical ideas regarding the relations between pastors and church members.

MISS FANNIE HEASLIP LEA, author of "Quicksands" and "The Jaconette Stories," is a college graduate whose home is in New Orleans. A number of people in that city are said to be nerovus lest she should have made them play a part in the unfolding of "a plot that is quite sufficiently piquant."

PROF. R. G. MOULTON, discussing, in "World Literature," the "cribbing" of indolent college students, gives this expression of his views:

> I remember hearing a man of the highest academic position, and one who had taken the highest classical honors of his university, describe his own introduction as a schoolboy to Virgil. It was the custom of the school for three classes to take their Virgil together; the highest of the three could perhaps prepare two hundred lines for a lesson, the next class one hundred, the third (to which the speaker belonged) only fifty. Thus, his first acquaintance with the "Aeneid" consisted in reading lines 1 to 50, lines 201 to 250, lines 401 to 450, and so on. Of course, the motive of this otherwise ridiculous arrangement was opportunity for drill in elementary Latin, which is a good thing in itself. But how simple it would have been with this drill to combine the literary presentation of the whole "Aeneid" in English, with all its chances of awakening through a masterpiece a literary taste at the most impressionable period of a boy's life.

PROF. WILLIAM M. SLOANE, author of a monumental Life of Napoleon Bonaparte, recently issued in an enlarged edition, is the President of the American Historical Association. Columbia University has given him a "Sabbatical year" off, and he is enjoying it at home.

THE late Mr. Otto Reich, to whom the readers of The Catholic Encyclopedia are indebted for most of the illustrations in that work, especially for the maps, which are due entirely to his painstaking scholarship, was born in Upper Hungary in 1852, and went at an early age to Prague, to school, where he remained until he came to America, penniless, when fourteen years old. Until his twentieth year he worked [illegible] the day and in the evening [illegible] school. With the [illegible] cess as an author), and contributed to the support of his family, in which he was the oldest child. At twenty-two he was in business for himself, furnishing illustrations to publishers in the form of photogravure plates, half-tone plates, woodcuts and photographs from nature or paintings. For thirty years he remained away from his place of business only on Sundays and holidays, and at these times, although he was at home, he worked on as usual. This excessive devotion presumably shortened his life.

MR. RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS, author of "Colonel Todhunter of Missouri," has heard from Mrs. Ryland Todhunter, of Lexington, Mo., who reproaches him for making his hero so much like her Col. Todhunter, a biography of whom she is now writing. She assures Mr. Saunders, however, that she will not give him the trouble Mark Twain got into over Col. Mulberry Sellers in "The Gilded Age."

Mr. F. S. Key-Smith, great-grandson of Francis Scott Key, the author of "The Star-Spangled Banner," has written what is said to be the first comprehensive life of the poet. It is illustrated, and the edition is limited.

THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA, 11th EDITION is a clearing house of modern thought, knowledge and achievement through which the layman can pass his doubts and difficulties with the certain assurance that no reasonable demand for information that he may present will be dishonored.

The work has all the comprehensiveness of an ideal library, the quick accessibility as to contents of an ordinary dictionary, and (in the convenient India paper, flexible, leather-bound format) the unprecedented quality in a work of reference of being as easily handled as a magazine. Its necessity as a resource is measured by the helplessness of even the most learned man alive in the face of the vast complex of things knowable, and its value in use by the thoroughness with which everything that can possibly interest a civilized people has been traversed and indexed by the experts who wrote it. If every other book in the world were destroyed it is not too much to say that, so far as essentials are concerned, it would be possible to reconstruct the human story from its pages; and as in the event of such an unthinkable catastrophe the Encyclopaedia Britannica (Eleventh Edition) would thus be the one work which civilization could least afford to lose, so in case of the individual it is the best, in fact, the only remedy for the disabilities imposed by his enforced ignorance of all but the most insignificant fraction of the whole of recorded knowledge.

Of all kinds of loneliness, loneliness in a crowd is the most depressing, and of all kinds of ignorance, the ignorance of the modern man which is the outcome of his necessary intellectual isolation is the most humiliating.

The special torture of Tantalus was not merely that he was condemned to perpetual thirst, but that in the midst of an abundance of water he was unable to drink, and it is the similar misfortune of the man of to-day that between himself and the streams of knowledge springing up in every direction around him there is interposed a barrier which the very richness and variety of modern intellectual life only serve to render the more intolerable. Every intelligent person has an instinct amounting to a profound conviction that while the special training and elaborate mental equipment of the expert are something peculiarly his own, his conception and viewpoint can be shared if only they are intelligently interpreted. What irritates and baffles him is the discovery that if he tries to translate this belief into practice, the information he seeks is usually so scattered in source, so diffuse in form and so technical in expression that even the resources of well-furnished bookshelves avail to help him very little. The more valuable the contents of a technical library, the less as a rule has it to offer to anyone outside of the limited circle to whom its volumes are addressed.

It is primarily as an instrument of record and research constructed by the leading specialists themselves for lay use that the New Encyclopaedia Britannica is offered by the Press of the University of Cambridge as a complete solution of the problem of the man who is desirous of being of his age as well as in it.

In its pages 1,500 representative experts chosen solely on the grounds of pre-eminence in their respective fields have co-operated to break down the intellectual isolation of the general reader by presenting him with an exhaustive account of human achievment to 1910 in which he will find what he seeks and understand what he finds. Vast as is the sum of human knowledge, it is finite, and it has been found possible to exhaust its essential contents within the compass of 27,000 quarto pages of 1,500 words each and at the same time to preserve an encyclopaedic arrangement by which with the further aid of an index volume containing 500,000 references, any isolated item of information is instantly accessible. And in this co-operative achievement of modern international scholarship nothing has been abated of the high standard observed by specialists writing for specialists. To the expert the book will prove fruitful of suggestion even in the field he knows so well, besides fulfilling every demand he can make on it in the vastly greater region which lies beyond the limits of his special knowledge. In the effort to produce a work of universal reference suitable for all classes of users, no sacrifice has been permitted of the great tradition for exhaustive treatment with which for 140 years the name of the Encyclopaedia Britannica has always been associated. It is the organization and not the spirit of the work itself that has been changed.

As further extending its usefulness as an instrument of popular culture the editors of the 11th Edition consider that the innovation of India paper logically completes on the material side a refining process by which an aggregate of knowledge estimated to be twice as great as that contained in the 9th Edition has been brought within the covers of 28 volumes.

It is not altogether easy to realize that a thin flexible volume, occupying one inch of shelf room as against almost three, not only contains 25 per cent. more reading matter than the bulky quarto of the Ninth Edition, but also excels it in durability. Indeed, in this respect, the substitution of India for ordinary paper is reminiscent of the change in structural work from stone to steel. While in every way the superiority of the latter material is incontestable, to an old-fashioned engineer accustomed to the massive masonry of years gone by it must always come a little hard to associate the slender lines of a modern bridge with the idea of increased permanence and added strength.

Advance-of-Publication Prices Soon to Be Withdrawn

All subscribers who register their applications before May 31 will effect a very substantial saving and will acquire the foremost work of reference at a price which has never before been possible.

Vols. I to XIV are now being delivered to early subscribers, and Vols. XV to XXIX will soon be in the binders' hands. Complete publication will therefore shortly be effected and the "advance-of-publication" terms must be withdrawn on May 31st next.

Illustrated prospectus (40 pp.), 56 specimen pages on India paper, 4 specimen plates, and form of application showing the special advance terms will be sent on receipt of request.

NOTE.—Those who possess copies of previous editions of the ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA (now out of date) are requested to advise us of the fact, clearly indicating which edition they possess (giving name of publisher and number of volumes), and if they wish to purchase the new edition, they will be informed how they can dispose of their old editions at a fair valuation.

LITERARY NOTES FROM LONDON

Mr. Winston Churchill and His Book Titles—A Duke in America—Morley's Gladstone.

LONDON, March 29.—If you turn to First Corinthians, you will find these words: "And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three, but the greatest of these is charity." There, clearly, as in so many passages of the Scriptures, you have a perfect title for a book: "The Greatest of These." It is passing strange that it should not have been lighted on until now, when your Mr. Winston Churchill has chosen it to be the name of his new novel. If there is much in a name, there is still more in a book title, and this is one which should carry far a story that, in itself, will no doubt do honor to its text, as suggested by the four words, "The Greatest of These."

One wonders how Mr. Winston Churchill came to light upon this title, for what seems a simple thing, when it has been done, is often the last thing we do in this world. The note of his novel is, of course, the new religious spirit, charity in all things, and that would naturally take him to the title he has chosen. Is it possible, however, that in choosing his book titles, he works upon some system, let us say the inclusion of the letter "C," which begins his own surname? If you look up the list of his stories you will certainly find that there is some evidence in support of this theory.

Mr. Churchill gave us "The Celebrity," "Richard Carvel," "The Crisis," "The Crossing," "Coniston," "Mr. Crew's Career" and "A Modern Chronicle." "Why, yes," somebody says, "there is a capital 'C' in all these titles, but there is not one in the new title, 'The Greatest of These.'" Well, there is and there is not, because while "The Greatest of These" will be the strict title, nobody will read it, or say it, without thinking of the full passage, "The Greatest of These is Charity." There the "C" comes in, as it has come into Mr. Churchill's other stories, so consistently that really there must be some design behind it. Has he thought of the danger of a controversy arising out of this, centuries hence, similar to the Bacon-Shakespeare controversy that goes on in our time, with its discovery of cryptograms and other mysterious signs?

American readers will be specially interested in one section of the forthcoming biography of the late Duke of Devonshire, a book which the house of Longmans announces. When he was Marquis of Hartington and a young man, the Duke visited America, to be precise in the years 1862-1863—that is, during the Civil War. He visited both the Northern and the Southern headquarters and had interviews, indeed became friendly, with President Lincoln and other distinguished men. It turns out that he wrote home to his father, who was also a man of high gifts, apart altogether from his title, a series of letters giving his impressions of the American men he met and the things he saw. Those letters, which are pretty exhaustive and frankly personal, have been kept and are now to be published in his biography, which, otherwise, will have a great deal of interesting material, including letters written by Queen Victoria, Gladstone, Joseph Chamberlain and other English celebrities. A statue of the Duke of Devonshire has just been erected in London—a fact which testifies to the general interest there will be in the reading of his life, but it can hardly hope to have the success of that greatest political biography of modern times, Morley's "Life of Gladstone."

It happens that I am able to give the exact figures of the sale of the "Gladstone" in connection with the conclusion, by The Daily Chronicle, of the People's Edition which that enterprising journal has been publishing. This edition was one of 50,000 sets in two volumes, or 100,000 volumes altogether, and the selling out of these has been finished in a little over two years. Official figures reach me from the house of Macmillan to the effect that of the first edition of the "Gladstone," at two pounds two shillings for the three volumes, 27,000 copies were sold in this country, with an additional 10,000 copies for America, making the sale of that first edition 37,000 copies altogether. Then a little later came a ten-shilling edition in two volumes, and of this 30,000 copies have been sold. When you add up the figures of the three editions, you find that 117,000 sets, or 271,000 volumes of the "Gladstone" have been sold. If the money paid by the public in buying those volumes be counted, you arrive at the huge sum of more than £100,000, or roughly $500,000.

It is not surprising, therefore, to learn that the check sent by the house of Macmillan to the proprietors of the "Gladstone"—that is to say, to the Gladstone family—for the first year's accounting on the biography, was greater, by several thousand pounds, than Longmans' famous check to Macaulay in 1856. That check was for £20,000, and was on account of the profits earned by the third and fourth volumes of his "History of England." Hitherto the Macaulay check has, perhaps, been a record payment in English publishing, but here we have a quite modern instance going beyond it; and among other things, that instance testifies to the enormous hold which Gladstone has not only upon the British people, but upon the English-speaking people all over the world. Moreover, the "Life," by his friend Lord Morley, is, so far as the signs point, going to sell on and on for years to come—an abiding literary monument to him and his work.

A NEW BOOK ON POE

THE Everett Publishing Co. of Boston are soon to issue an exhaustive work on Edgar Allan Poe, written by R. A. Douglas-Lithgow, M. D., LL. D., late Vice-President of the British Royal Society of Literature. "The Individuality of Edgar Allan Poe" deals with his inheritance, temperament, genius, etc., from a scientific point of view. The book will be illustrated with some scarce portraits of the poet.

"THE VULTURE'S CLAW"

MR. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN writes to the Rev. C. F. Wimberly of Madisonville, Ky.: "I have read 'The Vulture's Claw.' It is a splendid story. The book should find a place in Sunday school libraries and among the books for young people. You have succeeded admirably in combining moral lessons with an interesting narrative."

Mr. B. W. Huebsch has just been elected President of the Booksellers' League of New York. On the 19th of this month the league will give a dinner at which the Rev. A. T. Fowler will speak, and Mr. Gardner Richardson, Associate Editor of the Independent, will give an illustrated lecture on Panama.

The King Over the Water
By Justin Huntly McCarthy

Here we have a "vision of all the gallant men and good women that had given life and love, goods and gear for the Stuart cause." The story covers a portion of this period, and it is concerned with the romantic adventure of releasing from captivity the affianced bride of the King. The dash, the zest and the joy of life have not been caught in the pages of a book so completely since Mr. McCarthy wrote "If I Were King."

Keeping Up With Lizzie
By Irving Bacheller

A book for men largely about women, although we are inclined to think both sexes will delight in its queer motor race, its love duel, and its strange Ham War. Lizzies are everywhere, but there is only one Socrates Potter, and he is in this book—a keen, good-natured, witty, honest country lawyer, and by far the most unique figure in recent fiction. Here is wit and satire and humanity of a high order. It has genuine humor, real characters, a foundation of truth and a gentle love story. You're in it! So is America, and at least one hundred and fifty laughs.

The Unknown Lady
By Justus Miles Forman

Mr. Forman has done a big thing. Reality glows intensely over these pages as he draws the lights and shadows cast by his filmy fabric and weaves about it a gleaming, fairy border of his light fancy. "'The Unknown Lady' comes near to being a modern fairy story of the art world," says The Brooklyn Eagle. "Mr. Forman's book ranks very high," says The Chicago Inter-Ocean. "A remarkably interesting novel," says The New York Herald. "The plot is capital—a new note in fiction," says The Philadelphia Press. "'The Unknown Lady' is a book to be reckoned with and recommended," is the verdict of The New York World. And the critical summary awards to Mr. Forman a more matured and surer art in "The Unknown Lady" than his previous fine novels have shown.

Memories and Impressions
By Ford Madox Hueffer

Born and brought up in the innermost circle of pre-Raphaelism, the author here tells—with all the freshness and zest of personal experience—the story of literary and artistic London a generation ago. Here we have Rossetti's Chinese curios, William Morris's brilliantly colored bandannas and anecdotes of Ruskin, Morris, Brown, Meredith, Whistler, Henley, Wilde, and a score of lesser lights.

Published April 20th

Jack Ballington, Forester
By JOHN TROTWOOD MOORE

The author of "The Bishop of Cottontown," which has had more lasting popularity than any recent book, with few exceptions, has now produced a story which competent critics say will eclipse the great record made by the "Bishop."

THE STORY concerns the fortunes of Jack Ballington, who, on account of his gentle life and apparent lack of fighting qualities, seems to be in danger of losing both his material heritage and the girl he loves. But heredity will not be denied, and in the stirring crisis he measures up to the traditions of his forefathers. It is a love story with tender sentiment, in which Mr. Moore's writing excels, while at the same time there are plenty of dramatic and humorous situations.

The timely appearance of "Jack Ballington, Forester," with its strong appeal to the universal love of nature and its patriotic allusions to conservation of our natural resource, will create very widespread interest in every part of the country.

A NEW ERA IN FASCINATING BIOGRAPHY

The Story-Life of Washington
By WAYNE WHIPPLE
Author of "The Story-Life of Lincoln"

A composite photograph of the real Washington. A biography composed of 500 true stories selected from all authentic sources regarding George Washington, fitted together in order and forming his complete life history. Illustrated with more than 50 engravings from portraits, paintings, drawings, and manuscripts, by Howard Pyle and other artists, some of which have not before been published. The most important contribution of recent years to the fund of information about Washington.

Panama: The Isthmus and the Canal
By C. H. FORBES-LINDSAY
The Most Authoritative Work on the Subject

This fascinating volume relates the story of the Panama Canal from the earliest explorations to the present time with all possible avoidance of technicality, in a manner easily comprehensible to the general reader. The author is a recognized authority on the subject and the narrative is complete to date of 1911, and as the work has progressed too far for any important change, this book will remain the best authority on the work. Fully illustrated from recent photographs, government maps, etc.

The Landscape Gardening Book
By GRACE TABOR

There have been many books published within the past few years on gardening, but most of these have dealt with the cultural side exclusively—telling what flowers are attractive and how to grow them or how to succeed with the most popular vegetables. The larger subject, embracing the whole setting of the country or suburban home, particularly one of moderate size, has apparently been ignored. No matter how successful a flower garden may be, or how fruitful the vegetable patch, if these and the trees and shrubs are not thoughtfully and carefully disposed in relation to the house and the site itself, the home as a whole will fall short of success. The author of The Landscape Gardening Book, Miss Grace Tabor, who is a well-known landscape architect, has written the one book that clears up the whole difficult problem of making a house seem at home in its site.

Over 300 pages, 128 illustrations, bound in dark blue cloth. Price $2 net.

A Book of Bungalows
Edited by Henry H. Saylor

The volume is profusely illustrated with plans and photographs of of informal house—the bungalow. From a practical standpoint former publications of this character have failed in the attempt to give the needed information. This work discusses the whole subject in a most practical and helpful manner.

The volume is profusely illustrated with plans and photographs of bungalows that have been actually built. There are no mere drawings or visionary schemes in it. Size 7½x10¼ inches. Bound in Art Linen with appropriate cover design. Price $1.50 net.

Home Vegetable Gardening
By F. F. ROCKWELL

Books of this kind usually treat the subject in an encyclopedic way, telling what vegetables there are and what pests are likely to attack them, and so on, giving far too much information of this kind and not enough for the man who wants to establish a vegetable garden on his suburban lot for family use.

Mr. Rockwell, the author of this work, is a practical gardener himself. From long experience he realizes just what the average layman wants to know in order to raise a successful and varied crop. He realizes also that this information must be presented in a logical sequence in order that it may be used to the best advantage.

HERE IS A CONCISE BOOK ON HOME VEGETABLE GARDENING THAT ALSO INCLUDES THE GROWING OF BERRIES AND FRUIT.

New Spring Juveniles

The Flying Boys Series
By EDWARD S. ELLIS
The Most Famous Living Author of Juveniles

THE FLYING BOYS IN THE SKY

Harvey Hamilton acquires a Farman biplane, and the description of his trials in learning to operate it give the reader not only an interesting narrative, but a vivid description of the construction of a flying machine. Harvey's further adventures on a trip through the air complete a story full of interest and stirring events.

THE FLYING BOYS TO THE RESCUE

A sequel to "The Flying Boys in the Sky." Harvey's companion has been lured away by a mad inventor in his marvelous monoplane and is in great danger from the schemes of the crank. Harvey pursues in his biplane, and the tale of the search for and rescue of his friend forms a story of sustained interest and intensely dramatic situations. New and appropriate cover design.

A TOUR of the WORLD in the

BURTON HOLMES TRAVELOGUES

PERHAPS YOU ARE NOT ONE of the army of Americans now enjoying the interesting sights of the Old World?

Business or some other cause has prevented your taking this most fascinating and educating journey—you find yourself compelled to remain at home and forego the trip that possibly you had been planning. Is this so? Then—

Perhaps, too, you are not aware of the fact that all the pleasures, experiences and value of such a tour may be had for a tithe the cost of an actual tour, and without stirring from your own threshold?

We are prepared to demonstrate this to you.

If you will avail yourself of this opportunity to secure the Burton Holmes Travelogues, you will retain more vivid recollections of a trip through the strangest parts of the world with the famous world-traveler, Burton Holmes, as Companion and Guide, than if you had made the actual tour alone.

In a series of splendid journeys Mr. Holmes unfolds before your eyes the beauties of travel in foreign lands, with such narrative skill, with so many strange experiences, incidents and humorous episodes, and so admirably illustrated by over 5,000 photographs taken on the spot by Mr. Holmes himself as to carry you in spirit over 30,000 miles of travel, through thirty-six of the most interesting countries and cities of the world.

It would cost you $50,000.00 and many years of your time to take these journeys; but don't take our word for it,

—WRITE US TO-DAY and we will send you a beautifully illustrated booklet containing sample pages and color plates—a full description of the work, and tell you how you may secure the TRAVELOGUES for a few cents a day.

AMERICAN HONOR.

The resolution of the Chamber of Commerce indorsing the arbitration of "every issue which cannot be settled by negotiation, no matter what it involves, whether honor, territory, or money," was published yesterday. In this the Chamber measures up to its own standards of American commercial integrity. Unfortunately our commercial standards are sometimes superior to our Governmental practice. We coveted our neighbor's ewe lamb, and we "took" it, and to this day we are resisting our neighbor's petition that the act shall be reviewed in an international court of honor. It is a blot on our honor, and it becomes us to erase it before we can assume again the proud position which we held before we forfeited it by an act so out of keeping with all our traditions. The United States owes its leadership in the formulation of modern international law to a geographical accident. The nations of the Old World from which we separated occupied even then an overcrowded territory, and lived in such propinquity that interest and alliances colored all their relations, and prevented anything like law between sovereignties. Our geographical detachment gave us the position of neutrals to the rest of civilized Christendom. Never before had there been a nation of enlightenment and adequate power to lend influence to the reign of reason and justice in international relations so far as we participated in them, and never before was there such a standard of conduct between nations as that which we imposed upon ourselves in the times of Washington and Jefferson. It is our just pride that the declarations of our State Department in the days of those giants afterward became portions of the municipal law of others among the world's leading nations. In the formulation of the duties of neutrals among nations, none were our superiors in either reason or honor.

We were tempted and we fell. We pleaded that the world's necessity demanded the construction of the Panama Canal, but we built it as a naval work, because an incident of war had shown to us the dangers to which we were exposed by the division of our navy. The canal is a National necessity, and should be ours alone, and it is a pleasure to dedicate it to the world's commerce. But we owe it to ourselves that its title should not be clouded. It would in every way have been better that our difference of opinion regarding times and ways of advancing the construction of the canal should have been submitted to the same considerate opinion of mankind to which we appealed when we declared ourselves a Nation. The method of force and fraud in the cause of National self-preservation would always have remained if an appeal from an international judgment had been necessary. But we preferred to tear our signature from our solemn contract, whereby we had guaranteed the title of a weaker nation which trusted us. Signatures had been violated between equal nations before and since, but it may be doubted whether there can be found in history a more shameless disavowal of faith plighted to an inferior.

There were those who tingled with shame and indignation when the thing was done. There are those who regret to-day that the memory lessens our usefulness and primacy in the cause of justice among the nations. It is a bitter thought that just as men are perceiving that the world needs laws rather than navies and armies the cry of "Stop thief!" should be raised, and that we should be striving to outstrip its echo in our conscience-stricken ears. It was only the other year that Austria also faced the world with an accomplished fact, but Austria is not now posing as the world's policeman and exemplar of international morality.

The crime makes the opportunity all the greater. Instead of the shame deterring us from the cause now promoted by our President and the British Premier we should redouble our efforts, and accompany them by the declaration that the first fruit should be the submission to an international tribunal of an issue exactly such as that outlined in the Chamber of Commerce resolution. It would be better yet to make voluntarily reparation to Colombia for the wrong we perpetrated upon her. The setting of this example now will perhaps set a backfire to several incendiaries' torches. The world's resources of destruction may yet be set in motion by the partitioning of Manchuria or Mongolia. Russia seems to be resuming [illegible] resistless march toward an iceless port, which she needs more than ever since the loss of Port Arthur. She knows better than any other that it is cheaper to buy than to conquer. Germany also within a few days has given signs of a glacierlike progress toward the Mediterranean. The world is too small for these thefts to be done in the dark in a corner nowadays, and for civilization to be confronted with the question "What are you going to do about it?" That awkward question confronts the United States to-day. We are rich enough, and strong enough, and we believe just enough to make a reply which shall enable ourselves to hear the Panama Canal mentioned without blushing. And the world will benefit even more than ourselves by this duty and service to the cause of humanity and international morality.

SAVE THE WATER.

Be more sparing in the use of water. This is good advice for every inhabitant of this city to take to himself. We have had some rain lately, but not nearly enough to secure us from a water famine. We are likely to have a great deal more rain this Spring, but the rainfall has been scant for nearly seven years, and we have been wasting water with our accustomed improvidence. There has been no great scarcity of water hereabout since 1895, when a serious water famine was threatened, and the daily supply was curtailed in various parts of the city.

But we need to suffer no privation at all, if economy is observed in the use of water. New York wastes nearly enough water daily to supply all London. In London the daily consumption per capita is 36 gallons; in this city it is 125 gallons or more. We do not need all this water. An intelligent saving in private dwellings and hotels would lessen the danger of a famine without limiting the amount used in manufactories, where saving would doubtless be more difficult.

The questions of improved meters, feed-pipe valves, and the stopping of leaks in water mains are more or less technical, and need not now be discussed. The duty of the ordinary citizen to conquer his bad habit of wasting water as if the supply was unlimited is more to the point. Doubtless this city is far behind some others in the use of mechanical appliances which tend to prevent waste and an intelligent regulation of the distribution of water. But we have plenty at present for all our needs, and there will be more in the near future. There will never be enough, however, to justify reckless waste.

THE INVASION OF THE SPOILSMEN.

The spoilsmen are having their way at Albany to an unfortunate degree. The Governor's Civil Service Commission—to which he promised to appoint men in sympathy with the merit system—has begun very weakly, to use a mild term.

It has yielded to the request of the Controller and of the State Engineer to exempt from competitive examination a large number of appointments for which competition had been shown, in actual practice, to be entirely practicable. Owing to the vigorous opposition to this action it was taken with some hesitation, being held over in part for several meetings. But it has finally been completed. It was inferred from the delay that possibly the Governor, whose assent is necessary, had intimated that the Commission was taking an erroneous course. If that was the case, the Commission has determined not to change, and the two Democratic members have finally acceded to the wishes of Messrs. Sohmer and Bensel.

If the Governor gives his assent, the precedent will be a very bad one, and the spoilsmen will take great encouragement from it. The successful leaders in the attack on the merit system are both high in the favor of Tammany Hall. They represent the boss who has triumphed in the Senatorship fight. The fruits of their victory may be expected to be at the disposition of Mr. Murphy, and will give him some $150,000 a year of patronage to begin with, and no one knows how much more in the long run. We should have, therefore, the first substantial establishment of the Tammany régime in the State Government.

Of course this is all dependent on the assent of the Governor. The decision rests wholly with him, and the responsibility is his, and his alone. We shall not believe, until we are compelled to do so, that he will repudiate the pledges made by him, of his own free will, before the election. We use the word repudiate with regret, in connection with his possible conduct, but deliberately and with a clear understanding of what it connotes. Mr. Dix is pledged to maintain and extend the merit system. The action of the Civil Service Commission tends, and is intended, to break down the merit system. It will accomplish its purpose progressively, and, if not checked, the result will be disastrous. Here is a matter as to which the discretion of the Governor is complete and direct, save so far as it is guided by the Constitution and by his sense of duty. Certainly he has ample power to squelch the Tammany plot against the merit system.

THE LORIMER CASE AGAIN.

Senators cannot be blamed for being sick of the Lorimer case, or disgusted with the prospect of having to go into it more thoroughly than before. It was a nasty case to handle at best, and it was handled in a way that brought on a lot of trouble for the Senate, and did not really clear the matter up. If it be reopened, it will put many Senators in a pitiable plight. But we do not now see how it is to be avoided.

Mr. Lorimer got at best a verdict of "not proven." There was left no doubt that money had been used corruptly and in his interest. The only question remaining, on which Senators could hang a vote against unseating him, was whether he had a needed majority of votes which had not been bought. Now a certain amount of new evidence has been found by a committee of the Illinois State Senate, which seems to show that a great deal more money was raised for the election than had previously been known. In view of this development some further exploration of the matter can hardly be avoided, and those who voted for Lorimer last session now admit that this will take place.

It may be said that the spirit and the manner of Mr. La Follette's treatment of the case are not judicious or fair. He names his Committee of Investigation, and they are all new members of the Senate and all in sympathy with the faction of the Senate in which Mr. La Follette is prominent. But the facts remain that new evidence is forthcoming, and more is likely to follow, that the failure to unseat Mr. Lorimer was a shock to the moral sense of the country, and that the feeling it aroused is much more strongly represented in the Senate now than it was in the session just closed. It is practically certain that, if the case were reopened on the testimony before the Senate last Winter, the result would be different. If the case is reopened with wider scope of evidence and a more exacting sense of justice to the Senate in dealing with it, the result may be very different. We frankly hope that it will be. The inquiry and action of last Winter were not at all conclusive, and, in our judgment, failed absolutely to protect the honor of the Senate.

THE TREATY WITH RUSSIA.

It may be assumed that, under our treaty of 1832 with Russia, both countries enjoy privileges of which they would not willingly be deprived. Treaties of commerce and amity are made for mutual protection and in the interests of both contracting parties. The guarantees given are reciprocal, the privileges accorded are of value to both. A treaty that was wholly onesided, from which only one of the parties to the compact derived any advantage, would hardly survive the discovery that it was onesided. The fact that our convention with Russia has been in force for more than three-quarters of a century is pretty good evidence that it is of mutual benefit.

The argument that the resolutions introduced separately in the Senate and House directing the President to denounce the treaty of 1832 because of Russia's persistent passport discriminations against Jews who are American citizens, and that the abrogation of the treaty woud involve us in commercial difficulties and embarrassments of a very serious nature, overlooks the very great probability that Russia would dislike quite as much as ourselves to have the treaty abrogated. Our own position is that we ask Russia to accept the natural construction of the language of the treaty, which declares that the inhabitants of each country shall be at liberty to sojourn and reside in all parts of the territories of the other, a construction which she rejects by refusing to grant the privileges of passport and of entry to American-Jewish citizens. The question is not exclusively a Jewish one, however, since restrictions are imposed upon the Roman Catholic clergy and upon the ministers of other denominations in some cases. As Russia has declined our repeated request for modification of her passport policy, the authors of the House and Senate resolutions are seeking the abrogation of the treaty in the hope, we suppose, that one of more precise and liberal provisions may be negotiated in its place.

The position of the Administration is that the denunciation of the treaty, while it would obviously lead to commercial embarrassment, would not mend matters in respect to passport privileges, since Russia, it is expected, would continue to insist upon her right to enforce such domestic regulations as she saw fit to establish. That view appears necessarily to involve the admission that Russia sets no great value upon the existing treaty. It might prove that she would be as much indisposed as ourselves to put an end to it.

MEMPHIS AND MR. BRYAN.

It is a pity that Mr. W. J. Bryan felt compelled to decline the munificent offer extended to him by the citizens of Memphis. They want Mr. Bryan to make his home with them, to transform The Commoner into an institution of Tennessee, and they went so far to attain their object as to give Mr. Bryan a luncheon. The inducement they offered, besides admiration and affectionate esteem, was a chance to raise $2,000,000 to buy a plant for The Commoner and a home for its founder and editor. There was no string attached to this offer. The suggestion was simply that $2,000,000 is obtainable in Memphis, and that Mr. Bryan could probably get the money if he tried. It seems likely that Mr. Bryan could get $2,000,000 in Memphis as easily as any other man.

When Mr. Lew Fields, in a happier era, informed Mr. Joe Weber that he had been offered a salary of $10,000 by a certain person, Mr. Weber remarked, "Why, he hasn't $10." "No," replied Mr. Fields, "but [illegible] a good offer?" A good offer Memphis now extends to William Jennings Bryan, but he refuses to consider it, preferring to remain in the "centre of the country," Lincoln, Neb., where, though his neighbors do not seem to care for his politics, he feels that he can "fight for the cause of Democracy" more effectively. Memphis will feel disappointed, and we sympathize with Memphis, though, to be sure, almost anybody might make as good an offer. It is the spirit of Memphis that signifies, as far as Mr. Bryan is concerned. Any committee of New Yorkers might invite him to come hither and help himself to the new Public Library, or Central Park, if he could get them, but New Yorkers lack the really sympathetic spirit.

NEW DOMESTIC TROUBLE.

The domestic trouble of Mr. Knoblock of Chicago, caused indirectly by a new religious and ethical society called the Order of Melchisedec, deserves consideration. Most domestic trouble is of a common sort. The old, old story is told again day by day in Magistrates' courts and divorce papers. But here is a new story. Mrs. Knoblock took up with the Order of Melchisedec, and her husband so far sanctioned her search for light in that direction that he followed her until the doctrine of reincarnation was impressed upon his mind, when he asked his wife if she would marry him in the reincarnated state. Her answer was "No." The husband insisted and the trouble began.

Obviously, he is in the way of being a good husband, so far as this world and his present incarnation go. He is fond of his wife, and wants to continue his domestic relations with her in a future state. The lady, however, abides by the terms of the marriage service; "until death do us part" is the limit of her promise. She has imaginative powers which enable her to conceive of a higher being preferable as a companion to affectionate, unimaginative Mr. Knoblock. It is an exceptional case. How many wives would answer the question as Mrs. Knoblock answered it? How many husbands, for that matter, would ask the question?

Wives and husbands alike, generally speaking, would prefer to let well enough alone. Knoblock's grievance is beyond human adjustment. The law courts cannot control his wife beyond her present incarnation. Chicago is a progressive town in some matters, but we doubt if even a Chicago lawyer can promise relief to Knoblock. All he can do is to prosecute the prophet who filled his wife's mind with queer ideas about reincarnation. But if Knoblock was not possessed of the same ideas his case against the prophet would be stronger.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Bad Manners That May Cause Death.

One decidedly serious fire peril that has escaped comment, if not attention, even at this time, when so much of both comment and attention has been turned to such dangers, can be seen any evening in the entrance lobbies of many of our theatres. The danger in question is especially noticeable in theatres where a considerable fraction of the people in attendance linger for some minutes after the play, waiting for their carriages or automobiles.

No structural faults in the building and no inadequacy of exits create this possibility of disaster, for in most of the New York theatres nowadays, and in all the best of them, little or no criticism on those grounds could be justified. What makes the lobbies such dangerous places during the nightly period of delay is the frequency with which both young men and old ones light their cigarettes the instant they pass the auditorium entrance. This they do while standing in close proximity to women clothed in fluttering garments of the most inflammable materials, and the carelessness with which the smokers dispose of the matches they use is extremely trying to the nerves of observers who realize what would be the consequences if one of the crowding women were suddenly to find herself wrapped in inextinguishable flames.

Smoking in theatre lobbies is bad enough, considered only from the standpoint of manners, and this alone, one would think, might be sufficient to make any except a desperately nicotine-hungry man defer till he got out of doors the satisfaction of his craving. But it does not. Regardless alike of courtesy and of safety, out come silver boxes or gold, and the very men supposed to be most regardful of, as well as most learned in, the proprieties of life proceed to light up.

The evil is hardly one for the police to remedy, though it probably comes, or could be brought, within the fire regulations, but the theatre managers could take it in hand without exceeding either their rights or responsibilities, and the women themselves, unaided, could soon put an end to the risk of a frightful death by open manifestation of what they think of men whose stupidity or brutality thus menaces them.

The Camorra Pleads Not Guilty.

Something of the general wonder excited in this country by the peculiarities of criminal procedure illustrated in the Camorra trial at Viterbo would be removed if it were generally understood that the real trial of the prisoners has not yet begun, and will not for some time to come. What is now going on is simply a confrontation of the accused by the accuser in the presence of a Judge who is also a prosecuting officer, and it amounts to little more, so far as the final result is concerned, than does, with us, the formal plea of "not guilty," made by the man accused of murder or some other grave crime.

In Italy an opportunity to elaborate this plea is given, and each side is allowed to elaborate as fully as it chooses the system of defense or attack upon which it has determined. This accounts, in part at least, for the apparent violation of what we consider the fundamental rules of evidence that is constantly going on at Viterbo, and the emotionality that characterizes the Italians, or some classes of them, explains the rest.

Of course the men herded in the steel cage are abnormal beings, by no means representative of their race. They are survivals from a time that knew little of law and had small reason to respect what little it knew. With modern civilization they are in touch at few points, and in [illegible] their deeds something of the same charity must be used that would be extended to a savage. The latter is not necessarily a bad man because he kills or steals, since at his stage of development killing and stealing are not criminal if the victims are members of another tribe. A state of public war was until recently held by everybody to justify doing most of the things charged against the members of the Camorra, and even now it is held by almost everybody to palliate such acts. So there may be not a little of sincerity in the frenzied indignation which these men express in denouncing their prosecutors and the "traitor" who has betrayed them to "the enemy"—society as organized for law and order of the modern kind.

An Experiment Full of Uncertainties.

Baltimore is about to make another trial of segregation as a remedy for the troubles created by race antagonisms and animosities. Its first effort in that direction was pronounced unconstitutional as directed too obviously against the negro alone, but a new law has been drawn which, nominally at least, forbids as much to the white man as to the black one, and segregates the former as strictly as the latter. Whether this rather naive device will stand the scrutiny of the courts remains to be seen, and whether the Baltimoreans would be satisfied with the results of their experiment if they were allowed to try it is a matter of some doubt.

The immediate effect of making the negroes live apart by themselves will be to create something much like our own "foreign colonies," and those we have never found admirable. Our chief objection to "colonies," however, is that they prevent or delay assimilation, and there is no desire in the South, and probably none in any part of the United States, to assimilate the negro in any such sense as the word has when used in relation to white foreigners. In support of the Baltimore plan can be urged the opportunity it will provide for the negroes to form and live under social and economic standards of their own, and to build up among themselves a public sentiment freed from the disturbing influences of too close neighboring with a different race.

Much can be said on both sides of the question, for the problem is almost infinitely complex, and its solution is still out of sight. But the Baltimore law does strangely contract the right to sell and to rent, and one might expect the white property owners soon to become restive under its restrictions. What is sure among all the uncertainties is that unless both races are benefited by the Baltimore plan it is not a good plan. Both will inevitably suffer from injury to either.

WOOLEN UNDERWEAR AND COLDS

Remarks Upon Their Relation to Tariff and Being Fleeced.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When in London last Summer I bought some real Australian wool underwear at about half the price I would have paid at home. Although past the threescore-and-ten limit of age, I have been entirely free from such colds as have been prevalent. Good woolen underclothing is essential for most persons during the Winter in this uncertain climate. Infants and children especially require it. Our manufacturers of such goods are skillful and use up-to-date machinery. They are denied access to the markets of the world when they want proper material. They are forced to use all kinds of miserable substitutes, such as fly, card waste, oily card waste, and clippings in cotton and shoddy, and noils instead of fleece wool. Noils are the short woolen fibre from the worsted machinery. They would make a good sort of shirt for St. Anthony or the Duke of Argyle. The fibre is so short that one or two washings dispose of it. The buyer then has a cotton garment when he fancied it was wool.

A flock master, according to Lawrence, is one who owns six or more sheep, (the word sounds lofty,) and the small sheep owner is pleased because his wool is protected, while he himself is fleeced on everything he buys. The Wilson bill was good for the manufacturers—free material and uniform duty of 50 per cent. on all textiles. If it had been allowed to stand another year it would have proved a good revenue producer and a benefit to factory owner as well as the whole population. The powers in office did not want to see it succeed, so they hastened to repeal it. And so we have had McKinley high, Dingley higher, and Payne-Aldrich highest, and the people are irritated beyond endurance.

It is to be hoped the Democrats will make such a cut in the tariff that the consumer will partake of the benefits long denied him. Modern machinery is automatic; the labor cost is little as regards textiles—25 per cent. at this date would be all the manufacturer requires. The tariff as it exists at present is a burdensome handicap.

THE TENURE OF JUDGES.

Present Terms Ought Not to be Disturbed by the Legislature.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The vice of the bill pending in the Legislature removing the Judges of the Court of Claims will be appreciated if the application of the principle of such legislation is carried to its limit. By the terms of the bill the present Judges after its passage are to have no definite tenure of office, but are merely to hold over until the Governor gets ready to appoint their successors. Their offices are declared vacant for this purpose. Their successors are given a tenure of two, four, and six years, with a six-year term to their successors, but if the present Judges, who had a tenure of ten years, can be legislated out of office, so can their successors and their successors in turn, and so on ad infinitum, likewise. If the present Legislature can change the tenure of the Judges now in office, the same Legislature can change that of their successors, and so on to a reductio ad absurdum.

This possibility, so far as judicial officers are concerned, was taken care of by the framers of the Constitution, when they provided for the manner in which judicial officers should be removed, which manner of removal is exclusive, and cannot be evaded by any skill in language by which a removal is attempted to be made to appear not a removal. There is some reason for the power in the Legislature to change at will the term and salary of executive officers not protected by the Constitution, but there is an equally strong reason for denying this power to it, so far as judicial officers are concerned, aside from any constitutional restriction, for the independence of the judiciary, free from political control, is the very rock-bed of our form of Government. The bill should remain in the Senate Codes Committee, where it now reposes.

Du Bois and Dubois.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to call your attention to an apparent error in your columns for April 7, 1911. On Page 4 the following inclosed article appeared, "Speak for the Negro Race."

In it you speak of a Prof. W. E. B. Du Bois as one of the speakers. I think you will find that the name is misspelled; it should be Dubois. The traditions of the Du Bois family hold that the retainers and others not actually belonging to the family, who took the name, were compelled to spell it with a small "b," and were never permitted to use the capital B nor the small d', as du Bois or Du Bois. If I am not incorrect you will find the record of a famous doctor in Paris who later became a Cardinal, but who never used the large B.

I do not desire to start any public controversy over such a trivial matter, but would thank you to correct me if I am in error.

APPROVE SUPT. MILLER.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the excitement immediately following the recent disaster in the Asch Building some of the newspapers criticised the Building Department of the Borough of Manhattan and the administration of the Superintendent, Rudolph P. Miller. It would therefore seem only fair to record the opinion on this subject of a Committee of Architects, Builders, Engineers, and Fire Protection Experts who have been in constant relations with the Building Department and Mr. Miller during his administration, and have also had his assistance in the preparation of certain important fire prevention amendments to the Building Code, the first of which has just been laid before the Board of Aldermen. At a meeting of the "Joint Committee on City Departments" held on Thursday afternoon, March 30, 1911, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

> Resolved, That in the opinion of every member of this committee Mr. Rudolph P. Miller, Superintendent of Buildings, has served the city during his term of office with the greatest possible fidelity; that he is fully qualified for his position and thoroughly competent and conscientious. Furthermore, it is our opinion that the city is fortunate in having him in this important position.

This resolution was adopted by the unanimous vote of the following representatives: For the New York Chapter American Institute of Architects, William Emerson, Burt L. Fenner, Charles H. Israels, Francis H. Kimball, Robert D. Kohn, and D. Everett Waid; for the Building Trades Employers' Association, Lewis Harding, George H. Morris, C. G. Norman, Benjamin D. Traitel, and Ross F. Tucker; for the Board of Fire Underwriters, F. J. T. Stewart and Prof. Ira H. Woolson; for the American Institute of Consulting Engineers, Henry W. Hodge, C. E., and E. W. Stern, C. E. Also present and voting, Messrs. George A. Just, C. E., and V. Hugo Koehler, architect.

We believe it is proper to call the attention of citizens to this expert opinion on the services of a public official.

Evening Classes for Normal College.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I avail myself of the opportunity your columns afford to make a few still timely remarks about the evening classes proposed by the Normal College, as promulgated in The New York Times about a year ago. The plans appeared to be quite ready to be put in working order. The Faculty but needed the approval of the Board of Estimate, which it seems they took for granted. Moreover, to show their interest in the undertaking, they offered their services free of charge for the first term from October to Dec. 31, until the appropriation by the board would go into effect. Now a year has passed and nothing more has been heard of it.

As stated in this paper, hundreds of applications were received from young women all over the city, but these evidently were destroyed or pigeonholed to decay. Is it possible that the city considers academic instruction by night for young women wasted, or is it unequal to the task of providing financial support? It seems the former, for there is a similar course given at City College, which is considered both by the students deriving the benefits of it and by the Faculty in charge a tremendous success.

Are the women to expect that much-sought-for favor or should they be content to remain without it?

Brilliant Guardsmen's Uniforms.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Young men from time immemorial have been drawn to the colors by the glamour attached to soldiering—and that glamour has to a considerable extent consisted in brilliant uniforms and in the privilege of wearing them in public places. The vanity which yields to this glamour may be foolish, but it exists, and could be turned into an instrument for recruiting our National Guard. Brilliant uniforms and the privilege of wearing them at dances and parties of all kinds would have an appreciable effect on the other sex, and its approval would go much toward swelling the militia. It is by such trifles, whose power lies wholly in the imagination, that men are governed, and the effort to be "practical"—which in this case results in unsightly uniforms and the prohibition to wear them out of armory—bears fruit in half-filled regiments.

It is the lesson of all history that you can't get soldiers during a peace except by the Government's conscription or their pride in distinction. We can't have conscription, but we shall always have this pride. Why not use it?

Fireproofing Shirtwaist Material.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Practically all fires in factories start with the clippings and cotton waste, and no doubt the Washington Place fire was of the same kind. If all cotton and linen goods were obliged to be fireproofed at the mill we should have very few fires. The cost is so trifling that it would only add about 1 cent to the price of each shirtwaist. I know that all the scenery for the theatres in this city is treated in this way and rendered non-inflammable, and the same might easily be done for materials employed in factories.

Women Chairmen?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The frequent reference to women as "Chairmen" of committees and presiding officers of legislative bodies, not only in your paper, but in all the others, seems to me either a mark of illiteracy or form defended by "common usage." If the latter, the usage is utterly wrong and need not be aped; if the former, your paper should seek to correct it—or explain it.

Richmond Clerk's Office Threatened?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Probably "the limit" among our public buildings for unsafe conditions, as well as for inadequate facilities, is the Richmond County Clerk's office on Staten Island. It has not even modern fire protection. Conditions there should be remedied without delay.

THE CLASSIC TOUCH.

A sculptor lived in Edenton
Whose critics were so frank
He hardly had his statues done
Ere they pronounced them rank.

And seeing that the people spurned
His work with such disgust,
The sculptor resolutely turned
His attention to a bust.

He made a bust of everything
He had about the place;
He knocked off every arm and wing
And dented every face.

Then when the critics came to see
These mutilated stones,
They Oh-d and Ah-d admiringly
And spoke in muffled tones.

They said: "These statues, bare and rough,
Compare with ancient Greece's!"
You see he hadn't left enough

$1,200,000 PAID FOR E. D. CHURCH LIBRARY

Contains 4,000 Rare Volumes of Early English and American Authors.

MANY NOTABLE MANUSCRIPTS

Original of Franklin's Autobiography Included—Also Highly Valued State Documents.

The entire collection of 4,000 rare books constituting the library of the late E. Dwight Church, a manufacturer of Greenpoint, L. I., known all over the world as a collector of originals and first editions, became the property yesterday of George D. Smith, a dealer of 43 Wall Street. The collection has been called the finest of original and first editions of American and old English authors in existence, and is said to have been purchased for $1,200,000, which is more than the famous Hoe library is expected to bring at public auction.

Since the death of Mr. Church the books have been stored in the Lincoln Storage Warehouse, and an exhaustive catalogue in seven volumes and costing $30,000, compiled by Dodd, Mead & Co., had just been finished, preparatory to the announcement of a public sale by the executors of Mr. Church's estate.

The first two volumes of the catalogue set forth the works of English literature covering the period from Caxton to the latter part of the nineteenth century. The works include single specimens from the printing presses of William Caxton, Richard Pynson, Julian Notary, Wynken de Worde, and William Copeland; first editions of "Herodian," "Virgil," "Seneca," "Tasso," "Robert Garnier," and "Cervantes," and originals of the Countess of Pembroke's "Arcadia," Spencer's "Faerie Queene," and Bacon's Essays.

There are eleven of the twelve different editions or issues of the four folios of Shakespeare, as well as all of the quarto editions of his poems and plays. This lot includes 13 first editions, 15 second editions, 27 later editions, as well as 6 first, 4 second, and 4 editions of later date of his plays. This collection of Shakespeare, next to the collection now owned by the Duke of Devonshire, is said to be the finest in the world. It is valued at $100,000.

Among the books of English authors of the latter part of the seventh century are original manuscripts of Butler, Bunyan, and Milton, and of the eighteenth century there is one first edition each of "Robinson Crusoe," "Gulliver's Travels," and "The Vicar of Wakefield." There is also a first edition of Milton's "Paradise Lost" and "Comus," and the rarest of Lamb's writings called "Poetry for Children," as well as thirty-one of his letters to Edward Moxon, the publisher, and the original letter of Lamb to Miss Kelly, in which Lamb proposed marriage.

The list includes original manuscripts of Thackeray and Dickens, the latter's "Demeanour of Murderers," in sixteen pages, considered very valuable. A first edition of Walton's "Angler," (1653,) such as this collection contains, was purchased by J. P. Morgan at the W. C. Van Antwerp sale in London in 1907 for £1,290.

Among the American books, descriptions of which are contained in the last five volumes of the catalogue, the most important perhaps is the original manuscript of Franklin's "Autobiography," which Worthington Ford, Librarian of Manuscripts in the Congressional Library, recently declared to be the most important document, next to the Declaration of Independence, in America. This manuscript was once owned by John Bigelow, and is valued at $35,000. First editions of all of Franklin's almanacs, comprising the best collection in existence, and including consecutive numbers of Poor Richard's from 1736 to 1800, are included in the Franklin collection.

The first book printed in America, called the Bay Psalm Book, printed in Cambridge by Stephen Daye in 1640, is included in its original binding. There are only four volumes of this book in existence. Cornelius Vanderbilt owns one of them, and is said to have refused an offer of $20,000 made to him recently.

An only copy of the first laws of New England, for which the State of Massachusetts offered the late Mr. Church $25,000, is intact. There are two letters of John Andre to American Generals, similar to the letter to Benedict Arnold, signed John Anderson, which is in the private collection of J. P. Morgan, and which was purchased for $5,000.

Other American rarities include an edition of the first New England Primer, valued at $5,000; Bradford's map of New York Harbor, a first edition of the New York City Directory, dated 1786, and purchased ten years ago by Mr. Church for $1,000, and a rare copy of Denton's "History of New York," dated 1670, the first history of New York printed.

Mr. Smith said last night that he hoped to dispose of his purchase in part to the United States Government and to State Governments, but failing in this he will dispose of the collection to individual collectors. Negotiations for the purchase, he said, had been going on six months, two rivals from London being among the bidders. He said that he valued the collection at over $2,000,000.

SALE OF WHITMAN'S WORKS.

Fine Collection of First Editions Go at Low Prices.

One of the finest collections of Walt Whitman first editions that have ever appeared in the public market was sold at Merwin-Clayton's yesterday. A copy of "Franklin Evans; or, the Inebriate, A Tale of the Times," issued as an extra number of The New World, a New York periodical, in 1842, sold for $82; a copy of the first Brooklyn (1855) edition of "Leaves of Grass," title and portrait loose, $48; "Voices from the Press," containing "The Tomb Blossoms," by Whitman, and having inserted an interesting one-page letter of his, written in pencil, $19; first edition of W. D. O'Connor's "The Good Gray Poet," a vindication of Whitman, $9.25; a presentation copy of the New York (1867) "Leaves of Grass," from Whitman to Thomas Nast, $11.50; the rare first Washington (D. C.) (1871) issue of the "Leaves of Grass," with "Passage to India" bound in at the end, also inserted a manuscript poem by the author, "With Husky Haughty Lips O! Sea," $45, and "Memoranda During the War," presentation copy from Whitman to John H. Johnston, Jr., $17.50.

A copy of the first edition of Whitman's "Lafayette in Brooklyn," with an introduction by John Burroughs and with the autograph inscription "After sixty years I have little doubt that Whitman's was the finest head this age or country has seen. (Signed,) John Burroughs," sold for $9.75. A copy of William Winter's "Life and Art of Edwin Booth," with a letter from Booth inserted, sold for $6.50.

A set of the first editions of John A. Symonds's "Renaissance in Italy" brought $102.55. The same author's "Life of Benvenuto Cellini" sold for $31.50. A fine copy of the first edition of Henry D. Thoreau's "Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers" fetched $42. Of this original edition all but about 200 copies were returned to the author in 1853 as being unsalable.

To Discuss Country's Water Power.

Under the auspices of the Power Transmission Section of the National Electric Light Association, a conference will be held in the Engineering Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street, this afternoon to discuss the proper attitude of the National and State Governments toward the control, development, and utilization of the water power of the country. There will be a special evening session at 8 o'clock.

BRANDUS PICTURES SOLD FOR $83,195

Diaz's 'The Swing' Brings Highest Price, $4,250—Cuyp's 'Cattle and Landscape,' $4,000.

Mrs. George R. Schieffelin of 22 West Fifty-second Street bought a number of pictures last evening at the Brandus sale in the Fifth Avenue Art Galleries. The first picture of the sale, "Henrietta of England," attributed to William Dobson, went to Mrs. Schieffelin for $75, and the same buyer paid $280 for "Portrait of a Lady," by Daniel Mythens. A charming little picture by Frederic Ede, "Trees Along the Edge of a Stream," went to J. Banks for $115, and George Carmen of Maplewood, N. J., gave $1,450 for a Fritz Thaulow, "Le Laita a Quimperle." G. M. Le Favre, agent, paid $1,800 for the "Flower Girl," a large Bouguereau.

Among prices more than $1,000 were "Peter III. of Russia," Tocque, F. C. Fredericks, $1,025; "Turkish Women and Children," Diaz, L. Marshall, $2,100; "Portrait of a Young Woman," Van Miereveit, Lanthier, $2,000; "Cattle and Landscape," Cuyp, Lanthier, $4,000; "Countess of Dorchester," Lely, L. The total for the evening was $52,645, and for the two evenings' sale, $83,195.

"MILL" FOR WIDENER HOME.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—George D. Widener admitted to-day that his father, P. A. B. Widener, had bought Rembrandt's "The Mill" from Lord Lansdowne of England. The purchase price is about $500,000.

Mr. Widener said the world-famed picture would be hung in the Widener home at Ogontz, where are many other productions of the greatest painters of the ages.

"Yes, the announcement in THE NEW YORK TIMES was correct," Mr. Widener added. "The London Times obtained confirmation of the transaction. 'The Mill' will be in this country in less than two months."

"By express," he replied. "The painting will be under a strong guard from the time it leaves the home of its former owner until it is delivered at Ogontz."

Interest in the sale of "The Mill" has been universal. Europe regards it as a calamity that another of its priceless treasures should be lost to it. But Lord Lansdowne gave the British National Gallery an option which was not taken advantage of. This option expired at midnight on March 31. Lord Balfour was intensely interested in the negotiations between Lord Lansdowne and the National Gallery Trustees. He desired earnestly that England continue to possess the masterpiece.

P. A. B. Widener, through his British solicitors, offered the sum demanded, and it was accepted. "The Mill" will be heavily insured.

Although no word was given to this effect to-day, it was assumed by those who know Mr. Widener that he will grant a private view of the painting after it has been permanently hung.

RUBBER PRICES TOO ELASTIC.

Company Officials Arrested for Selling Stock on False Pretenses.

BOSTON, April 7.—On charges of using the United States mails to defraud the public of large sums of money, Warren B. Wheeler and Stillman Shaw of the firm of Wheeler & Shaw, Incorporated, formerly fiscal agents for the North American Rubber Company of this city and Hyde Park, were arrested at the Federal Building to-day after they had voluntarily surrendered to Deputy United States Marshal Ruhl.

A formal plea of not guilty was entered when Wheeler and Shaw were given a hearing before Commissioner Hayes, and both were held in $3,000 bail for a hearing. The defendants furnished bail and were released.

The North American Rubber Company, a Maine corporation, is capitalized at 500,000 shares of $10 par each, and 400,000 shares are outstanding in hands of at least 1,000 purchasers throughout New England. A majority of the company's outstanding shares are now controlled by William J. Carlin and Frederick H. Payne, Directors of the Federal Trust Company, of which Mr. Payne is Vice President.

The company's factory at Hyde Park has been practically shut down since the first of last December, following the expiration of a contract under which its product was taken by the Boston Belting Company. During the four or five months prior to Dec. 1 the plant made thirty tons of rubber, which is said to have been sold at $1 per pound.

A rebate discount, however, of 40 cents per pound from this price is alleged to have been given on the rubber taken by the belting company. Evidence submitted to District Attorney French by Post Office Inspectors purports to show that the cost of producing the rubber turned out at the Hyde Park plant approximated more than 80 cents per pound.

It is charged that $620,000 has been secured from the investing public, the stock being sold on alleged false representations, which indicated a clear profit of 60 cents a pound, whereas it is alleged that every pound of the product was sold to the Boston Belting Company at a heavy loss.

AIR VOYAGE TO GREET KING.

Zeppelin in New Dirigible Flies to Stuttgart for Royal Silver Wedding.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, April 7.—In his dirigible balloon, the new Deutschland, Count Zeppelin, with a number of passengers, set out at 8:25 o'clock this morning for Stuttgart, to greet King William II. of Würtemberg and Queen Charlotte on the occasion to-morrow of their silver wedding anniversary. From Stuttgart the airship will proceed to Baden-Baden and Dusseldorf. King William is an enthusiast in aerial navigation, and in July, 1908, both he and the Queen took a flight with Zeppelin over Lake Constance. It was the first time in history that a reigning King and Queen dared such an adventure.

STUTTGART, Würtemberg, April 7.—The airship Deutschland arrived here at 3 o'clock this afternoon and circled over the royal palace, while Count Zeppelin dropped a parachute bouquet with his greetings to the King and Queen. A landing was made in the suburbs, where additional passengers were taken on.

BADEN BADEN, Germany, April 7.—The Duetschland, with ten passengers aboard, arrived this evening at the Oos Aerodrome from Cannstatt, covering the distance of forty-seven miles in 1 hour 25 minutes. The dirigible will make several trips before proceeding for Dusseldorf.

German Mayor's Son Sentenced.

Rene Adolph Plum, son of the Mayor of Cologne, Germany, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary in Special Sessions yesterday after he had pleaded guilty to petty larceny. On Feb. 1 Plum got Louis Eilermann, a saloon keeper at 127 Washington Street, to cash a worthless check for $15. It is charged that the young man, who had only been in this city a short time, passed worthless checks aggregating between $3,000 and $4,000.

AMATEURS TO GIVE HORSE SHOW

Events at Durland's April 20 and 21 in Aid of Two Tuberculosis Hospitals.

The horse show to be given by society amateurs in aid of two tuberculosis hospitals the evenings of April 20 and 21 at Durland's Riding Academy, Sixty-sixth Street, will include fourteen events, among which are tandems, saddle horses, polo ponies, officers' chargers, and military mounts, jumping, hunt teams, and four-in-hands, for which well-known society men and women are entered.

Among the patrons and patronesses are Archbishop Farley, Gov. and Mrs. Dix, Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Conway, Mayor and Mrs. Gaynor, Theodore Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Collier, Mrs. Charles Oelrichs, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clarke, Mrs. Eugene Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Garvan, Frederick Townsend Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, Judge and Mrs. Francis Key Pendleton, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Taft, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Alton B. Parker, and many others, most of whom are also box holders.

All of the expenses have been donated, and all the proceeds will be given to the maintenance of the Sanitarium Gabriels in the Adirondacks and Seton Hospital on Spuyten Duyvil Parkway, where tuberculosis patients are received without regard to race or creed.

SAMUEL TAYLOR WEDS AT 70.

Hackensack ex-County Clerk Married to Mrs. J. E. Huyler, a Grandmother.

Special to The New York Times.

HACKENSACK, April 7.—Announcement was made this morning of the wedding last night of ex-County Clerk Samuel Taylor, a widower, aged 70 years, and Mrs. J. E. Huyler, herself a grandmother, at the latter's residence in State Street. The Rev. Dr. Von Schlieder of the First Reformed Church officiated. No one knew of the event except the immediate family. Those present were Mrs. Abram Demarest, whose husband is Superintendent of Schools in Hoboken, and Mrs. John W. Holberton, daughter of Mr. Taylor; ex-County Clerk John R. Ramsey and Mrs. Ramsey, the latter being a daughter of Mrs. Huyler; Dr. W. F. Parr, a brother of the bride, and Mrs. Parr; the bride's mother, Mrs. Anna Parr, and Clifford F. Huyler.

Mr. Taylor is one of Hackensack's wealthiest residents. He is President of the Hackensack Land Company and a Director in the Hackensack National Bank. He served fifteen years as County Clerk.

Tyler-Langdon Wedding Plans.

Miss Sophie E. Langdon and the Rev. Barret P. Tyler will be married on Thursday, April 27, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Langdon, 719 Fifth Avenue, and not at the Church of the Incarnation, as has been announced.

The wedding will be a small one, and only the immediate families will be present. It will be followed by a small reception. The Rev. S. Roger Tyler will perform the ceremony, assisted by Canon Herbert C. Tolman of Nashville, Tenn.

Miss Helen M. Langdon will be her sister's maid of honor, and Dr. George T. Tyler will be the best man.

The bridegroom is the rector of the Church of the Redeemer at Morristown, N. J., and a son of the Rev. and Mrs. George T. Tyler of Virginia.

Miss Seward to Wed on April 12.

Miss Emma Seward, daughter of Mrs. Seward and the late George F. Seward, will be married to Charles Royal Woods on Wednesday evening, April 12. The wedding will take place at the Seward home, 136 West Seventy-third Street. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, only members of the immediate families will be present.

Miss Cronkhite to Wed E. G. Young.

Col. Adelbert Cronkhite, U. S. A., and Mrs. Cronkhite announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Holford Cronkhite, to Edward Gamble Young, son of George Hurlbut Young of this city. No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

BRANCH—SNEAD.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 7.—Mr. and Mrs. John Ransom Branch of Richmond, Va., formerly of New York, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Cooke Branch, to Thomas Burton Snead, also of Richmond. The wedding will take place in Richmond in old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church on Wednesday evening, April 19, at 6 o'clock. A large reception will follow at 914 West Franklin Street, the residence of Mrs. George B. McAdams, aunt of the bride-elect.

Mrs. Schroeder and Daughters Return.

Mrs. Seaton Schroeder, whose husband, Rear Admiral Schroeder, is with the Atlantic Squadron, returned with her daughters, Sarah and Joanna, on the Cunarder Pannonia from Mediterranean ports yesterday. Mrs. Schroeder was met at the pier by Mrs. Francis Schroeder, with whom she will stay a few days in New York before going to Washington. She was disappointed at not being met by the Admiral, whom she had expected to be at the dock. He is away with his fleet at practice and will not return till April 12.

Surprise Party for Robert W. Goelet.

Mrs. Robert Goelet and Mrs. Arthur Iselin arranged a surprise party last night for Robert W. Goelet at his residence, 591 Fifth Avenue.

There were fifty guests asked, and music, dancing, and an informal supper were part of the programme.

Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, Mr. and Mrs. W. Payne Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse, Robert Goelet, James W. Barney, Guy H. Carey, J. Harry Masson, Charles D. Wetmore, Arthur Iselin, Lloyd Warren, Ogden L. Mills, and others.

EAST SIDE MOURNS CHARLES S. ADLER

Windows of Shops and Homes Show Black-Bordered Portraits of the Former Leader.

PLAN BIG FUNERAL PARADE

Republican Organizations to March from Upper East Side Down Through Adler's Old District.

A big funeral is planned for the late Republican east side leader, Charles S. Adler, who died on Wednesday. Services will be held to-morrow at 10 A. M. in Temple Rodoph Sholem, Lexington Avenue and Sixty-third Street. Rabbi Dr. Rudolph Grossman will officiate. The burial will be in Mount Hope Cemetery, Cypress Hills.

Windows of shops and private residences in the East side are being decorated with black-bordered pictures of "Charlie," as he was familiarly called.

Prominent among the associations that will participate in the funeral march will be the entire Republican organization of the Eighth Assembly District, headed by the members of the Lincoln League, of which body Mr. Adler was for more than twenty years the moving spirit. Others in line will be the Federal Club of the Sixth Assembly District, S. S. Koenig, leader; the Republican organization of the Second Assembly District, Joseph Levenson, leader; the Republican organization of the Fourth Assembly District, Alexander Wolf, leader, and the Progress Club of the Tenth Assembly District, Dr. Frederick Marshall, leader.

The line of march will be from Sixty-third Street down Lexington Avenue to Twenty-second Street, to Second Avenue, to Houston Street, to the Bowery, and down that thoroughfare to Grand Street as far as Orchard Street, the home of the Lincoln League Club. From the clubhouse the march will be to Broome Street to Eldridge, to Rivington, to Ludlow and Delancey, and thence over the Williamsburg Bridge.

The pall bearers chosen are ex-Gov. Benjamin B. Odell, Justice Leonard A. Giegerich, Judge Charles H. Murray, Judge Joseph F. Mulqueen, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky, Justice John B. Mayo, Julius M. Mayer, Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, Congressman William S. Bennet, Samuel S. Koenig, Edward Lauterbach, Lloyd C. Griscom, William Barnes, Jr., Herbert Parsons, Abraham Gruber, Senator Timothy D. Sullivan, John H. Gunner, Max Solomon, Max G. Ernest, Frank J. Martin, Andrew C. McGivney, and Joseph S. Marcus.

SHOT HIS WIFE'S COMPANION.

Husband in Ambush Dangerously Wounds Kansas City Politician.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 7.—Two shotgun charges fired from bushes along North Liberty Street, in Independence, a fashionable suburb, struck William E. Hagan, a flour dealer of 4,217 Campbell Street, Kansas City, as he was driving in his buggy this evening. He is dangerously wounded in the right breast and right arm.

Hagan told Dr. N. P. Wood, to whose office he drove, that he did not know who did the shooting or why it was done.

After the shooting John Bramham, claim agent for the Metropolitan Street Railway Company, announced he had done the shooting. He said his wife was in the buggy with Hagan. Mrs. Bramham admitted this was true and said her trips with Hagan were purely on business.

In the box of the buggy in which Hagan drove to Dr. Wood's office was a woman's purse. Persons who saw Hagan just before the shooting said a woman was in the buggy with him, and that she got out and went away with the man who did the shooting.

The first charge of shot struck Hagan in the breast. He threw up his right arm just as his assailant fired the second barrel, and the charge entered the arm.

Hagan has been Democratic leader in Kansas City for twenty years. During the Cowherd administration he held an office under the Board of Public Works.

NEW CATHEDRAL ARCHITECT.

The Trustees of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine have engaged Henry Vaughan of Boston as architect for the Huntington and the Potter Chapels.

The Huntington Chapel, on the extreme north side of the choir, will be of pure English Gothic, reminding of the interior of Grace Church, of which the late Dr. Huntington was rector. It will seat about 200, and will be finished like the interior of Grace Church. It will cost $150,000, and at the consecration services on April 10 it is hoped the entire sum may be placed on the altar.

The Potter Chapel will be on the extreme south side of the choir, and its erection is made possible by the Clarke family. It also will cost $150,000. For the opening service 7,000 applications for tickets have been received. There are seats for only 2,000 persons.

Held for Warner's Death.

Judge Rosalsky, in General Sessions yesterday, refused to dismiss the indictment against Alfred Langione, one of the striking express drivers who was accused of complicity in the stabbing of John C. Warner, the young civil engineer of Highwood, Conn., who died from his wound on Nov. 30.

PRINCETON FACULTY AT PLAY.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 7.—Princeton University's dramatic season was opened to-night at the Casino with the presentation of "Simply Cynthia" by the University Triangle Club. This was a dress rehearsal given before Faculty members and wives, and precedes the first public performance, which comes to-morrow night. The play was written by Cyrus McCormick, 1912, of Chicago, twice guard on the football team, and G. W. Bunn, Jr., 1912, Editor in Chief of next year's comic paper, "The Princeton Tiger."

The lyrics are by Ned Gray, 1911, of Newark, and E. P. Nevin, 1912, son of Ethelbert Nevin, the composer. The words are by Lemuel Skidmore, 1911. The play centres around the New Orleans Mardi Gras.

BENEFIT FOR FIRE SUFFERERS

Large Audience and Long Programme at the Winter Garden.

A benefit for the Washington Place fire sufferers was held at the Winter Garden yesterday afternoon, with a large audience and a long and elaborate programme. The amount of the receipts was not given out last night, as there are contributions still coming in from out-of-town sources. Checks already sent in include $200 from Mme. Tetrazzini, $100 from Mr. Leahy, her manager, and $50 from Sothern and Marlowe.

Lew Fields took personal direction of the entertainment, and Al Johnson acted as announcer. The programme consisted of acts from several Broadway plays and a number of individual "turns." The first act of "The Gamblers" was given by the company from Maxine Elliott's Theatre, the second act of "Everywoman" was presented by Henry W. Savage's company, with Edna Porter in the title rôle, John Mason gave a recitation, and Edith Wynne Matthison of The New Theatre company also appeared in a recitation. There were twenty-two numbers altogether, and the performance lasted from 1 o'clock until nearly 6.

MODERN PLAY IS DISCUSSED.

Pinero's "The Thunderbolt" Acted as Illustration at New Theatre.

The last of the series of special matinées at The New Theatre on the development of the English drama was given yesterday afternoon, when the modern stage and the modern play were discussed and illustrated. Prof. Brander Matthews talked on the changes that took place in play writing between the old comedy period and the present day, and the changes in the building and management of stages.

The drama used for the illustration was Arthur Wing Pinero's "The Thunderbolt," that was produced at The New Theatre during the present season. A part of two acts of this play were given, with the original cast.

OPERA IN PHILADELPHIA.

President McCormick of Chicago Company Says Matter Is Not Settled.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Grand opera for Philadelphia by the Chicago Grand Opera Company is not a settled matter, as reported from the Eastern city, according to Harold F. McCormick, President of the company.

In answer to inquiry as to the Chicago Company going to Philadelphia, Mr. McCormick said to-day:

"The giving of opera by the Chicago Grand Opera Company in Philadelphia has not been decided. The Directors have under consideration applications from San Francisco, Los Angeles, Seattle, and other Western cities for opera performances after the conclusion of the Chicago season."

Hebrew Children Sanitarium Benefit.

A benefit performance under the auspices of Lew Fields will be given to-morrow evening at the Broadway Theatre in aid of the Sanitarium for Hebrew Children. The programme will include Luba Merof, Mazie King, Frank Whitman, Stella Mayhew, Al Leach and Maud Gray, Grace La Rue, Willie Collier, Melville Ellis, Cliff Gordon, Linden Beckwith, and Al Jolson. Mr. Fields will also present the barber shop scene from "The Hen Pecks," with Gertrude Quinlan, Bert Leslie, Blossom Seeley, Laurance Wheat, Vernon Castle, Stephen Maley, Lillian Lee, Nan Brennan, and himself.

Theatre Ticket Ordinance Argued.

The validity of the ordinance prohibiting ticket speculators from plying their trade on the public streets was argued yesterday before the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Assistant Corporation Counsel Terence Farley appeared for the city, and Louis Marshall for the ticket speculators. Decision was reserved.

Theatre Club Name Puzzles Court.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard reserved decision yesterday on the question as to which of two organizations has the right to the name "Theatre Club." One club was incorporated by members of the other after a split in the older club.

Herr Schildkraut in Operatic Role.

Von Suppe's operetta "Fatinitza" was presented at the Irving Place Theatre last night, with Rudolf Schildkraut in the principal comedy rôle. This was Herr Schildkraut's first appearance here in an operatic rôle, although he has played nearly every other variety of part since beginning his New York engagement. The performance of his company and the music by the enlarged orchestra seemed to please last night's audience.

Playgoers in "Spring Blossom Fete."

A "Spring Blossom Fete" will be given at the Hotel Astor to-night by the American Playgoers, of which John Temple Graves and Amelia Bingham are honorary Presidents and Mrs. James Madison Bass, President. A business meeting of the organization will be held at 7:45 o'clock for the election of officers and a reception, and a discussion of plays will be held afterward.

Central Union to Aid White Rats.

A request from the White Rats Actors' Union, composed of vaudeville performers, for the assistance of the Central Federated Union, was granted at a meeting of the Central Union last night, and it was voted to send a committee to the vaudeville managers to ask them to recognize the White Rats Actors' Union in all particulars.

"Aida" Repeated at Metropolitan.

"Aida" was repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, when the cast included Miss Destinn, Mrs. Homer, and Messrs. Martin, Amato, and Didur. Mr. Toscanini conducted.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Louis N. Parker, the playwright, has sent from England a brief prologue to be used in the children's performance of "Pomander Walk," to be held at Wallack's Theatre on April 20. It will be read by Miss Dorothy Parker, the author's daughter.

The committee in charge of the benefit performance for the Washington Place fire sufferers, to be given at the Metropolitan Opera House next Tuesday afternoon, has appointed Edward Seidel general stage director for the operatic numbers, and William Seymour as director of all the other features of the performance.

Ferike Boros, the translator of "Seven Sisters," recently produced by Daniel Frohman, will appear next week in a one-act dramatic sketch, "Vengeance," by Louis Lipsky, at the Richmond Theatre, Staten Island. Miss Boros is a Hungarian actress, but she has appeared in English productions in this country.

Killed at Auto Truck Demonstration.

While demonstrating the operation of a new three-ton auto truck for a brewing company on Hillside Avenue, Jamaica, yesterday morning, Felix Droit of 145 West Nineteenth Street, Manhattan, missed his footing as he attempted to board the truck after it was under way and fell. One of the front wheels passed over his stomach, killing him instantly. Charles Emig, a driver for the brewery, was operating the truck. He was arrested and later paroled.

MME. LUND'S RECITAL.

Mme. Charlotte Lund, who announced herself as a "prima donna" soprano, gave a recital yesterday afternoon in Mendelssohn Hall. She sang a great variety of songs and airs, beginning with "Batti batti" from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," and with excursions into Giordani, ("Caro mio ben,") Durante, ("Danza danza,") and Haydn, ("My mother bids me bind my hair,") coming down to modern French, German, English, and American songs, the last named including Salter's "Come to the Garden, Love," Ethelbert Nevin's "Twilight," and William J. Gard's "Flow'r of the Years."

Mme. Lund has the important primary qualification of possessing a voice of real and unusual natural beauty, a lyric soprano, light in quality, smooth, flexible, and sweet, especially when she avoided trying for power. She sings with sincerity, without affectation, and when the music is not of itself too exacting, with taste and charm. Her gamut of emotional expression is not very extended, however; nor is her command of phrasing and the legato style different for the finest performance of the older music that she attempted. Her singing of Hadyn's song was agreeable, and there was real feeling in the way she presented Grieg's "Ein Schwan" to her listeners. A number of the other modern songs she sang with charm and expressiveness; but others showed the limit of her range of emotional potency, and she was not always successful in avoiding the suspicion of monotony, even in the wide range and variety of her selections.

ROSENHEIMER HOUSE BURNS.

Loss, $100,000, and Owner Will Spare No Expense in Learning Cause of Fire.

It is understood that Edward T. Rosenheimer intends to spare no expense in trying to find out whether an incendiary set fire to his house, The Roses, at Pelham, early yesterday morning, when it was burned to its foundation. Including valuable paintings and bric-à-brac which were destroyed, the loss is estimated to be about $100,000. It is reported that the house and its contents were insured for $72,000. Mr. Rosenheimer is the son of Julius T. Rosenheimer, who was murdered while walking in the rose garden surrounding the house four years ago. He was living with his wife and children in a New York hotel at the time the fire occurred. He made a record run in a taxicab to Pelham when he was notified at 2:30 in the morning that his residence was in flames. He arrived in time to see the main chimney collapse.

Sydney Sinsor, the caretaker, who was the only one in the house, had a narrow escape. He was on the third floor when he was awakened by smoke, which nearly suffocated him. He gave the alarm by firing several revolver shots out of a front window. Policeman John Lally was the first to appear, and he declares that the fire seemed to be raging in every room. The plate glass in the front windows and doors had blown out, when he told the caretaker to jump. He leaped to the veranda roof, and from there jumped into the policeman's arms.

Chief Durham of the Pelham Fire Department, which is made up of prominent New York business men, fought the flames.

Sparks set fire to the residence of Mrs. G. W. Wilcox and several other villas, which the firemen saved.

Henry F. Dimock Growing Weaker.

The condition of Henry F. Dimock, who is critically ill at his home, 25 East Sixtieth Street, showed little change late last night. It was said at his home that Mr. Dimock was gradually growing weaker, and that there seemed little hope of his recovery.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 7.—Notwithstanding he spent a rather restful night, ex-Mapor Tom L. Johnson was reported weaker to-day. He is not allowed to see any visitors.

Judge Joseph E. Russell.

PRENDERGAST FOR RULE BY PARTIES

Controller, in Denver Speech, Says He Must Be Careful to Avoid "Sedition."

DEFECTS OF REFORM WAYS

Bank Superintendent Cheney Tells of Plan to Establish a Real Estate Bureau of This Department.

Controller William A. Prendergast and State Superintendent of Banks O. H. Cheney were the principal speakers last night at the nineteenth annual Spring dinner of Group Seven of the New York State Bankers' Association at the Hotel Astor.

"I have to be rather careful these days about what I say in public," said the Controller. "I might give offense. I might incur the accusation of 'sedition.' Every public official when he goes home at night nowadays feels the peculiar aptness of the following parody:

Count that day lost
Whose low descending sun
Views from thy hand
No slugging neatly done.

The Controller then denied a recently published report that he was born and bred in the Irish counties of Cavan and Sligo.

"I come from Wexford, and my motto is Noli me tangere—Don't step on me," he said.

The Controller then asked the bankers to do all they could to build up an earnest desire for "expert knowledge and service within their political organizations."

"I believe," he said, "that the most successful administrations which this city has ever had have been partisan administrations as opposed to its reform administrations," said the Controller. "Men of the same party are bound together by party loyalty and serve the heads of their departments more earnestly and loyally than men who are chosen from the outside. And there is no reason why a spirit of sincere and earnest desire to acquire and exercise expert knowledge in public service should not be developed inside of political parties. I ask you to help me to inculcate this desire in the public mind."

State Supt. Cheney told the diners that he was about to establish a Real Estate Bureau in connection with the State Banking Department.

"The real estate loans which the banks in this State make are one of the most serious problems we have to handle," he said. "The department's new bureau will gather data, records and appraisals of real estate for the information of the examiners who pass on loans on real estate. The bureau will be in charge of a practical real estate man. The first step in starting the bureau will be to send out an elaborate blank form for you bankers to fill out concerning the real estate you hold as collateral for loans."

G. Foster Smith, cashier of the Nassau National Bank of Brooklyn presided. W. G. Fischer, cashier of the People's Bank of Brooklyn, the Rev. John F. Carson, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn, and ex-Assistant District Attorney R. H. Roy of Brooklyn also spoke.

UPHOLD DELABARRE WILL.

Witnesses to It Testify in Suit of Widow Who Was Cut Off.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 7.—Surrogate Frank V. Millard heard testimony to-day in the contest of the will of the late Dr. Walter E. Delabarre, a New York physician. His widow, Mrs. Frances Freeland Delabarre of New Haven, Conn., declares that undue influence was used. Dr. Delabarre died on Nov. 10 last at his country house at White Plains.

Under the will Miss Anna Sees, who was a nurse for Dr. Delabarre during his illness, receives the entire estate, and the widow is not mentioned.

The only two witnesses to-day were Dr. Charles Teets of 353 Fifth Avenue, Manhattan, and Charles H. Farmer of Ridgewood, N. J., the witnesses to the will. They swore that Dr. Delabarre was not under restraint when he signed the will. Dr. Teets declared that Dr. Delabarre dictated the terms of the will to him.

Mr. Farmer said that Dr. Delabarre had declared that his wife should not have any of his property because she was not worthy of it, and had no claim on him.

The hearing was adjourned until April 21.

FUND FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL.

SARATOGA, N. Y., April 7.—That the Sullivan Sunday Baseball bill and the Martin anti-race track liability measure are to be railroaded through the Legislature and that the professional baseball interests have raised $250,000 to enact the Sullivan bill, were charges made before the Troy Methodist Conference this morning by the Rev. P. R. Miller of the New York Civic League.

Mr. Miller declared that the McGrath Baseball bill was defeated through public sentiment which the League aroused by means of over 100,000 letters, telegrams, and circulars.

A committee composed of F. W. Adams of Schenectady, Lewis M. Lounsbery of Albany, and M. B. Pratt of Amsterdam was appointed to represent the conference at a meeting soon to be held in New York for the purpose of uniting the reform organizations of New York State into one body.

AUBURN, N. Y., April 7.—Prompt and vigorous denial was made to-night by John H. Farrell, President of the New York State League, to the charges made before the Troy Methodist Episcopal Conference at Saratoga to-day by the Rev. R. Miller that professional baseball interests had a fund of $250,000 to enact the Sullivan Sunday baseball bill. He said:

"The utterly reckless disregard for facts and the truth emanating from opponents of this proposed legislation is amazing. I know nothing of any fund of $250,000 or of $2.50 to be used for baseball legislation. We believe, however, that we have a majority of 250,000 taxpaying voters ready to declare their belief in the principle involved."

BORING A WELL, FOUND COAL.

Vein Struck at Depth of 300 Feet in Sullivan County.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., April 7.—While digging an eight-inch artesian well at the Corbett & Stewart Acid Factory, near Livingston Manor, Sullivan County, a vein of fine hard coal was struck at a depth of 300 feet. It is not known how thick the vein is, but the quality is excellent.

The well is now down 335 feet and stands full of water. Efforts will now be made to find out if the coal is present in sufficient quantity to pay for mining.

Several times coal has been found in small quantities in Sullivan County, but it has never been worth mining.

MARRIED A PRIEST, NOW DIVORCES HIM

Mrs. Ellen G. McGinn Freed from the Rev. Louis T. McGlenn of Brooklyn.

HUSBAND IN A MONASTERY

Bishop Caused Separation and Wife Could Not Make Personal Service —Says He Squandered $50,000.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., April 7.—Mrs. Ellen McGinn, daughter of a former wealthy butcher of Elm Place, Brooklyn, to-day secured a decree of divorce from the Rev. Father Louis T. McGinn, formerly connected with St. Anthony's and Steward's parishes of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Mrs. McGinn testified that she and the Rev. Father McGinn went to the same convent together, and that in 1902 he persuaded her to marry him, although he was a Catholic priest. They were married by Rev. Frederick Lorimer of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Brooklyn. He took the name of his mother, Hare, and was married under that name to avoid publicity and disgrace.

After they were married they lived together for a time until one of her brothers discovered that they had been married. By that time a baby girl had been born to them. She was formerly Miss Ellen Hasle of Brooklyn, and is well connected in that city.

When their marriage was discovered Bishop Charles McDonald interfered, she said, and took her husband from her, sending him to the Mono Trappist convent in Ireland, and later to a convent in the southern part of the United States. She was unable to get personal service, stating to the Judge that the Catholic Church prevented her finding him.

Mrs. McGinn has been ill since coming to Reno, and when she entered the courtroom was attended by a physician, having just left the hospital. She testified that her husband during their short marriage squandered more than $50,000 belonging to her.

CONFER ON PARSONS INQUIRY

Stover Sees Fosdick and Discusses Canceled Contracts for Park Soil.

Park Commissioner Stover visited Commissioner of Accounts Fosdick yesterday and discussed with him the prospective investigation into the official conduct of Samuel Parsons, Jr., who for the last twenty-nine years has been landscape architect of the Park Board.

Among the matters which Commissioner Stover said he took up with Commissioner Fosdick were two contracts which Commissioner Stover himself made early in his administration with the New Jersey Company of 11 Broadway for soil and clay for the parks. One was for $2,370 and another for $1,400, he said.

Information which he received recently caused Commissioner Stover to recall both contracts, he said; but he would not say whether these contracts bore any relation with the investigation of Architect Parson's official conduct.

"The circumstances surrounding the contracts seemed sufficiently unusual to justify my recalling them," was all that Commissioner Stover would say.

Architect Parsons would not discuss the matter, but said:

"I think that my suggestions regarding the parks have been good and Commissioner Stover thinks that they haven't. It seems to me that is all there is to the controversy."

LAWSUIT ILLUMINES TARIFF.

The Waltham Watch Company of Waltham, Mass., filed a suit in the United States Circuit Court yesterday against Charles A. Keene, a Broadway jeweler, seeking to have him enjoined from selling any watches of what are known as the "16-size Riverside" at less than the price which the company has established through contracts with the dealers it meets directly. The watch company asserts its right to maintain the price it fixes on its product by reason of its patents covering this particular movement for watches, and contends in the bill of complaint that the contract price may be inforced on any person who sells its product.

In the present instance, however, a somewhat novel proposition is advanced as carrying out this theory. Keene is the downtown jeweler who has advertised extensively that he was buying Waltham watches which had been sold abroad at "export prices," bringing them back into this country and paying tariff duty on them as imports, and then underselling the Waltham Watch Company in its home market on its own product so imported. The situation has been extensively referred to in discussions of the protective tariff, as showing how American manufacturers were "dumping" their product abroad while maintaining unduly high prices on this side of the water within the tariff wall.

The Waltham Company's contention is that its contract covering the sale of the watches at its stated price remains binding, even though they may have passed through the hands of a third party before the defendant obtained them, and that its patents protect it in this position. Keene, it is understood, will deny that there is anything to prevent him from selling the watches he buys abroad for whatever he may choose to ask for them.

TRIED SUICIDE; A BANKRUPT.

Creditors Pursue Lawyer Hayman—Accused of Withholding Funds.

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Morris H. Hayman, a lawyer, of 198 Broadway, who attempted suicide in Newark. The petitioner is Arthur Casper, a creditor for $6,375. He states that on Sept. 19, 1906, he gave Mr. Hayman $2,000; on Nov. 20, 1906, $1,250, and on May 18, 1907, $3,125 to be deposited on contracts to purchase real estate. The contracts were not closed. Mr. Hayman received a return of the money, Casper says, and refused to give it back. Acts of bankruptcy also are alleged in the petition.

When Mr. Hayman left the city on March 31, Mr. Casper is informed, he had $10,000 in the Columbia Bank, but the bank has an offset for $6,000, and that he is the owner of a large amount of real estate and mortgages, which are held by dummies, and also that he owns mining properties in Idaho.

Mr. Casper also believes Mr. Hayman left the State and attempted suicide because his business affairs were involved.

Sheriff Shea received another attachment yesterday against Mr. Hayman in favor of Hattie Mosler for $2,700, balance of a draft of $3,000 of the Supreme Lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, which he collected for her on April 10, 1910, and which, she said, he promised to invest for her.

The Sheriff attached $3,505 in the Columbia Bank on an attachment for $12,500 held by Francis J. Arend.

Fakers' Show to be Continued To-day.

The Society of American Fakers has decided to continue its exhibition of fakes and posters this afternoon and evening, also the side show and Turkish booths, girls in harem skirts, Turkish and Persian rugs presented to the Fakers, some of them valued at $8,000 to $10,000. The rugs will be auctioned in the evening.

GUGGENHEIM DIVORCE HELD TO BE VALID

Defeat of Effort of Mrs. Herbert-Wahl to Have Annulled the Decree Which Freed Her.

SHE WANTED NEW ALIMONY

Justice Gerard's Decision in the Case Vindicated by the Court of Appeals at Albany.

ALBANY, April 7.—The divorce from William Guggenheim granted Grace B. Guggenheim in Chicago in March, 1901, was upheld to-day by the Court of Appeals.

The Guggenheims were married in Hoboken Nov. 30, 1900, and in the following January Guggenheim is alleged to have deserted his wife. She went to Chicago in February and instituted an action for divorce. The decree was granted March 20, 1901, and Mrs. Guggenheim received $150,000 in satisfaction of her claims for alimony. She returned to New York and on Dec. 24 of the same year married Jules Roger Wahl. Three years lated Guggenheim married Aimée Steinberger in Chicago.

At the time of the Illinois divorce, Mrs. Guggenheim testified that she was a resident of Chicago. In 1908 she brought action against Guggenheim for a divorce under the laws of New York State, claiming that, as neither party was a resident of Chicago, the Illinois divorce was illegal, and that the defendant should maintain her. The lower courts held the Chicago decree to be valid and their decisions are upheld by the Court of Appeals.

The Court of Appeals decision upholds a determination of the case in this city by Supreme Court Justice Gerard and his referee, James McI. Nash, and supports as well the judgment of the Appellate Court of Illinois, in which Mrs. Herbert-Guggenheim-Wahl attacked the decree divorcing her from Guggenheim, after which she married Jules Roger Wahl, a Frenchman, who obtained the annulment of his marriage to her in Paris on the ground of infancy and the lack of parental consent.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Mrs. Aimee Lillian Steinberger Guggenheim, who sought an injunction to restrain Mrs. Herbert-Guggenheim-Wahl from attacking the Chicago divorce, made an argument before Justice Gerard, in which he declared that "no more outrageous blackmailing plot was ever perpetrated in a court of record."

Justice Gerard said in his decision, Feb. 10, 1910:

"While it is hard to imagine that the courts of Illinois would set aside the divorce decree to give this woman an opportunity to levy tribute, or a weapon to invalidate the plaintiff's marriage and make her child illegitimate, this court must protect the latter from even such a remote possibility, and the relief prayed for will be granted, and should be granted, if it were necessary to upset every precedent in the books."

PRAYING WOMAN ACQUITTED.

Mrs. Brooks, Who Killed Her Rival, Found by Jury to Have Been Insane.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, April 7.—"We, the jury, find the defendant not guilty, on the ground of insanity." Signed, H. P. Lewis, foreman.

This was the verdict by which Mrs. Lizzie Brooks was acquitted to-day at Fort Worth of the charge of murdering Mrs. Mary Binford, her rival for the affection of her husband.

Mrs. Brooks, prostrated by nervousness caused by the jury's failure to acquit her last night, was not in court. There were only 150 persons in court, and there was no demonstration.

Two of Mrs. Brooks's lawyers shook hands with the jurors. Judge Simmons made no comment. The jury stood ten to two until this morning.

Mrs. Brooks killed Mrs. Binford on the 16th of last January. All persons concerned were of prominent social standing. Witnesses for Mrs. Brooks testified that she had passed much of her time for two years previous to the murder in prayer for Mrs. Binford.

Madison Square Garden Not to Go Yet.

George Young, Treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Company, denied emphatically yesterday a published statement that a syndicate had obtained an option to buy the Garden and would erect five skyscrapers on the site.

SHELDON TAKEN TO CANADA.

Efforts to Hold Him for Trial at Pittsburg Are Unsuccessful.

PITTSBURG, April 7.—Charles B. Sheldon, wanted in Montreal for financial operations covering a large sum, was to-day released from custody and turned over to Chief McCaskill of the Provincial Police.

An effort was made to have Sheldon punished in Allegheny County for the alleged defalcation of $600 intrusted to him by the owner of the house where he boarded. The decision releasing him was rendered by a full bench in Common Pleas Court. McCaskill and his prisoner left the Court House immediately for the railway station.

CITY BREVITIES.

Oswald Garrison Villard of The Evening Post, will deliver an address in the Meeting-House of the Society for Ethical Culture, Sixty-fourth Street and Central Park West, at 11 o'clock, Sunday Morning. His subject will be, "John Brown From an Ethical Point of View."

A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against Heinrich S. Heittner, manufacturer of skirts at 67 Greene Street by three creditors. Liabilities are put at $3,500 and assets, $500. He was in a drygoods business in Roumania for fifteen years, in Los Angeles, Cal., two years, and began in this city on December last.

Edith Catherine Poole's appeal from an order for her examination before the trial of her $25,000 breach of promise suit against Gaston Bullock Means was denied yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Means made an affidavit in which he said that Miss Pool had confessed misconduct and that she indulged to excess in intoxicating liquors. He wishes to examine her on these points.

To raise funds for a Summer military camp the First Separate Company, a volunteer military organization supported by its members, will hold a reception and ball this evening at Majestic Hall, 125 East 125th Street.

Dr. J. H. MacDonald, editor of The Toronto Globe, will be the principal speaker at the opening rally of the Evangelistic Committee of New York City at Carnegie Hall on Tuesday, May 2.

An entertainment and ball for the benefit of the Bronx Branch of the Widowed Mothers' Fund Association will be held this evening at Niblo's Garden, Third Avenue and 170th Street.

The Old Guard Association of the Twelfth Regiment will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its departure from this city for the civil war with a reunion and banquet at Rector's on April 21.

Laymen will speak at the noon day prayer meeting of the Collegiate Church every week day except Saturday next week. A cordial invitation to all business men is extended by Supt. F. H. Jacobs.

Let Folks Think You Made It

When you serve Van Camp's Spaghetti, let people think for a time that you made it. Hear what they have to say.

It's a wonderful recipe. It took us two years to perfect it.

We consider the secret so priceless that we never have written it down.

There may be folks at your table who have eaten spaghetti in Rome.

Women may come there who pride themselves on this dish.

But all will agree that never before was there any spaghetti like this.

There are 17 ingredients used in it, each the finest of its kind. The main ones among them are these:

Herkimer County full cream cheese.
Best creamery butter.
The same superlative tomato sauce we use in Van Camp's Pork & Beans.

The art lies in blending them. The delight comes through the harmony of taste.

The dish comes to you ready-cooked from the grocer. Simply heat it or bake it, as you like it best.

Here's something, Madam, which you can't afford to miss. And please don't wait. Try it while the dish is new.

BATTLING HURLEY DEFEATS CY SMITH

Passaic Boy Again the Master of Hoboken Boxer in Whirlwind A. C. Bout.

Battling Hurley of Passaic and Cy Smith of Hoboken, two of the hardest hitters in the lightweight division, went ten fast and exciting rounds at the Whirlwind A. C. in Brooklyn last night, and the result was the same as in the previous encounters between these boys—a victory for Hurley. The Passaic boy earned the honors in practically every round, but he had no chance to let up in his work, as Smith took all the punishment without backing up, and then came back for more. There were no knockdowns and neither contestant was at any time in a weakened condition in spite of the grueling battle. Each boxer's face bore a few cuts and bruises at the finish.

For the first minute only light blows were struck and neither had any advantage. After getting warmed up the pair furnished plenty of action. Hurley had a good eye for distance and jabbed repeatedly with his left. In the open fighting Hurley led, and he also had the advantage in several moments of fast infighting.

Smith rushed from his corner at the sound of the bell in the second round and put Hurley to the ropes with a left as soon as the latter stood up. They figured in several more of their usual sessions, slugging while standing toe to toe, and Hurley had the better of the going. He worked a good left uppercut to Smith's jaw and also pounded both hands to Smith's stomach in the clinches. Smith also got over some terrific wallops, but Hurley earned the round.

Smith started the third round with another rush which Hurley managed to escape. The boys went from one clinch into another, few blows being struck in open fighting. Hurley continued to lead in the clinches, but Smith got over three right swings which rocked Hurley. When they went to their corners Smith's face was cut and Hurley's left eye was badly swollen.

Hurley worked a left jab effectively in the fourth round, and landed frequently as Smith rushed in without getting a return. Smith rushed Hurley to the ropes several times, but again took second honors in the infighting. The round was full of action, and the honors went to Hurley. Smith's face was bleeding profusely from the cut over his left eye.

The two went from one clinch to another in the fifth round and Hurley showed to better advantage in this session than in any that had gone before. He had Smith holding on twice after taking dozens of hard jabs to the stomach and head. There was no open fighting during the round. Smith did very little punching in this round.

The fastest work of the bout came just before the bell sounded in the sixth round. The two stood toe-to-toe with their heads down and punched away at each other's stomach fast as their hands could operate. Hurley was again the leader, landing most of the hard blows, and showing much better judgment in his work.

Both seemed tired from the strenuous work during the greater part of the seventh round. They did little more than clinch and puff. In the latter part of the round they settled down to their slugging again, and both handed out some hard wallops just before the bell rang. Hurley again did the better work.

The eighth round was one session of continual slugging, with Hurley still leading, but taking plenty of hard wallops for the sake of getting some over. Hurley had Smith against the ropes when the bell sounded.

The ninth round was of the same order, and they landed a few blows after the bell rang. Referee Lewis stopped Smith as he made a rush for Hurley after the bell.

The tenth round was another slugging session, Smith doing the bulk of the effective work. They both were strong at the finish and fighting hard.

The semi-final bout, which was scheduled for six rounds, with Sailor Davis and Terry Mitchell as opponents, was stopped by Referee Lewis in the fifth round, after Mitchell had been floored with a right swing to the jaw. Davis had the better of the first round, in which he put Mitchell down, but the latter showed strongly in the succeeding rounds, and was still going strong when he received the punch which ended the bout. Davis and his seconds declared that he was simply waiting for the full count, which was not given, and many of the spectators joined in the protest, but the boys were not allowed to continue.

In the second preliminary, which went four rounds, Billy Jones outpointed Young Honney, and in the opening preliminary Walter Nelson and Terry Edwards went four rounds to a draw.

BIG CROWD AT NEW POLO A. A.

Eddie Kelly Defeats Kid Rose in Ten Rounds—McCormick Knocked Out.

With every inch of floor space being taken up by about 1,600 members, the New Polo A. A. staged an all-star card of boxing contests with two ten-round contests as the chief attraction. The stellar attraction was beween Kid Rose and Eddie Kelly of the 122-pound division, but Kelly, by superior ring generalship, easily proved the master of Rose, who was a rugged and hard hitting youngster. The bout from beginning to end was a hummer, and although Kelly mastered the situation easily, Rose took his medicine in good nature, but was inclined to cover up too much, which was the only bad feature of the entire ten rounds.

The semi-final, which was also scheduled for ten rounds, ended in the third with a knockout for Frankie Fleming, the champion banntam of Canada, over Jack McCormick, formerly an amateur who carried off the honors at one of the amateur tournaments at the Irish-American Athletic Club and the New Polo Athletic Association.

Denning Wins at Prestone A. C.

Jack Denning defeated Joe West last night at the Prestone A. C. before one of the largest turnouts since the inception of the organization. From the second round on Denning had all the better of the mill, and in the seventh round had his man hanging on the ropes. Toward the end of the tenth Denning all but put his man out with a volley of rights and lefts, which had West in a bad way.

Another Victory for McFarland.

RACINE, Wis., April 7.—Packey McFarland won from Morris Bloom in the eighth round of a ten-round fight to-night.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

The Brighton Beach Athletic Club of Coney Island will put on its big benefit for the Washington Place fire sufferers at its clubhouse, Johnstown Flood Building, Surf Avenue and West Seventeenth Street, to-night. Matchmaker Jim McDonald has arranged several wrestling exhibitions and over sixty rounds of boxing, which includes some of the prominent figures of pugilism who will lend their help to such a worthy cause. The business men of Coney Island who are members of the club have been working hard to make this one of the best affairs ever staged at Coney Island for charity. Owing to the great amount of talent, the entertainment will start at 8 o'clock. Among the prominent boxers who will appear are the following: "Knockout" Brown vs. Adam Brown, Leach Cross vs. Phil Cross, Harry Stone vs. "Bull" Anderson, Eddie Powers vs. Young O'Leary, Frankie Williams vs. "Darky" Griffin, Young Goldman vs. Dave Dillon, Ray Bliss vs. Young Hack. Professor "Fatty" Lantry, former sparring partner of John L. Sullivan, will make his first appearance in the ring in twenty years.

Manager McMahon of the Olympic Athletic Club has arranged a series of international bouts for next Monday night. The main event will be a ten-round contest between Jeff Perry, known as the "Walloping Welshman," and Benny Franklin of Harlem. Perry was formerly sparring partner for Owen Moran, and made a good showing on the coast. He defeated Frankie Smith and Johnny McCarthy and gained a decision over California Frankie Burns. Sammy Keller, the English bantam, will box ten rounds with Willie Jones, and Joe Shears of England and Joe Bell of Jersey City will furnish the six-round preliminary.

The weekly stag at the Sharkey Athletic Club to-night will bring out a number of fast amateurs and novices. The main bout will be a ten-round affair between fast lightweights. The semi-final will be a six-round contest, and there will be several four-round bouts. Among the boxers who will take part are Jack Sayless, Young Murphy, Young Michaels, Johnny Daly, Pat Lynch, Young Robbins, Kid Thomas, Kid Lange, Young Williams, and Johnny Lore.

One of the best week-end cards that Matchmaker Billy Neumann has arranged for the Longacre Athletic Club members will be held to-night, when the winners of the last two try-out nights will be matched with the following boys: Young Stanley, Young Rector, Bobby Devigne, Leo Jacobs, Jack Williams, Charley Markus, Young Johnny Gorman, Frankie Richards, Marty Mulvhill, Eddie Schaefer, and Charley Hepburn. As an added attraction Johnny Mack, the promising young west side featherweight, will box Johnny Fray.

Johnny Marto and Jack Dohan have been signed for a ten-round bout at the Whirlwind A. C. on April 13.

Tony Caponi, the Italian middleweight, who was quite prominent in ring affairs a few years ago, has come out with a challenge to either Hugo Kelly or Cyclone Johnny Thompson. Caponi offers to let his opponent name all the terms and says he will weigh 158 pounds at whatever time Kelly or Thompson desires. Caponi fights Jack at Winnipeg on April 15.

Matchmaker Tom O'Rourke of the National Sporting Club has wired Hugo Kelly concerning a bout before the local club on April 20. Kelly has agreed to come here, but stipulates that his opponent shall be neither Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis middleweight, nor Frank Klaus. He bars these two, as he says he has already signed for matches with both. Cyclone Johnny Thompson may be the man engaged. Promoters from both the West and South are working hard to get this match, but so far have had little success.

Bob Moha, the Western welterweight, is the latest to come out with a challenge to Cyclone Johnny Thompson, who seems to be more in demand now than any other man in the game. Moha says he is willing to concede ten or fifteen pounds to the Sycamore boy if the latter will agree to take him on.

Danny Goodman, the Chicago lightweight, who has been very active in the fight game during the past few months, has been forced to cancel several engagements owing to an operation on his nose.

Joe Jeannette did not accompany Dan McKetrick and Willie Lewis to Paris when they sailed a few days ago. Jeannette says that nothing except a forty-five-round bout or a fight to a finish with Langford or McVey will tempt him to cross the sea. Jeannette gained a decision over McVey in forty-nine rounds on a foul and later fought a thirty-round draw with him.

Jim Barry is more than anxious for a bout with Carl Morris of Sapulpa, but Carl's backers refuse to let him go against a man of Barry's calibre until he has had more experience. Barry has posted a forfeit of $1,000 with a bank in Tulsa, Okla., and offers to give that amount to Morris if he cannot put him away in fifteen rounds.

Jack Dorman, the Bronx lightweight, and Tommy Maloney are both ready for their ten-round bout at the Fairmont Club to-night. Dorman has fought nearly all of the leading lightweights and has been successful in a majority of his contests. Maloney has been coming around nicely in all of his recent bouts and many of his admirers from the west side say that he has an excellent chance with the top-notchers. There will be four six-round bouts as follows: Frankie Adams vs. Jimmy Smith; Kid Elle vs. George McDonald; Eddie Brown vs. Young McDonough, and Artie McGovern vs. Young Edwards.

GOSSIP FOR THE GOLFERS.

Among the golfers, who play regularly over the links of the Forest Hill Field Club, are a few genial individuals, who have banded together in a little circle of their own, known as "Clan Angora." As may be gathered from the title, the object of this society is to promote a form of goat contests, rapidly becoming popular at a number of the nearby clubs. The Forest Hill goats, under Clan Angora rules, play pretty much along the usual lines; that is, a draw is made for the first round, and after a member loses his goat he has the privilege of challenging any goat holder. In the event of the challenger losing, however, he must, in accordance with one of the rules of the order, deposit $1.50 in the "kitty." At the end of the season the member with the greatest number of goats will be suitable rewarded. With a view to letting everyone have an equal chance, the Clan Angora contests are conducted on a handicap basis. Harry Vance is the historian of the clan, and it is his duty to look after the handicapping. The mode of procedure of joining is quite formidable, and rumor has it that several new goats managed to go through the degree the other night after a stormy session.

In the opinion of Garden Smith, the well-known foreign critic, the "annexation" of Canada by the Western Gold Association is a matter rather of regret than otherwise. What makes the affair worse, he says, is that apparently the movement originated, not in the United States, but in Canada itself. The St. Charles Country Club of Winnipeg, requested the Western Golf Association to admit it to membership, and at the annual meeting of the association Canada was added to the territory of the association, and the St. Charles Club was elected to membership. Following this the Lambton Golf and Country Club of Toronto has, at the instigation of George S. Lyon, one of its members, also made application for membership of the association, and is no doubt by this time duly elected.

Despite the chilly weather most of the courses in the metropolitan district are improving rapidly, and the golfers may be found limbering up in anticipation of an early competitive season. The regular Summer course of the Fox Hills Golf Club was placed in commission Saturday, and the Green Committee states that from now on Saturday competitions will be held as usual. The Garden City 18-hole circuit is almost in normal condition, while over in Jersey the Baltusrol and Montclair links have improved so rapidly during the last two weeks that early openings of the Summer greens are promised in both places.

According to late advices there seems to be little likelihood of that famous quartet of foreign professionals: Braid, Vardon, Taylor, and Duncan—visiting America during the coming season. James Donaldson of Glen View, whose name was coupled with that of Stewart Gardner in the Chicago dispatches, concerning the probable visit of the "big four," has written to a friend that he has not discussed the matter since returning to Chicago. He adds that there is no foundation for the story, and furthermore, states that it would not be worth while for the foreign stars to come here.

When the Yale golf team takes the links next Fall it will have to do without the services of four of its best players, who will have graduated at the present term. But even so, the blue has by no means given up hope of retaining its supremacy in intercollegiate circles. Those who will be among the missing when the collegians gather for the annual tournament at Baltusrol in September are Robert Hunter, the intercollegiate champion; Harry Legg, the Trans-Mississippi title-holder; B. P. Merriman, twice champion of Connecticut, and Karl K. Mosser. On the other hand, Robert Gardner, the 1909 national champion, is still available. He is the Yale Captain now and will be able to call upon such good players as C. G. Waldo, Jr., Stanley, Dunlap, and Steiner. So far as the Spring outlook is concerned matters appear bright enough and Gardner hopes to see the Blue as successful as ever. Waldo, who belongs to the Brooklawn Country Club is one of the most promising of the new men. He made an excellent showing in the Connecticut tournament last Summer. Yale has matches scheduled with Harvard, Princeton, Williams, and the New Haven Country Club. Class contests will also be in order shortly. The Yale golfers also expect to derive inspiration as well as instruction from Robert Andrew, the Prestwick man, who is shortly to take up his duties as professional at the New Haven Country Club. As an amateur on the other side Andrew has for several years been regarded as one of the best.

FENCERS COMPETE WITH TWO WEAPONS

New York A.C. and Fencers' Club Men Work Into Semi-Finals for Championship Honors.

The preliminary bouts for the National championships at foils and dueling swords were disposed of last night at the Fencers' Club, with representatives of the New York A. C. and the Fencers' Club leading easily in the contests for positions in the semi-final rounds, scheduled for May 5 and 6 at the New York Athletic Club.

In the foils, George M. Breed and Sherman Hall of the Fencers' Club and Dr. J. E. Gignoux and V. P. Curti, New York A. C., were the successful aspirants, while Curti and Breed proved the victors in the dueling swords.

The contestants in the various events were as follows, with the addition of the sabre entries, competition in which event is to be decided to-night:

Foil Entries—Fencers' Club—George H. Breed, Dr. D. W. Cairns, A. J. Eddy, P. J. Meylan, and Sherman Hall. New York Athletic A. C.—Dr. J. E. Gignoux, V. P. Curti. Italian Fencing Club—G. T. Conti.

Sabre Entries—Fencers' Club.—A. V. Z. Post, E. B. Meyers. New York A. C.—C. A. Bill and August G. Anderson. New York City.—Mario Busto.

Dueling Sword Entries—Fencers' Club.—E. B. Meyers, George H. Breed, P. J. Meylan. New York A. C.—V. P. Curti.

The tournament was well under way, three bouts having been decided on the first strip, in which Breed, Meylan, and Gignoux had each won a bout, when, long after the time allotted for a start, G. T. Conti of the Italian Fencing Club appeared on the scene, and finally worked himself into the competition, thus nullifying the previous bouts, and causing a restart.

His entry proved unavailing as far as success was concerned, as he managed to lose every bout he engaged in, aside from rousing a lot of contention as to costume, &c., Dr. Graeme Hammond disqualifying him for not having complied with the rules in that respect. Through his having gone half way through the trials, however, Dr. Hammond rescinded his order and permitted Conti to continue. The only bout in which Conti put up any semblance of a contest was with Breed, in which the latter, having four points to nothing, eventually got home by 7 points to 4.

The dueling swords event was short and quickly decided. Meyers and Curti each lost to the other with a double touch.

In the sabres will be seen Mario Busto, a member of the Merito of the Royal Fencing Society of Madrid, of whom great things are said. The summary:

Foils.—First strip—Gignoux defeated Meylan 6 points to 5, after a tie at 4 all; Breed defeated Conti 7 points to 4; Breed defeated Gignoux, 9 points to 2; Meylan defeated Conti, 5 points to 4; Breed defeated Meylan, 5 points to 4. Gignoux defeated Conti, 15 points to 10. Breed and Gignoux qualified for semi-finals to-night.

Foils.—Second strip—Curti defeated Eddy, 10 points to 6; Curti defeated Cairns, 11 points to 8; Hall defeated Cairns 10 points to 5; Hall defeated Eddy, 20 points to 9. Curti and Hall qualified for semi-finals to-night.

Dueling Swords.—Breed defeated Meyers; Curti defeated Meylan; Curti lost to Meyers; Meyers lost to Curti; Breed defeated Meylan; Curti defeated Breed.

Harvard Fencers Win Honors.

BOSTON, Mass., April 7.—New England fencing championship honors went to members of the Harvard Fencing Club in the bouts at the Boston Athletic Association last night, two of three events being won by Harvard. J. A. MacLaughlin of Harvard won in foils; C. A. Bliss, also of Harvard, won in duelling swords, and Dr. E. Breck of the Boston Athletic Association won in sabres. The three winners are eligible to enter the National championships in New York next month.

McConnell Wins at 18.2 Balkline.

In last night's game of the Class B, amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament at Doyle's Forty-second Street Billiard Academy, F. M. McConnell defeated George Rosenthal by the score of 100 to 95. The winner made the high run of 12. The contestants in to-night's game will be Dr. Hammil and Charles Munzesheimer.

Beck Defeats Enright with Cue.

M. T. Beck defeated Robert Enright in last night's game of the Harlem Class A amateur three-cushion carrom billiard tournament at the Riverside Billiard Academy, 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, by the score of 15 to 13. The contest required twenty-eight innings and was marked by close playing throughout.

ANOTHER OKLAHOMA HOPE.

Ray L. Lange, Rhodes Scholar, Is Cutting Athletic Swath at Oxford.

Aside from the interest displayed in the fistic progress of Carl Morris, the Oklahoma "white hope," citizens of the new State now have their attention centred on Ray L. Lange, Oklahoma's Rhodes scholar at Oxford, who has been doing almost as much to keep Oklahoma in the limelight as the husky Sapulpan. Lange has been making his presence felt in athletic circles at the historic English university, and bids fair to soon be hailed as the best all-around athlete in England.

Lange, at the recent Oxford-London Athletic Club games, won the 100-yard dash in "evens," the best performance credited to a collegian in years, and showed marked ability at the quarter and the broad jump. In the Oxford-Cambridge sports, however, he was said to have been a bit fine, with the result that he was beaten a half yard by McMillan of Cambridge in ten seconds flat.

Lange hails from Enid, and had been in Oklahoma for seven years prior to leaving to take up his studies at Oxford. He participated in the various sports at Kingfisher College for six years, playing in every football game for his college during those years. For the last three years he was the all-State "half." In addition to this he holds several State records for track events, and the Mississippi Valley record for the one mile run, thus showing his athletic versatility. He paid his way through college by doing newspaper work.

Last year he was director of athletics of Enid High School, the football and basket ball teams, of which won the State championship. He also coached the school debating team, which won the State honors.

He received his appointment to Oxford last year and began to take part in the track games almost immediately. He soon showed marked ability in this field, and was not long in earning a place on the 'Varsity team. He writes that the rules by which the contests are governed are somewhat of a handicap to him, but he thinks that as soon as he has become accustomed to the conditions he will achieve the all-around mark for which he aspires.

Spring Games at N. Y. U.

The annual Spring games were held at New York University yesterday under unfavorable conditions. Due to the recent rains, the track was very heavy and, consequently, poor time was made. Silver cups were awarded to winners of first places, and no 'Varsity track man was allowed to compete in more than one event. The summaries:

100-Yard Dash.—Won by Shapiro; Zimmerle, second; Macauley, third. Time—0:11 2-5.

300-Yard Dash.—Won by Golden; McClurg, second; Stevens, third. Time—0:37 2-5.

880-Yard Run.—Won by Merritt; Lawrence, second; Van Cleef, third. Time—2:27.

One-Mile Run.—Won by Thorne; MacAdam, second. Time—5:16.

Running High Jump.—Won by Remsen, 5 feet; White, 4 feet 11 inches, second.

Shot-Put.—Won by McLaughlin, 34 feet 10 inches; Gaebaelein, 34 feet 1 inch, second; Henneyberger, 31 feet 2 inches, third.

The Inter-Settlement Athletic Association, consisting of twelve settlements in the Borough of Manhattan, chief of which are the East Side House, Clark House, Gordon House, Christ Church House, Hudson Guild, Henry Street Settlement, College Settlement, Union Settlement, and Hartley House, will meet at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory to-night in their annual indoor competition. There are about 500 entries, and there will be between 300 and 400 competitors. Former athletes of the inter-settlement games are Edwards, N. Y. A. C.; Peppis, Irish A. C., and Gregory, now in the Seventy-first Regiment.

Fourteenth Regiment Games To-night.

The three special events at the annual Spring games of the Fourteenth Regiment at the Armory, Fourteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, to-night are well filled. The two and five mile bicycle races have such sterling performers as Walter Raleigh, Van Den Dries, Townsend, Goodwin, Carl Nerent, Fisher, Mormon, and others. The Central Y. M. C. A. with Terwilliger and Valentine as members of the team rule favorites over the runners of McCaddin Lyceum, Knights of St. Antony, Loughlin Lyceum, National A. C., and several other fast combinations for the mile championship of Brooklyn. Mike Spring, athletic trainer, reports a heavy entry list for the events closed to the Fourteenth Regiment athletes.

Morrell, Judge at Grand Prix.

Robert Lee Morrell of the Automobile Club of America has accepted the invitation to be one of the judges in the French Grand Prix automobile race and represent the United States in that event. Mr. Morrell's record in the Grand Prize at Savannah and other important races is an evidence of his qualifications for the French race.

KITE FLIES 8,000 FEET.

Fred Steininger Wins Distance Prize in Public School 77 Contests.

The third annual kite-flying contest of Public School 77, the only contest of its kind held in the United States and patterned from the annual kite flying of the Chinese on the hills of Foochan, was held yesterday afternoon at Astoria Field, opposite the East Ninety-second Street Ferry, and proved far more successful than either of the previous events. The flying began at 2:30 o'clock and lasted more than two hours. A large number of adults mingled with the several hundred school children in viewing the contest from the field.

All entrants were numbered at the start, and it was found that 201 boys were on hand with kites. Of this number about 50 came to grief early, their kites being broken during the starting process. About 150 kites were in the air at the same time, and the collection made a pretty sight. A stiff northwest wind proved just what was needed for such a contest, and the boys had a busy time keeping the kites under control after they were fairly started. Thirty-five different varieties, ranging from the small paper-covered cross, the common and most popular kind, to a British war kite, which was eight feet high and four feet in width, figured in the competition.

Five prizes were awarded, two for distance, two for construction, and one for pull. Fred Steininger won the prize for the greatest distance, his kite traveling approximately 8,000 feet. Clarence Dilg, whose kite reached a height of 3,500 feet, won the prize for altitude. Henry Diehl, whose kite represented a billiken, was given the award for the most unique constructed, and Victor Ely got the award for the best constructed kite. The strongest pull was 16 pounds, and the prize for this feature went to Eugene Levinsky. An unofficial pull of 24 pounds was recorded after the competition closed. The contest was opened and closed by bugle call, and all orders while the kites were flying were given in the same manner. Arthur Scheu, a student at the school, was the bugler. The contest was under the direction of A. E. Horn, head of the Science Department at the school. It is planned to hold another event of this kind in about two months.

Eastern Boats in Western Races.

PEORIA, Ill., April 7.—Frederick K. Burnham of New York, present holder of the Harmsworth Cup and owner of the new Dixie III., W. F. Harris of Newark, N. J., and Albert E. Smith of New York City have entered their boats in the third annual regatta of the Western Power Boat Association, which will be held at Peoria, July 25 and 26. Winners at the Peoria regatta will attempt to defend the Harmsworth Cup against the British challenger at the Larchmont, L. I., races in September.

Vita Wins Motor Boat Cup.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., April 7.—J. Stuart Blackton, Rear Commodore of the Motor Boat Club of America, this morning won the Southern motor boat Championship Cup with the speed boat Vita of New York.

West Point Cancels Lacrosse Games.

The lacrosse manager of the West Point Military Academy team has notified all teams having games booked with West Point that they are canceled. This action is on account of the fact that the authorities at the Academy will not allow the cadets to have a lacrosse team this Spring. A change in the schedule of the Stevens Institute team has therefore been made necessary. Harvard, scheduled to play West Point on Saturday, April 22, will now play Stevens at Hoboken on that day. Stevens was scheduled to play the Military Academy team on April 15, and for this date the Hoboken engineers have engaged the Hoboken Lacrosse Club. To-day the lacrosse team of Stevens Institute will travel to Bay Ridge, to play the twelve of the Crescent Athletic Club.

Cornell Lacrosse Team Loses.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—The Cornell lacrosse team was defeated by Mount Washington here to-day, 3 to 2. Cornell played a clever game, and Mount Washington's 3 goals were not scored until within eight minutes of the close of the game.

Ten-Mile Handicap Bike Race.

Entry blanks are out for the ten-mile open handicap road race, to be held at Floral Park, Long Island, on Sunday, April 16, by the Eastern Division of the Century Road Club Association. The course will be from Floral Park to Westbury and return, which, besides being newly macadamized, is a very fast course. This will prove a boon to the scratch riders in their attempt to break the record for this distance, as a special prize will be awarded to the rider breaking the record, such riders as Joseph Kopsky, holder of the American record for 100 miles unpaced and in competition, and Joseph Perlenbach, one of the best riders at the ten mile distance, have entered and will ride. There will be a prize for every rider finishing within the limited time, as the prize list consists of thirty valuable prizes. Entries close April 10, with George Bleszegel, 417 West 114th Street, New York City.

Yale and Columbia in Soccer.

With the match against Yale at South Field this afternoon, Columbia University's soccer team will complete its schedule of intercollegiate championship matches. A victory will be necessary to give the Blue and White a bare chance to retain its championship honors, as Haverford and Harvard are both bidding high for the place of honor. Harvard, who defeated Columbia a week ago, has the inside track, not having drawn any games. Haverford, with the same record of matches won and lost, leads Columbia in total points to date. Haverford has one more and Harvard two more matches to play.

Walter Woodward, well known among the soccer players of Toronto, has been signed by Yale to coach the association football squad, which numbers about forty.

At Edison Field this afternoon the Crescent Athletic Club eleven will be opposed by the National League team of the Brooklyn Football Club in the semi-final round of the contest for the Amateur Cup, now held by the Brooklyns.

Make believe a friend with wonderful taste and judgment has just come from Scotland.

The very clothes he would have selected are now made up in suits to your measure.

Ready in our stores to-day.

Suits of imported Scotch cheviots, besides many which seem to smack of the "Bonnie Braes," but frankly have never crossed blue water.

Men's Spring overcoats from fabrics of the same attractive character.

With their usual foresight the ladies are providing for the Summer wants of the part of the family for which they shop.

So we're ready with everything boys need, not only for Easter and the next few weeks, but for all Summer too.

Vacation outfits can be chosen along with the boy's Spring clothes, and a later trip saved.

GIANTS' SPRING TRIP ENDS WITH VICTORY

Trailing Behind Baltimore, They Wallop Oriole Pitcher in the Eighth Inning and Win.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 7.—The Giants completed their Spring training trip this afternoon by giving the Orioles a beating that was as decisive as it was unexpected. Obtaining a lead of one run in the second inning, the Giants were soon trailing behind. For seven innings Jimmy Dygert, a former member of the Philadelphia Athletics, pitched masterly ball. But in the eighth inning he went to pieces, and before the storm had blown over the Giants had pounded his delivery for seven runs, bringing their total up to nine against four runs amassed by the local Eastern Leaguers.

Dygert's downfall was as complete as it was sudden. He had given a slight warning of impending disaster in the preceding inning, when he coupled two bases on balls with a two-base hit, but when little Josh Devore opened the eighth round with a weak pop fly to Third Baseman Sadofsky, it looked as though he had pulled himself together. But following that start he issued a pass to Doyle. Then Becker and Murray tore off long singles to right and left fields respectively, filling the bases. Merkle, who had previously fanned three times, slammed a hot one down to Shortstop Maisel, who very accommodatingly booted it all over the infield, while Doyle scored. Another pass to Bridwell forced Becker over the plate with the tying run. Arthur Fletcher's infield tap went for a hit and scored Murray, leaving the bases still crowded.

They weren't crowded long, for Arthur Wilson, who had put the Giants in the running with a double in the seventh inning, drove a triple far over Cy Seymour's head, which sent Merkle, Bridwell, and Fletcher scampering over the plate. Raymond fanned, but Josh Devore beat out a perfect bunt, Wilson scoring the seventh run of the inning.

Up to that inning the Giants had never failed to get men on the bases, but almost invariably failed in batting when a hit would have meant a run. The Orioles had fewer chances to score, but took a lot better advantage of them.

Jack Murray, whose heavy hitting has been one of the sensations of the trip, started the scoring with a home run drive to deep centre field in the second inning. That tally kept the Giants in front until Leon Ames "blew" in the fourth inning. After fanning Heftmuller, another ex-Athletic, Ames gave Walsh a triple to the right-field fence. Schmidt's hit to centre scored Walsh. Sadofsky sent Schmidt around to third with another hit to right, but he was held up at the plate on Egan's tap to the box. Dygert put the Orioles in front with a double to right, Sadofsky and Egan both denting the pan.

Ames came back stronger in the fifth inning, and there was no more scoring off him. Raymond, who succeeded Ames, was steadier. Had he contented himself with playing for the batters, he would have held the Orioles runless in the four innings he worked, for he had everything. But in the seventh inning he made the mistake of trying to catch Maisel off first base, and threw to the grand stand in the attempt. Rath's hit sent the shortstop to third base, from whence he scored on Cy Seymour's infield out. The score:

GIANTS ARE HOME AGAIN.

Will Open Season of 1911 with Yale at Polo Grounds To-day.

The first squad of the Giants arrived home from the Southern training trip at midnight last night, and a dozen other players, who waited for a late train out of Baltimore, will arrive in the city this morning. Manager McGraw was with the crowd that got back last night, and reports all the men in fine shape. The physical condition of the veterans is believed to be better than in former years, and they will start the season at home under favorable circumstances in this respect.

The Giants will open the season at the Polo Grounds to-day with the Yale team, as in former years. The New Haven collegians, coached by Billy Lush, are stronger than last year, and the coach said last night that he expected Yale to make the best showing in years against the Giants. The Yale team is led by "Pop" Corey, who plays in right field. Freeman will start the game in the box for Yale. Joe Stevens, son of Harry Stevens, who plays left field for Yale, will probably not be in the line-up to-day, because he has contracted a case of pink eye, which will keep him out of the game for a while. Sixteen players are in the Yale squad which came down from New Haven last night.

BROOKLYN CLUB RETURNS.

Bill Dahlen Brings Home a Tired Squad After a Disappointing Trip.

Manager Bill Dahlen and his big squad of Brooklyn players arrived in Brooklyn yesterday morning from Lynchburg, Va. The Dodgers had a bad trip. Rain, wet grounds, and railroad wrecks caused numerous postponements and all sorts of inconveniences. Although there are no cripples in the squad, the men are tired out after the Southern trip and need a rest. There was no game between the first and second teams yesterday afternoon at Washington Park, because the trunks with the uniforms and bats has been held up by a railroad wreck in the South. The squad will be divided and a game will be played this afternoon.

Manager Dahlen would say little about the team. "We had a bad trip," he said, "but the boys stood it nobly. I think we have a stronger and faster team than last season."

Harry Lejeune, one of the recruits who was injured in an automobile accident, was left behind in the hospital at Knoxville, Va. Bill Davidson is the only member of the squad missing, and he is expected to report in a day or two. Bill Bergen and John Hummell both reported at Washington Park yesterday and practiced for an hour.

To-morrow one squad of the Brooklyns will play in Newark, and the other squad will play against the Loughlin Lyceum team at Loughlin Oval in Brooklyn. The team will go to Boston on Monday night and play with Lawrence of the New England League on Tuesday. On Wednesday the team will open the league season against Fred Tenny's team in Boston.

Vermont Defeats Manhattan.

In a game marred by slow fielding and wild throwing, due largely to the wet grounds, the Manhattan College team was defeated by the University of Vermont team at Olympic Field yesterday afternoon by the score fo 11 to 4. Hanley for Manhattan was wild and gave way to Thompson in the fifth inning. Stocker pitched excellent ball for Manhattan in the short time he was in the box. The Manhattan College team plays the Yankees Tuesday at the American League Park. To-day they play the South Orange Field Club at South Orange. The score:

Cobb Bluffs Cincinnati Pitcher.

CINCINNATI, April 7.—Detroit's American League team had no trouble defeating Cincinnati Nationals to-day. The game was practicly settled in the fourth inning, when Ty Cobb by a "blufff" to steal home, coaxed Fromme into a wild pitch, allowing both Cobb and Crawford to count. The score:

										R.	H.	E.

FARRELL'S YANKLETS WIN IN JERSEY CITY

Show Speed and Aggressiveness in Game with Eastern League Team.

The rain, which has soaked New Jersey for the past fey days, ceased yesterday, to permit the New York Americans' second team to defeat the Jersey City team of the Eastern League, at the West Side Park, by a score of 10 to 9. The only members of last year's squad who played with the Yankees were Warhop, Roach, and Gardner. The others were youths with ambitions and hopes. No one in the small crowd which viewed the encounter was worked up to a high pitch of emotion over anything that happened. The honors see-sawed from team to team, New York being more aggressive from start to finish.

New York had the game nailed down by a good margin when, in the last half of the ninth inning, Roach, at shortstop, let Dolan's grounder roll through his hands and feet and two runs were scored, bringing the Skeeters within a run of the Yanklets. Jack Warhop pitched five innings. In the third his service was stripped of its mystery and the pitcher was hammered for four hits which netted three runs. After he had settled down, "Dutch" Revelle of Richmond took up the hurling. He was a bit wobbly at the start, and a pass, two singles, and a triple led suspecting persons to believe that "Dutch" wasn't the "phenom" that the fiction from the training camps promised. Revelle showed, however, that he can pitch, and the Skeeters couldn't touch him after that until in the ninth inning, when Deininger poked out a hot one that almost broke the pitcher's left arm. "King" Brockett then pitched the inning out in short order.

Jube, Roach, and Russell did the best hitting. With Kissinger on the mound Roach and Russell banged out home runs in the fifth inning. Jones took up the pitching duties shortly after that and the Yankee Colts showed no quarter for him in the eighth inning. Three hits, a pass, and a slow bit of fielding by the Skeeter infield gave the New Yorkers four runs and a safe lead.

Benny Kauff, the little outfielder from Parkersburg, West Va., showed a lot of ginger. He's the lad whose father is going to give him a bale of money if he sticks in the big league until June 1. Kauff is small, but is nearly as fast as lightning. He went up into the air after Gettman's line drive in the first inning, and when the youngster came to the bat the first time he chopped off a two-bagger into right field.

The Yankee youngsters displayed plenty of vim and dash in their work yesterday, pulling off three double plays neatly. Most of the new members are small of stature, but have speed in the field and on the bases. They are in charge of "Duke" Farrell, who chirped numerous words of encouragement from the coaching lines. The fact that the second team will be disbanded in a few days and most of the players let out to minor leagues for further seasoning did not dampen the enthusiasm of their playing, for they went at top speed all the time with the exception of the pitchers, who did not want to take the chance of putting on too much speed so early in the year. BASEBALL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Washington is trying a new plan to force Pitcher Walter Johnson to sign a $6,500 contract for this season. Manager McAleer told Johnson in Atlanta early in the week that he must either sign before Thursday evening or he would be shipped back to his home, in Kansas, to remain there until he saw his way clear to accept the salary the Washington Club offered him. Johnson, noted for his speed, control, and backbone, treated McAleer's ultimatum with contempt. Thursday evening McAleer directed the club's Secretary to purchase transportation for Johnson to his home town, and Johnson declared that he would go home and remain there until the Washington Club sent for him. Johnson demands $7,500 for this season's work with the Senators, and his backbone is showing that it is made of no brittle material. Johnson is the chief asset of the Washington Club, and without him it will not need the new concrete and steel stands. He is the drawing power of the club, and as great pitchers don't maintain their greatness many years, Johnson believes that he should gather the honey while there is honey to be gathered. Washington is a second division club, and without Johnson it would be struggling with the Browns to keep out of last place.

Newark feels certain that Jack Dalton will be acquired from the Brooklyn Club. Jack made his National League debut last Summer and got a good start, but did not make a strong finish of the season. Mr. Ebbets probably will let Dalton go to Newark with the privilege of recalling him if he develops into a major leaguer this year.

"Iron Man" McGinnity, who recently had a bone broken in his right wrist while cranking his automobile, declares that he will be able to pitch again the latter part of May, and will participate in his first game of the season on Memorial Day.

Fred Clarke has made the final cut in his Pittsburg squad, and the Pirates will endeavor to regain the National League championship with the following men: Catchers, Gibson, Simon, and Flynn; Pitchers, Phillippe, Leifield, Camnitz, Adams, White, Ferry, Steele, Hendrix, Fagot, Nagle, Gardner, Pressy, and Smith; infielders, Hunter, Miller, Wagner, Byrne, McKechnie, and McCarthy; outfielders, Clarke, Leach, Wilson, and Carey.

Nebraska legislators don't want Sunday baseball. They have killed the Bartling bill, which aimed to legalize the sport on the Sabbath.

There is alarm in Detroit because, it is said, Ty Cobb is not showing his usual speed this Spring. Ty, however, has a habit of raising clouds of dust in the championship season, when there is something at stake.

Cleveland is disappointed in both Knaupp and Olson, candidates for the short field position that Turner once filled excellently, and who is now playing at third base.

Some years ago George Stone of St. Louis, Harry Steinfeldt of Chicago, Bill Bradley of Cleveland, Willie Keeler of New York, and Tim Jordan of Brooklyn would have made a combination in baseball that would have commanded a fortune could one club have purchased them. These one-time stars have all passed to the minor leagues, with no prospect that they ever will return to the big leagues.

The Pennsylvania State League is being formed. There are four cities already represented, including Reading, Pottsville, Shamokin, and Sunbury. It is the plan to select two more cities to complete the circuit from Allentown, Pottstown, Lebanon, Norristown, or Trenton. A meeting of the League will be held April 14, when officers will be elected and the circuit completed.

The B. & B. Circus may have to take a back seat as the big show when the Giants raise their tent next Wednesday.

Washington is not pleased with the assignment of the new umpire, Mullen, at the opening games. Tommy Connolly will be the chief indicator handdler in the series, and the umpiring cannot lack much.

Work is being rushed on the new stands at Suburban Oval, Sixteenth Street and Gravesend Avenue, Brooklyn, in order to have everything in shape for the big double-header scheduled for to-morrow afternoon between the home team and the Brightons and the New York Fire Department. Jack Hennessy, last year's Captain of Brown University, will catch for the Suburbans with Jack Sibley, formerly of the Southern League, on the firing line.

Meyerrose Park, Covert Avenue Elevated Station Ridgewood, will be opened Sunday when the Ridgewoods and Hobokens meet in the first game of the season. This game will be the first of a series of seven which have been arranged by Managers Hussey and Mallen. The Hobokens will be composed of college and minor league players and the Ridgewoods will have to hustle to win. Linemann and Farmer will be in the points for Ridgewood. "Chick" Oldis has signed to umpire again this, and will call the game at 3:30 P. M.

The Lincoln Giants, a fast team of well-known colored players, will play the Waterbury team, champions of the Connecticut League, at Olympic Field Sunday afternoon. Among the former major league players on the Waterbury team are Jack Hoey, formerly of the Boston Red Sox; Tom Tuckey, an ex-pitcher of the Boston Nationals, and Frank McPartlin, formerly of the Eastern League. The Lincoln Giants will have Lloyd, Hill, and Booker of the Leland Giants; White, Bradley, and Buckner of the Royal Giants, and Poles, Francis, and McClellan of the Philadelphia Giants.

Sporting Life's Baseball Schedules for 1911 have made their appearance. They give the at home and abroad championship dates of all the National League and American League clubs, official averages of the players of the two major leagues, group pictures of the sixteen major league teams, as well as the line-up this year, and much other valuable information.

The National Commission has denied the claim of Infield F. Lyle Hilt of Baltimore for back salary from June 15, 1910, to the end of the season. Hilt injured an ankle last year a few days before the season opened, and he was allowed to leave the team and his salary was sent to him until June 15. On that date he was still unable to report, and wrote to Manager Dunn stating that he did not expect to be paid until he was able to report. Later he filed a claim for salary from June 15 to the end of the Western League season.

Union Plays N. Y. U. To-day.

New York University will play Union to-day on Ohio Field. The Union team arrived in town yesterday and held a practice session on New York's field. Although this is their first game this year the up-State team appears to be in good form, and they are confident they will defeat the local nine. There will be dancing in the gymnasium to-morrow evening.

Cubs in Form to Start Season.

CHICAGO, April 7.—The Chicago Nationals returned home last night from their long training journey through the South. Manager Chance declared that his men are in better condition than any team he has handled since the Cubs of 1907. President Murphy announced that Philadelphia had been chosen as the opponents for the Cubs on flag-raising day. The date was not announced, but it probably will be on the first trip of the Phillies to this city.

Baseball and Soccer at Columbia.

South Field will be a busy place this afternoon, both the Columbia baseball team and the soccer eleven being scheduled for games there. The baseball nine plays the Seventh Regiment team, while the soccer players tackle the Yale eleven. The former game will begin at 2 o'clock and the soccer game at 4 o'clock.

Phillies Release Two Pitchers.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—The Philadelphia National League team to-day released Pitchers Schettler and Wilhelm to the Birmingham Club of the Southern League.

Scores of Other Games.

At Cleveland—Cleveland, 4; Toledo, 2.
At St. Louis—Cardinals, 7; Browns, 6.
At St. Joseph, Mo.—Boston Americans, 13; St. Joseph, 0.
At Lexington, Va.—Washington and Lee, 3; Penn State, 2.
At Norfolk, Va.—Norfolk, 17; Altoona, 9.

Mohawk A. C. Scores Most Points.

Frank Masterson, the crack cross-country runner of the Mohawk A. C., scored the most points for his club in the cross-country season of the Morningside Athletic Club, ending March 26. He won every race he entered, carrying the silks of his club on seven different occasions. Harry McGinn of the New York A. C. participated in the race on Oct. 30 and established a record for the four-mile course. His time was 19:16. McGinn's figures stood for three months, but were subsequently broken by Joe Malone, also of the Mohawk Club. Malone's time was 19:13. Oscar M. Nelson, Morningside A. C., won the big sanctioned run held under the auspices of the club on March 26 with a handicap of 1:30. Harry McGinn won the fast time prize in this race. McGinn, starting from scratch, plowed through the field of 250 runners, finishing in twenty-seventh position. His time in this race was 19:18.

Will Prosecute Racetrack Gamblers.

NORFOLK, Va., April 7.—Following a conference with Attorney General S. W. Williams of Virginia and Judge Joseph T. Lawless of the Norfolk County Circuit Court, Commonwealth Attorney R. C. Marshall to-day stated that if he found any violation of the anti-betting law at the Jamestown racetrack he would institute proceedings.

Attorney General Williams denied that he came to Norfolk to investigate the racetrack betting, explaining that he came here to look after the State's interest in litigations regarding the affairs of the Jamestown Exposition Company. He said he had the utmost confidence in the local authorities upholding the State laws at the racetrack.

Goldenberg to Judge Bulldogs.

Samuel L. Goldenberg of Paris, France, will serve as judge at the show of the French Bulldog Club of America, which will hold its annual specialty show in the Sun Parlor of the Hotel Astor April 20. Mr. Goldenberg is recognized as the foremost authority in the world on this breed, having officiated as judge at the most important shows in France, England, and Belgium. The entries for the show will close on Monday with Charles C. Hopton, Broadway and Forty-sixth Street. Over $600 will be distributed as cash prizes as well as numerous valuable specials.

M. A. L. OVERRULES A. A. U. OFFICIALS

Suspends Regimental Athletes Who Competed in Open Events in Buffalo.

Through its disqualification of two athletes of the Seventy-fourth Regiment of Buffalo at a meeting Thursday night convened for action on the case, in combination with other matters, the Military Athletic League is said, by those in close touch with the happenings in the world of track and field, to have encroached upon the territory of the Amateur Aheltic Union, with which it is allied, and have precipitated an athletic war between the two organizations.

According to the articles of alliance existing between the M. A. L. and the A. A. U. each is supposed to recognize any action taken by either in respect to suspensions, disqualifications, and reinstatements of athletes under their respective supervision.

In the case in question Tom Simpson and W. P. Straub, both of the Seventy-fourth Regiment A. A., competed in the open games of the Sixty-fifth Regiment, Buffalo, on Feb. 8, and were promptly suspended by their own association.

The lads appealed to the A. A. U. Commissioner in Buffalo for relief from the suspension, asserting that spite had prompted the action taken against them and that at any rate it was a case for the A. A. U. to handle, as the sports in which they took part were sanctioned by the union, and they had violated no rule of the governing body in their competition.

Edward Reinecke, the Commissioner, investigated the matter, and was informed that the boys had infringed some house rule of the regiment, but could find nothing else over which he had control. As the boys were denied permission to represent the regiment to which they belonged, Reinecke turned the matter over to the Registration Committee of the Metropolitan Association, and the Chairman, Terence Farley, granted the lads permission to compete unattached, as was within his province, according to the rules.

This ruling failed to suit the officials of the Seventy-fourth Regiment, and they took their troubles to the Military Athletic League, which undertook to straighten out the matter to the end of suspending the boys indefinitely.

Among those who passed judgment on the case were Major Turpin, Major Smith, Capts. Cooke, Dieges, P. J. Walsh, and Lieut. Sayles. The session was held at the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment, this city.

It was pointed out to members of the committee that the case was outside of their province to deal with, inasmuch as the event was an open one in which the men competed, and under A. A. U. rules. Certain members of the committee were of the opinion that, because the lads belonged to a regiment aligned with the M. A. L. it was a matter for them to adjudicate.

A close observer of things athletic said yesterday that it looked as though the Seventy-fourth Regiment people, who belong to both the A. A. U. and the M. A. L., were using the latter body to further an athletic war which has been existent in Buffalo for some time past. He further asserted that it was a matter for A. A. U. action only, and that in all likelihood the M. A. L. had not been made acquainted with all the facts of the case before taking action. As it stands, said he, the M. A. L. has certainly gone quite a way toward nullifying the articles of agreement which have existed for some years.

The annual Military Athletic League championships will be held in the armory of the Twenty-second Regiment April 22, with the regular list of events.

BELMONT COLTS BEATEN.

R. T. Wilson's Kittery Wins Sprint Race for Youngsters at Jamestown.

NORFOLK, Va., April 7.—W. P. Austin's Judge Monck won the stake purse at the Jamestown Jockey Club track to-day, beating Sandhill, the favorite, and Montcalm, the second choice in the betting.

In the first race for two-year-olds, R. T. Wilson's Kittery, a 20 to 1 shot, won handily. Tactics and Overman, both from the Belmont stable, were favorites in this race, but Inwood beat them for the place. The attendance to-day was large. The weather was fair and the track fast. Summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds; four furlongs. Kittery, 114 pounds, (Goldstein,) 20 to 1, 6 to 1, and 2 to 1, won; Inwood, 111, (Schattinger,) 15 to 1, 5 to 1, and 8 to 5, second; Overman, 114, (Dugan,) 2 to 3 and out, third. Time—0:50 2-5. Flamma, Rod and Gun, Onrico, Tactics, and Bill Lamb also ran.

SECOND RACE.—Hurdles, for four-year-olds and upward, selling; about one and three-quarter miles. Kebec, 137 pounds, (Dupee,) 5 to 1, even, and 1 to 2, won; Dr. Heard, 134, (Saffell,) 3 to 1, even, and 1 to 2, second; Osage, 137, (Lucas,) 4 to 1, 4 to 5, and 2 to 5, third. Time—3:40. Blackbridge, Jack Baker, and Wood's Lightning also ran.

THIRD RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, selling; one mile. Judge Monck, 91 pounds, (Olsen,) 12 to 1, 3 to 1, and even, won; Vreeland, 117, (Reid,) 5 to 1, 7 to 5, and out, second; Montcalm, (Byrne,) 2 to 1, 3 to 5, and out, third. Time—1:43 3-5. Compton and Sandy Hill also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, selling; six furlongs. Seymour Beutler, 110 pounds, (Reid,) 6 to 5, 1 to 2, and out, won; Servicence, 112, (Warrington,) 3 to 1, even, and 2 to 5, second; Dress Parade II., 115, (Quinlin,) 20 to 1, 12 to 1, and 8 to 1, third. Time—1:16 4-5. Bodkin, Laughing Eyes, Harvey F., Polly Lee, and Clifton also ran.

FIFTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, selling; five and a half furlongs. Baby Wolf, 104 pounds, (Byrne,) 2 to 1, 1 to 2, and out, won; John A. Munro, 112, (Olsen,) 2 to 1, 1 to 2, and out, second; Bendega, 99, (Gaskins,) 8 to 1, 3 to 1, and 6 to 5, third. Time—1:09 3-5. Apologize, Horace E., Bertmont, Paul Jones, and Chief Hayes also ran.

SIXTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, selling; five and a half furlongs. Academist, 94 pounds, (McCahey,) even, 2 to 5, and out, won; L'Appelle, 94, (Edwards,) 6 to 1, 2 to 1, and even, second; O. K. Herndon, 103, (Olsen,) 4 to 1, 7 to 5, and 3 to 5, third. Time—1:11 3-5. Fair Atlanta, Marsh Light, Double F., and Amerique also ran.

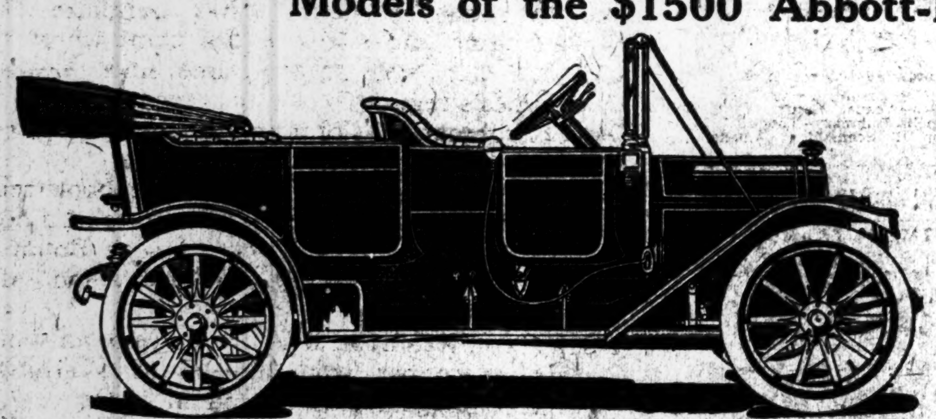
If You Haven't Seen the New 1911
Models of the $1500 Abbott-Detroit



You have not seen the most beautifully finished and perfectly designed car offered to the public to-day.

Bosch Magneto, Full Electric Light Equipment, Included in List Price.

MORE attention has been given to detail of design and refinement of finish in this car than on any car ever put on the market within double its price.

The factory behind the car has unlimited financial resources to take care of its business and its customers. Straight business principles as practiced in recognized commercial lines is their policy.

If a good car—the best ever put on the market for $1500, built by a responsible firm, with a clearly defined policy as to a "square deal" with its agents and customers—appeals to you in your selection of an automobile, you want to know more about the

Abbott-Detroit

But—and understand this fully—never is price economy the chief argument for its wide popularity.

Primarily, the success of the Abbott-Detroit depends upon honesty and intelligence in the selection of material supplemented by the most skillful workmanship which money can procure.

It insists—always—upon the merit of its performance rather than upon the inducement of $3000 worth of car value for $1500.

CHASSIS

RADIATORS—Cellular or honeycomb type, instead of the fin type. The Abbott-Detroit radiator has a somewhat greater radiating surface than radiators in most other cars.
OILING SYSTEM—Constant-level splash, sight feed on dash, oil circulated by gear pump operated on eccentric on cam shaft.
COOLING—Water and centrifugal pump.
IGNITION—[illegible] Bosch magneto, optional.
STEERING GEAR—Worm and full gear, semi-reversible. [illegible] steering wheel. [illegible]
SPRINGS—Front 39 inches long, 2 inches wide, semi-elliptic. Rear 44 inches long, 2 inches wide, three-quarter elliptic.
CONTROL—One pedal clutch and service brake.
WHEEL BASE—112 inches.
GASOLINE CAPACITY—Touring car tank 16.2 gallons, reserve capacity 1.7 gallons. Roadster tank 21 gallons, reserve capacity 2 gallons. Coupe 17 gallons, reserve capacity 2 gallons.
TIRE [illegible]

FIVE DIFFERENT MODELS

Abbott-Detroit Five Passenger Touring Car, at $1500
Abbott-Detroit Fore-Door Touring Five, at $1550
Abbott-Detroit Fore-Door Roadster, at $1500
Abbott-Detroit Coupe, at $2350

The full line is now on view at Abbott-Detroit showrooms and you are invited to [illegible] as drastic a road test as you may desire.

SPRING RECREATION

Everybody loves the sports and recreation of outdoor life, because they give health and strength to the body and furnish most agreeable amusement to the mind. Every man has his favorite pastime and participates in the game or sport which gives him the most pleasure.

It does not matter which game you play or what kind of recreation you like best, whether it is boat racing, horse racing, automobile racing, playing polo, golf or baseball, you will always find a bottle of Ruppert's Knickerbocker the most welcome beverage at them all. It does not only quench the thirst but drives away fatigue and aids the pores in their excremental discharge.

JACOB RUPPERT'S
KNICKERBOCKER BEER

has won PUBLIC FAVORITISM AND PATRONAGE, which is the greatest reward that can be given. There are reasons for this public sentiment and unanimous approval.

Knickerbocker Beer wins because there is no product too good that money can buy that is not used in its malting and brewing, because the brewery is equipped with the most modern machinery and operated by as skillful men as can be found, and because every drop of beer is pasteurized and automatically conveyed from glass tanks to glass bottles untouched by human handling. Perfect brewing—pure beer—perfect bottling. In hotels, cafes and restaurants and by dealers everywhere, and on draught at first class places.

STEAMER CRUSHED BY ICE.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., April 7.—Caught in the great fields of drifting ice in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the steamer Harlaw was crushed to pieces to-day. The 130 men on board escaped over the treacherous ice-jam to St. Paul's Island, where they are being quartered to-night.

As St. Paul's Island is a lonely fishing station about fifteen miles off the northern coast of Cape Breton, fears are entertained that the few inhabitants of the island will be unable to give the seal hunters sufficient food and protection from the cold.

The Government steamers Lady Laurier, stationed at Halifax, and Earl Grey, at Pictou, were dispatched, well supplied with the necessities of life, for the island, to take off the marooned men. Unless serious ice-jams are encountered, it is expected that the steamers will reach St. Paul's Island some time to-morrow.

The Harlaw left St. John's, N. F., March 13, bound on a sealing trip in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

So quickly did the ice surround the vessel that the men heard the grinding of the floe upon her sides before they realized their peril. The iron sides of the steamer began to give way beneath the force of the thousands of tons of ice. Her commander, Capt. Baxter Barbour, ordered all hands to abandon the vessel. With water pouring in on all sides, the crew and the seal hunters clambered over the sides to the ice.

The Harlaw was an iron steamer registering 449 tons net. She was built at Hull, England, in 1888, was 220 feet long, 29 feet beam, and 13 feet deep. The vessel was owned by the Halifax and Newfoundland Steamship Company, Limited, of Halifax.

"BATHTUB" CASE PUT OFF.

Judge Dennison Says Newspaper Comments Make Fair Trial Impossible.

DETROIT, April 7.—The trial of the Government's criminal case against the so-called Bathtub Trust has been postponed from the May to the June term of the Federal Court because of certain newspaper articles to which Judge Dennison took exception. In announcing the postponement Judge Dennison said:

"The newspapers this morning had a report purporting to be given out by the Attorney General's office in Washington which was grossly improper and very clearly in extreme contempt. I think any such publication on the eve of the trial makes a fair trial impossible, and I shall order that case continued over the term. I have requested the Attorney General to ascertain whether any employe or assistant in his office is responsible for giving out such a report, and if so, that he direct that employe to report immediately to this court.

"The publication charges in effect that the present regular panel of this court needed extraordinary watching; that watchers would be furnished; that the court was not competent to take care of its own affairs, and that some of the defendants had offered to plead guilty; of course a scandalously improper thing to be said, even if it is true.

"I do not think the regular panel of jurors could maintain an unprejudiced attitude toward the Government after such accusations as are there contained or directly implied against the jury.

"I am not inclined to blame the papers for the publication, although I think more care should have been exercised in connection with it."

Bomb Throwing in 45th Street Believed Due to Gamblers' War.

An explosion, apparently caused by the throwing of a bomb under the stone stoop of 131 West Forty-fifth Street early yesterday morning, aroused the inhabitants of Times Square and vicinity a few hours earlier than usual, and brought thousands of frightened hotel guests to the windows and into the hallways. No one was injured, but the force of the explosion was sufficient to break in two stormdoors and shatter many windows.

The house in front of which the explosion occurred is a brownstone four-story building. The ground floor is occupied by J. Blatt, a tailor, and all the other floors are vacant. At the time of the explosion, it is said, there was no one in the building. Four months ago, however, according to the police of the West Forty-seventh Street Station, the upper floors were occupied by a so-called "social" club which was raided by Commissioner Flynn and his staff. Other places in the neighborhood were raided about the same time, it was said, and the assertion was made at the time that rivalry among the various gambling houses was so strong that they accused each other of giving information to the police. This rivalry, it was said yesterday, might have prompted the throwing of a bomb.

Similar bomb throwing exhibitions attended police raids in West 116th Street and on the east side within the last four months, and in these instances witnesses saw the explosive missiles thrown from taxicabs going at full speed. There was no witness to the explosion yesterday, but it is believed that the same persons are responsible.

MERGER IN IMPLEMENT TRADE

Deere & Co. Reorganize with $50,000,000 Capital Stock to Buy Other Firms.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 7.—The American Implement Company raised its capital stock from $10,000 to $50,000,000 to-day and filed the certification with the Secretary of State at Springfield. It is a forming company, for the reorganization of Deere & Co., implement manufacturers of Moline, Ill., and twenty-one other smaller companies, which it has bought out, paying for them with its own stock.

B. F. Peek, attorney for Deere & Co., said:

"This company was formed as a basis of reorganization, and it takes over the business of Deere & Co., the Marseilles Company, and one other company intact, substituting its charter for the old one, which would have expired in 1918. Its stock is that of Deere & Co., and will be used in buying out the smaller companies. When this reorganization is complete the name will be changed again from the American Implement Company to the old name, Deere & Co."

LINCOLN'S SELECTIONS BAD.

Dr. Eliot of Harvard Says Civil Service in 1861 Was Worse Than Now.

BOSTON, April 7.—In deploring the fact that the present civil service system did not extend back to the time of the civil war, Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, declared to-day that the appointments to office by President Lincoln in 1861 were shocking and that incompetent men served under him as a result.

Dr. Eliot's remarks came at the end of an address on civil service reform before the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs and in answer to questions from the audience.

After replying in the negative to the question whether politics are as corrupt now as they were in 1861, Dr. Eliot said:

"In talking of 1861 we must remember that these shocking appointments were made by Lincoln for purely political reasons. I can't think of anything so shocking done by recent Presidents. At that time the moral sense of the community had not been aroused, and it was the custom of the time to make appointments for political purposes. President Lincoln's first appointee as Secretary of War, Simon Cameron, was so corrupt and so incompetent that he lost his job at the end of three months."

Graduates' Night at Morris High School

A reunion of the graduates of the Morris High School will be held at the school on Friday, April 28, at 8 P. M. Last year's reception was very successful. It is the intention to send a card of invitation to every graduate, but owing to changed addresses some invitations may not reach those for whom they are intended. Graduates of the school who know of the plans are asked to assist in making the reunion a success by notifying other graduates.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—There was decided irregularity displayed during the day, and following a series of sharp fluctuations the close was strong at near the best of the day, with the May option at the West leading the advance. Stop loss orders were uncovered in that delivery, and as there has been much spreading on the theory that May would go to a discount, as compared with other options, in connection with otherwise bearish news, a large short interest was doubtless formulated.

During the early part of the session there was a heavy undertone in evidence, brought about by disappointing Liverpool cables, which market reflected more favorable foreign crop news and expectations of very heavy world's exports this week. Indications point to a total in the neighborhood of 14,000,000 bushels, whereas the nominal weekly requirements are, approximately, 10,000,000 bushels. Weather conditions in this country were also propitious and crop advices coming to hand were of an optimistic tenor. The Modern Miller was extremely bearish and gave an average condition of 86.5 for Winter wheat, with Kansas placed at 83, Nebraska 89, Missouri 90, Oklahoma 66, and conditions of 88 to 92 east of the Mississippi. It was said that little injury from Hessian fly was observed or from the green bug. This bearish report follows the snow report of Thursday, which gave a condition of 85.4, against 81.3 last year, and while some pressure was caused on the issuance of The Miller, the opinion afterward seemed to be that a bearish Government report on Monday had been to a large extent discounted owing to the almost uniformity of favorable crop advices as sent by private experts. An offsetting influence to the bearish weather reports was the big flour business reported at Minneapolis, with fair sales for export, especially as the Northwestern markets were firm during the entire session, which tended to lend color to the bull news from those quarters. Export business in Manitoba wheat was extremely limited, with only three loads reported and five loads of No. 2 red reported. Bradstreet's exports for the week were 2,143,000 bushels. Since July 1 the total is 94,691,000 bushels, against 117,000,000 bushels last year. Cash No. 2 red quoted, in elevator, at 91¼c; 92⅜c free on board, afloat, for export; No. 2 hard, 96⅝c; No. 1 Northern Spring, $1.04⅛; No. 1 Manitoba, 99¼c.

CORN.—Following the slightly easier opening on disappointing cables, with reports of cheaper offerings abroad and in sympathy with wheat, a firm tone developed with the close at the best. Weather conditions, while more settled are not extremely favorable, and notwithstanding the fact that country houses were selling freely on the scale up there was a good demand from shorts and from large industrial concerns at Chicago. The fact that the large discount of cash corn was lessening, as compared with May, attracted quite a little attention. Export demand was limited, with sales of 16,000 bushels reported, although it is generally conceded that just as country offerings increase on the bulge a fair export and cash business is put through on the breaks. Cash No. 2 Western quoted at 55½c, in elevator, and 54¼c, free on board, afloat, for export.

OATS.—In sympathy with the strength in other markets, oats were quite firm during the session. Speculation is not large and although there is a fair cash demand, stocks are liberal. Crop advices are generally favorable and reports from Illinois are that from 50 to 60 per cent. of seeding has already been completed. Cash standards, 37½c; No. 2 white, 37¾c; No. 3 white, 37c.

PROVISIONS.—Receipts were in liberal volume and as other markets were firm, there seemed to be less pressure in provision circles. A fair cash demand was reported, but on the other hand sentiment is against values owing to the bearish disposition of large packers with the claim made that some lard recently exported has only been consigned abroad and not altogether sold. The extent of the recent decline, however, makes bears cautious.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Trade was not large in the aggregate during yesterday's session, but a continuation of the steady tone recently displayed was observable. There was a tendency for a time for offerings to increase on the advance, but on the whole pressure was light, restrained probably by the firmness of crude at the South, while the lard market also ruled a shade higher. Bids for spot oil were on a higher basis, and this was thought to indicate a slightly improved inquiry from consuming sources, but no general revival of trade is indicated as yet. Crude quoted at the Southeast, 5.27 to 5.33. Future prices follow:

COTTON.

The upward move of the old crop position continued unabated during yesterday's session, with good support from bulls noticeable, although as prices advanced offerings appeared to be emanating from important holders. The new crop months continued to lag, and it is thought that the short interest has been fairly well eliminated at the moment or else shorts are not easily intimidated, while generally favorable crop advices restrain outside inquiry. The consensus of opinion was that as May reached its previous high of 14.63 offerings from the South would be in larger volume, and acting on this supposition there seemed to be quite a little selling. Some authorities, however, are claiming that bulls intend to absorb these Southern offerings should they make their appearance on this advance, and predictions were heard of higher prices for the old crop deliveries in the near future.

Liverpool continues to give impetus toward higher values, and cables from there again were better than anticipated. Although in some quarters it is claimed that buying orders are originating from America, private cables attributed the gain abroad as being due to fears of a squeeze in the Summer options. Bears, however, made the claim that this feature is being too widely advertised to permit of success, but on the other hand the encouraging reports coming from Manchester are apparently having a great deal of effect. Prospects of bullish week-end statistics resulted in an indisposition toward selling aggressively, and although the hopes of bulls in regard to the weekly figures were realized, some profit-taking developed on the issuance of the figures. This in the aggregate, however, was not in large enough volume to make much of an impression on the price list. The visible supply of American cotton decreased 174,000 bales for the week, against 127,000 decrease last week and 115,000 a year ago. The spinners' takings according to the Cotton Exchange were 239,000 bales, against 219,000 and 89,000 respectively. Into sight amounted to 65,000 bales, against 92,000 last week and 89,000 a year ago. Since Sept. 1 there have been 1,490,000 bales more brought into sight than last year, while exports for the same period are 1,633,000 bales greater. Trade conditions have not improved materially, with Southern spot markets showing but slight changes, although private dispatches are of a bullish tenor. New York spot cotton was quiet and unchanged from the previous close; middling uplands, 14.60.

COFFEE.

Coffee showed further weakness, closing at a net decline of 9 to 14 points with sales aggregating 51,250 bags. At the decline the market showed a net loss of 50 to 75 points from the high point of Saturday after the Valorization sale had been reported. Havre closed ¼ franc lower, while Hamburg was ¼ to ½ pfennig decline. Rio was 250 reis lower and Santos lost 100 reis. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were again easy. The weather in Brazil was cloudy in three coffee districts, showery in one, and raining in one.

Spot coffee, Rio No. 7, 12c, and Santos 4s at 13c. The Exchange will be closed on April 14 and 15.

LARGE CASH GAIN BY BANKS

Indications Point to Increase in Surplus—Copper Figures Show Increase in Stocks of the Metal.

Even less activity was shown on the Stock Exchange yesterday than on Thursday, and except for a two-point decline in Missouri Pacific the movements in the usually active stocks were devoid of importance. There were other changes, including advances and declines exceeding a point, but they were recorded in issues which for the most part fall within the category of specialties, so-called, the prices of which are usually affected even on very light trading. The waiting attitude of the market was as much pronounced yesterday as toward the close of other recent weeks, when traders have felt the repressive influence of the usual Monday morning possibility in the shape of decisions from the Supreme Court in the cases the outcome of which has so long been awaited. Yesterday's estimates of the currency movements bore out indications had early in the week that the banks at this centre have gained cash in large amount, with the indication of a substantial addition to their reserves. The figures suggesting an increase of upward of $3,000,000 in the cash holdings of the banks seem to promise also a gain in surplus in to-day's bank statement, inasmuch as the lifelessness of the stock market and the general drift of interest rates during the week would hardly indicate an offset in the way of expansion in loans. The movement of cash to New York was facilitated, of course, through the return to this centre of funds disbursed for interest and dividends at the opening of the month, which throughout this week have been finding their way back to this city. A rate of 4 per cent. for nine months' loans on all industrial collateral was quoted yesterday, and is a fair indication of the freedom with which money is now being loaned.

The copper producers' figures for the month of March showed an increase in the stocks of copper during that month, bringing them to the highest figure since August of last year. In view of the efforts which are known to have been made to reduce the production of copper interest attaches to the fact that the output reported for March reached the record total of more than 130,000,000 pounds. It must be borne in mind, however, that these copper production figures represent the output of refineries and not the current output of the mines.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Friday.

More than one-quarter of the day's total business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange was in Missouri Pacific. That stock, for the first time in recent recollection, led the entire list as to volume, even exceeding Steel common, Reading, and Union Pacific, the three stocks which for a long time past have been fixtures as leaders in the speculation. Odd-lot trading was the feature most of the day, with sales of fractional lots of a number of the specialties taking place some time before any sales were reported on the other Exchange.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Trading in Better Volume, with Active Interest in Bond List on the Curb.

BOND TRANSACTIONS HEAVY

Missouri, Kansas & Texas 5 Per Cent. Notes Report Sales of $750,000—Erie and Amalgamated Notes Are Strong.

There was a slight increase in activity in the mining list yesterday, but interest centred in the bond market, which was unusually active. Amalgamated Copper 5 per cent. notes reported transactions of $300,000, on which the price rose from 100 1-16 to 100 5-16. Erie 6 per cent notes were also active, and rose from 100½ to 100⅝ on sales of $165,000. Missouri, Kansas & Texas 5 per cent. notes reported transactions of $750,000, and also were strong, rising from 99 7-16 to 99 11-16. In the mining list prices moved only by narrow fractions. Chicago Subway was less active than on the previous day and sold off from 5⅝ to 5⅛, closing at 5¼ after sales of 1,000.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Heaviness ruled in the course of prices on the Chicago Stock Exchange to-day, with most of the issues at the end of trading showing fractional declines from yesterday's closing level. Illinois Brick and Pneumatic Tool were exceptional. The former rose 1¼ at its best and closed a point above last night, while the latter gained 1½ by the end of the day. Other issues generally were off from previous levels. Sears-Roebuck common and preferred, Chicago Subway, Chicago Telephone, Commonwealth Edison, and Diamond Match were included in the declines.

CONDITIONS OF TRADE.

Commenting on general business conditions, Dun's Review says:

> Continued improvement in wheat crop conditions, due to the widespread rains, is the most promising feature of the business situation, and this improvement is naturally accompanied by a fall in grain prices. The rains, however, have interfered a good deal with retail distribution of merchandise, and this is responsible in part for the somewhat slower movement of trade, which is revealed in most of the reports from the different sections. Fundamental conditions are undoubtedly sounder and better than in a long time past, but immediate business, while necessarily large in view of the constant requirements of an immense population, shows reduced activity for the time being, because the period of retrenchment and readjustment is not yet ended. The optimism that prevails abroad, and especially in England, is beginning to have its effect in this country, and must be counted as one of the influences working for improvement.
>
> It is one of the good points of the general industrial situation that, as domestic trade slackens somewhat, export trade quickens. Shoes and hides are quiet, with no special change in recent conditions. Railroad earnings in four weeks of March decreased 3.8 per cent. Bank clearings this week increased 1.8 per cent. over 1910 and 15 per cent. over 1909 outside of New York, but in New York, where speculation is still on a small scale, there were declines of 2.6 and 12.5 per cent., respectively. Exports from New York in the latest week were $14,727,019, being an increase over 1910 of $3,664,830 and over 1909 of $1,672,383. Imports were $17,118,679, being about the same as in 1909, but $2,478,2[illegible] less than last year.

Bradstreet's says:

> Trade and industry are quiet, disappointingly so in most sections, considering the nearness of Easter, and collections are backward, but weather conditions, which have been partly responsible for this, have been, on the whole, beneficial to agricultural interests. Thus, the future outlook may be said to have profited at the expense of the present. Rain, snow, and rather widely distributed cold weather were a bar to retail trade early in the week, but the long-delayed arrival of warm weather had some good effects later. Retail trade, however, has not equaled expectations at most large centres, and the absorption of the farmers in crop preparation has dulled country trade, except in lines catering directly to agricultural pursuits. It is to be noted that the long decline in most farm products, which are now 25 to 40 per cent. below a year ago, is credited at a few points with being a retarding influence upon trade. On the other hand, a few days of good weather and the recent price revisions are credited with helping the cotton-goods trade slightly.
>
> Lines hitherto reporting relatively best demand, such as women's wearing apparel, millinery, shoes, and builders' hardware, have maintained their trade. Woolen goods and textiles generally feel the effect of the threatened revision of the tariff, while farm products reflect renewal of reciprocity talk and the paucity of export demand, as well as the unquestionably improved outlook for Winter wheat and the putting of the soil in good condition for other crops by abundant moisture. Record areas of oats, corn, and cotton are apparently in prospect, and the delay in seeding noted in the first-named crop by rainy weather has not been serious as yet.

Condition of the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—At the beginning of business to-day the condition of the United States Treasury was:

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

J. C. Stubbs Optimistic.

J. C. Stubbs, General Traffic Manager of the Harriman lines, sees nothing but favorable conditions ahead for general business and for the country as a whole, except for political agitation. "It is a little early to get a line on crop prospects along our system," he said yesterday, "but conditions so far are all favorable. Rain has been plentiful—in some cases a little too much so, but it is worth a dollar a drop out there. The farmers are out of debt and buying automobiles. On the Pacific Coast the season is about a month late, and the merchants have been feeling this a little, but I understand that they have kept their stocks down and are prepared for it. There is nothing about the country to give any cause for worry. On the contrary, its productivity can be increased many times. The only adverse element is the unrest and uncertainty as to legislation, and I suppose in time we will work out of that."

⁂

Not a Passenger Injured.

Following similar reports from two or three other roads recently, it was learned yesterday that of the 5,217,270 passengers carried by the Chesapeake & Ohio in 1910 not one received an injury. Operating men referred to this yesterday as an illuminating commentary on contentions advanced in some quarters that greater efficiency is needed on the part of railroad employes.

Brokers Turn to Betting.

For lack of something better to do yesterday, with the market as close to stagnation as is well possible, brokers turned their attention to the dullness itself, and not a few wagers were made on what the total transactions would be. After the close of the market the official list of transactions was footed up with extra care, and the total determined at 129,295 shares. Comparisons with dullest days go back no further than July 3, 1908, when the day's aggregate was only 78,204 shares. That day, the eve of Fourth of July, which came on Saturday in that year, was the dullest day in more than a decade, and brokers recalled yesterday that the extreme then reached represented in a large measure the grievance of the traders who had been refused a triple holiday over the Fourth. Many took the extra holiday anyway. Brokers with good memories yesterday were unable to recall any parallel in recent years for a period of such stagnation as to show total trades of only 10,000 shares in Reading in two days or a day when Union Pacific showed less than 5,000 shares.

Bonds Active by Comparison.

Measuring by par value yesterday's bond market was active by comparison with the indifferent trading in stocks. The $3,337,500 par value which was the total of the trading in the bond department would be equivalent roughly to 333,750 shares of stock. Much of the activity in the bond list was due to the interest shown in the deferred Virginia 6 per cent. certificates which were strong as well as active, and rose from 59 to 63¼, and in the Seaboard Air Line adjustment 5s, which also made a sharp upturn. There was also considerable activity in Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal first trust receipts, but these moved in the contrary direction, making a low price for the year at 41, which compares with 48½, reached on Feb. 1, during the rise which was taken advantage of by the Wabash.

Cotton Men Reassured.

Cotton brokers who were full of apprehension at the dangers to their livelihood in the bill before Congress providing fines and imprisonment as penalties for option trading, have been somewhat reassured. One of the Cotton Exchange Committee which arranged a dinner of enlightenment last week for the New York Congressmen was in Washington the day the extra session opened, and he came back with the opinion, expressed by the sponsor of the bill himself, that it has very little chance of getting through at the extra session.

Money Comes In Freely.

Receipts from the interior this week are estimated at $14,181,000, the movement being most marked at the close of the period and offsetting, with a balance of $4,589,000, the $5,330,000 sent away and the $4,262,000 in banknotes sent to Washington for redemption. Much of the outgoing funds went to near-by points early in the week, notably to Philadelphia and Boston. The large total of banknotes sent to Washington is in keeping with current conditions in the money market. There was a loss on Sub-Treasury operations of $2,798,000. Receipts of new gold totalling $1,608,000 added to the indicated net gain from the interior made a total gain of $6,197,000, which was reduced by the loss to the Sub-Treasury to $3,399,000.

Bank Clearings' Better Showing.

Exchanges at the leading banking centres of the United States make a much better showing this week by comparison with the same period last year than has been the case in any recent weekly period. The total clearings as estimated by Dun's Review were $2,981,862,763, which is a loss of only 1.3 per cent. as compared with the same week in 1910 and of 4 per cent. as compared with the same period in 1909. It is to be remembered, however, that at this time last year the slowing off of trade was beginning to be felt. The loss this week compares with 10.3 per cent. last week and 9.7 per cent. two weeks ago.

MILLS ON SHORT TIME.

FALL RIVER, April 7.—A pronounced curtailment policy went into effect to-day in twenty of the Fall River cotton mills, controlled by ten or a dozen corporations. In many of the plain goods mills there has been a gradual tendency to decrease the output, and some of them have adopted a schedule of four days a week. To-day mills owned by the following named companies are idle and remain so until Monday: American Linen, Chace, Flint, Davol, Mechanics, Merchants, Richard Borden, Seaconnet, Tecumseh, and Weetamoe. The Ancona mills close to-night until Monday.

The mills which were operated only four days this week employ 7,000 persons and have nearly three-quarters of a million spindles.

CITY REVENUE WARRANTS OUT

Within Two Weeks $5,000,000 of Them Have Been Sold.

New York City has within the last two weeks sold $5,000,000 of revenue warrants running until next November, and some to later dates. It is the usual custom of the city to put out these revenue warrants in the early months of the year, in anticipation of the taxes collected in November.

Some of these recent issues have been disposed of by our bankers in Europe, where bankers freely invest in these short-term obligations of this city. An indication of the ease now prevailing in the money market and of the demand for short-term high-grade investments is found in the fact that the city was able to borrow this money at an average rate of 3 5-16 per cent.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Happenings of a Day in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, April 7.—Money was in better supply and discount rates were steady to-day.

The mining settlement occupied the chief attention of traders on the Stock Exchange. The market, however, was generally steadier, and home rails, foreign bonds, and consols made fair recoveries, while Paris support strengthened Kaffirs in the afternoon.

American securities were dull and about unchanged during the forenoon. The only exception was Canadian Pacific, which advanced sharply on covering. The late session was marked by slight, irregular price movements, and the closing was quiet.

Money, 2½@2¾ per cent.; rate of discount in the open market for both short and three months' bills, 2⅝@2¾ per cent.

Bullion amounting to £62,000 was taken into the Bank of England to-day, and £33,000 was withdrawn for shipment to South Africa.

PARIS, April 7.—Prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

Exchange on London, 25f 30c for checks.

BERLIN, April 7.—Prices closed higher on the Boerse to-day.

FOREIGN TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Consular and Trade Report will note the following foreign trade opportunities abroad. Further information regarding these may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to.

6,510. AMERICAN SHOES—An American Consular officer in Belgium reports that a lady who has been in the American shoe trade for the past ten years is anxious to act as manager for an American manufacturer willing to open a shoe store in that country. The person in question has been known to the Consular officer, is active and experienced, and has a large local connection. Her idea is that a manufacturer should take premises in one of the large cities, fit them up in the American style, and stock them with a full line of his products. She would then undertake the entire management on terms to be agreed upon. She is convinced that a shoe of high quality well known to the public would find a good sale, as the demand for American shoes is now on the steady increase. She is prepared to furnish references to interested manufacturers or exporters.

HOME TRADE OPPORTUNITIES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Further information regarding the following home trade opportunities may be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C., giving the number of item referred to:

156. EMPLOYES' QUARTERS—Proposals for employes' quarters, addressed to the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Washington, will be received at the Indian Office, until April 27, for furnishing materials and labor to construct and complete an employes' quarters at the Greenville School, Greenville, Cal., in strict accordance with the plans, specifications, and instructions to bidders which may be examined at the Indian Office, Washington, D. C., the office of the builder and contractor, Los Angeles; United States Indian Warehouse, San Francisco, Cal.; Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis, and at the school. For further information apply to Frank T. Mann, Superintendent, Greenville, Cal.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—For the first time since the reduction in the dividend Westmoreland Coal changed hands on the local Exchange this morning, selling at 84. The fact that the stock fell only 7 points after the cutting of the dividend in half shows how closely the shares are held and the complete confidence of the holders in the company's future. There continued to be a dribble of offerings of Rapid Transit and Union Traction shares throughout the day, but their quotations did not recede very far.

EXCHANGES' EASTER HOLIDAY

Stock Exchange Undecided Whether to Close Saturday After Good Friday.

Although it is still undecided whether the Stock Exchange will close on Holy Saturday as well as on Good Friday, giving brokers a triple holiday over Easter, other downtown Exchanges have already settled the matter. The Produce Exchange will be closed on Good Friday only, and the Coffee Exchange members yesterday voted to close on Saturday as well as Friday. The New Orleans Cotton Exchange has decided to close on both days. The Stock Exchange members have petitioned for the triple holiday, and the Governing Committee is expected to act favorably on the petition next week.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 7.—The undertone in the local market was rather soft to-day, but trading was light, and there were no price changes. Amalgamated sold down to 62⅞ and North Butte broke 27. The general list closed dull and without feature.

BANKERS HEAR KATSURA.

Premier Assures Them Japan's Financial Policy Will Be Unchanged.

TOKIO, April 7.—Marquis Katsura, the Premier and Minister of Finance, addressing an audience of bankers at Kyoto to-day, said there would be no change in the Government's financial policy during the coming year. Unusual expenditures must be faced in Korea, and also measures for the prevention of floods and for the development of the railroads and the navy must be undertaken. However, the necessary funds would be secured, he said, without resort to additional taxation or foreign loans.

The improvements in Korea are planned to extend over a number of years. The Bank of Korea will be able to finance these. The reconstruction of the main line of the Japanese railway system into a broad-gauge road has been postponed for one year. The Premier counseled conservative action on the part of the banks in advancing money, notwithstanding the accumulation of capital.

Premier Katsura said that the redemption of Government loan bonds to the amount of $60,000,000 would take place this year. Of the total, $32,500,000 will be released on May 25, in time to meet the demand for capital with which to move the crops.

UNITED CIGAR DIVIDEND CUT.

One Per Cent. Quarterly Declared Instead of 1½ Per Cent.

Predictions of a cut in the dividend rate of the United Cigar Manufacturers, current for some weeks and reflected in a break in the price of the shares on the Curb, were verified at the meeting of the Directors yesterday, when a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. on the common stock, payable May 1 to stockholders of record April 25, was declared. Quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent. have been paid since February, 1910. In explanation of the reduction President Wertheim made this statement:

"The United Cigar Manufacturers Company is transacting an increasing volume of business, as compared with the year 1910, but at a smaller net profit. The decrease has been caused entirely by an increase in the cost of raw materials of all kinds. This increase the management has not considered it expedient to meet by reducing the quality of the company's output, which is being maintained at its highest standard."

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

To the Stockholders of Bush Terminal Company:

Please take notice that a Special Meeting of the stockholders of Bush Terminal Company will be held on Monday, April 24, 1911, at the office of the Company, No. 100 Broad Street, Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, at 2:30 o'clock P. M., for the following purposes:

(1) To pass upon the proposed changes in the terms and conditions of the bonds issued and to be issued by Bush Terminal Buildings Company under its mortgage of April 1, 1910, and proposed mortgage supplemental thereto to the Columbia Trust Company, as Trustee, and to take such action in connection with the guarantee by this Company of the due and punctual payment of the principal and interest of said bonds as to the meeting may seem desirable.

(2) To pass upon the terms and conditions of the proposed supplemental mortgage of said Bush Terminal Buildings Company to the Columbia Trust Company, as Trustee.

(3) To authorize the officers of this Company to execute such contracts, waivers, certificates, and other instruments incident to any change in the terms and conditions of said bonds, the approval of said proposed supplemental mortgage and said guarantee by this Company, as may seem proper, and to transact such other business in connection with said guarantee by this Company as may come before the meeting.

(4) To authorize the decrease of the capital stock of this Company from Eight million five hundred thousand ($8,500,000) Dollars to Seven million ($7,000,000) Dollars by means of the cancellation of the existing preferred stock of this Company, which, pursuant to resolutions of the Board of Directors, has been exchanged for common stock.

(5) To authorize the increase of the capital stock of this Company from Seven million ($7,000,000) Dollars, if it shall have been reduced as aforesaid, to Twelve million ($12,000,000) dollars.

(6) To authorize the issue by this Company, if its capital stock shall have been increased as aforesaid, of Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value, being the amount of such increase, of preferred cumulative 6% stock, retirable at any time at the option of this Company at 110% and accrued dividends.

(7) To consent to the authorization from time to time of similar additional preferred stock of this Company not exceeding Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value thereof, upon the vote or written consent of the holders of a majority in interest of the holders of all of the capital stock of this Company, preferred and common, then outstanding.

(8) To consent to the authorization from time to time of similar additional preferred stock of this Company not exceeding Five million ($5,000,000) Dollars par value thereof, if all the preferred stock of this Company above mentioned shall have been issued, upon the vote or written consent of a majority of this Company's Directors and of a majority in interest of the holders of common stock of this Company and of a majority in interest of the holders of preferred stock of this Company outstanding at such time or times.

Room 206, City Hall Annex.
New Orleans, La., April 4th, 1911.

The Board of Liquidation of City Debt, acting under authority of Act No. 19 of the General Assembly of the State of Louisiana for the Session of 1906, and Act No. 116 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1908, and Act No. 23 of said General Assembly for the Session of 1910, as amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910, which said Acts No. 19 of 1906 and No. 116 of 1908 have been adopted and ratified by Constitutional Amendment, and have become part of the Constitution of the State of Louisiana, will receive sealed proposals at its office in the City of New Orleans, State of Louisiana, up to twelve o'clock noon on the eighth day of May, 1911, for the purchase of $7,000,000.00 in face value of New Public Improvement Bonds of the City of New Orleans, authorized by and to be issued under and subject to the provisions of the acts aforementioned, and the Constitutional Amendments ratifying same.

Said bonds are of the denomination of One Thousand Dollars each and bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4%) per annum, evidenced by interest coupons attached, payable semi-annually on the first days of January and July of each year respectively. Said bonds are by law exempt from taxation, State, Parish and Municipal.

Said bonds are payable January 1, 1942, and are subject to call at the option of the City of New Orleans after January 1, 1922, and are and will be issued under and subject to the statutes aforementioned, all of which are hereby referred to and made part of this advertisement for greater certainty and particularity.

Said proposals shall be received under and subject to the following conditions to wit:

1. That no sale shall be made of any of the said bonds unless the aggregate of bids received shall be for the full amount of said bonds, to wit, $7,000,000.00 in face value.

2. Said bonds shall be adjudicated to the highest bidder or bidders, provided that said bonds, or any part thereof, shall not be adjudicated for less than par and accrued interest, less a commission or deduction not to exceed six per centum (6%) on the principal thereof.

3. All matured interest coupons on said bonds shall be cut from said bonds and canceled, and the successful bidder or bidders shall pay the interest which may have accrued on said bonds up to the date of delivery.

4. Said bonds shall be paid for by the successful bidder or bidders in cash as fast as they can be signed and delivered, and all of said bonds shall be delivered in not more than sixty days from the date of the opening of said bids.

5. No bid will be received or considered unless accompanied by a certified check on some chartered bank in the City of New Orleans for an amount equal to three per cent. of the amount to the said bid; said check shall be made to the order of the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, and the check or checks of the successful bidder or bidders shall be cashed and the proceeds retained by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt as a guarantee that the successful bidder or bidders, respectively, will comply with its or their bids, and the said proceeds shall be applied to the payment of the bonds last delivered to the said bidder or bidders respectively. In case of the neglect or refusal to comply with any bid the proceeds of said check shall be forfeited to the Sewerage & Water Board.

6. Any local bank or banks that may bid for said bonds may stipulate in its or their bids that it or they desire to be awarded the custody of the Public Improvement Fund, as provided by Act No. 23 of the General Assembly for the Session of 1910, amended by Act No. 5 of said General Assembly for the Second Extra Session of 1910.

7. If any local bank or banks should, pursuant to the statutes aforesaid, be awarded the custody and deposit of the Public Improvement Fund, as established by law, the said local bank or banks shall be required to pay the rate of interest on daily balances as may be fixed by the Board of Liquidation of the City Debt, pursuant to the statutes aforementioned, and shall comply with all the provisions of said statutes as to security and other matters.

8. The Board of Liquidation of the City Debt reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Further particulars and information will be furnished upon application to T. Wolfe, Jr., Secretary Board of Liquidation, City Debt, Room 206, City Hall Annex, New Orleans, La.

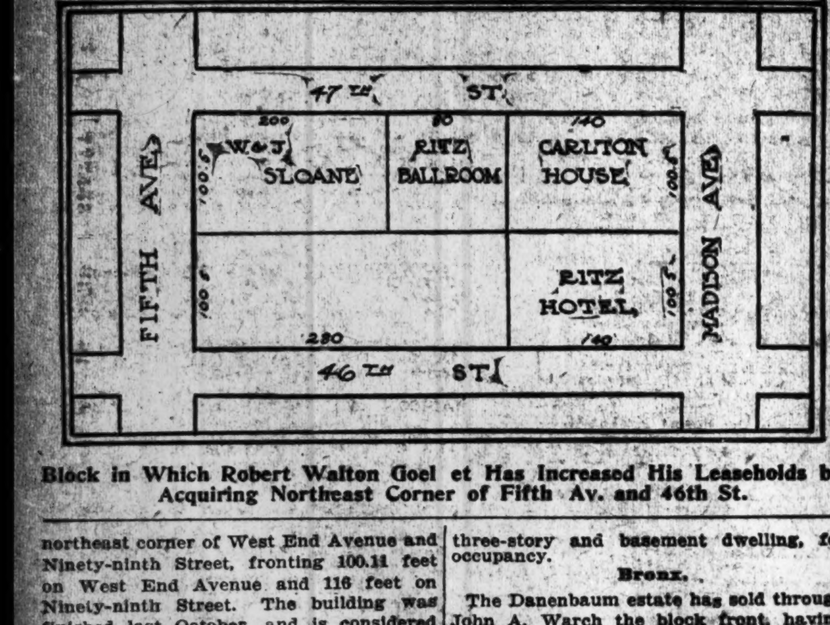
THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Robert W. Goelet Leases Southern Half of Windsor Arcade Property on Fifth Avenue—Big Apartment House Deals Involving Sale of the Allendale for Nearly $1,000,000—Good Bronx Market.

Another big Fifth Avenue deal which assures a high-class improvement for the southerly portion of the Windsor Arcade, about to be torn down, on the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street, was the prominent feature of the realty market yesterday. Elbridge T. Gerry has leased for a long term to the Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth Street Company, of which Robert Walton Goelet is the chief representative, the entire corner, 100.5 on Fifth Avenue and 280 feet on Forty-sixth Street, extending to the new Ritz-Carlton Hotel. The Cruikshank Company negotiated the deal, and Duncan Harris, of Harris and Vaughn, has been appointed agent for the property. A high-class business structure will be erected.

In addition to the above there were several important apartment house deals on the upper west side, the combined properties affected aggregating in value over $2,000,000. The Allendale Building Company (Benjamin Mordecai and G. Richard Davis) sold to a client of Klein & Jackson the twelve-story apartment house known as the Allendale, on the northeast corner of West End Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, fronting 100.11 feet on West End Avenue and 116 feet on Ninety-ninth Street. The building was finished last October, and is considered one of the best houses on the west side. It was held at $950,000.



Block in Which Robert Walton Goelet Has Increased His Leaseholds by Acquiring Northeast Corner of Fifth Av. and 46th St.

It has also sold to the same purchaser the private dwelling at 798 West End Avenue, 16 by 80, which was purchased by the Allendale Building Company to protect the southerly light of the apartment house.

Edwin S. Brickner, who represented the owners in the management of the property, will remain under the new owners.

The Hereford, a new house in Seventy-ninth Street, was sold to an investor for about $400,000, at which it has been held, and two large apartments recently completed in 112th Street changed hands. The latter included the eight-story house at 521 West 112th Street, on plot 75 by 100, sold to an investor for the Kaw Realty Company, Theodore Starrett, President, and also a sale which involved an exchange of the adjourning house at 523 West 112th Street, on a plot of similar dimensions. In part payment the La Touraine apartment house was given, situated on the northwest corner of Morningside Avenue and 115th Street. The deals were negotiated by the Hustoon & Spraker Company. Both of the 112th Street houses have been held at $300,000 each, and with the La Touraine, which figured in the trade, the entire transaction involved about $850,000. The same brokers have been appointed agents for the three buildings.

The Hereford apartment house is located at 310 West Seventy-ninth Street, on a plot 65 by 100. It was completed a year ago, and has been sold by Edgar A. Levy to William J. Stitt for investment. Mr. Levy built both the Hereford and the adjoining house, known as the Kelmscott, on a sixty-foot plot, adjoining the south corner of Riverside Drive. They are both well rented.

Ex-Senator Kean Leases Morton House.

Ex-Senator John Kean of New Jersey has leased through Pease & Elliman the Fifth Avenue house formerly occupied by the late Paul Morton. The house is at 844 Fifth Avenue. It is owned by Col. John Jacob Astor, and adjoins the Astor residence on the Sixty-fifth Street corner. Mr. Morton leased the house two years ago for a long term, and the present lease has been made for his estate. The annual rental is about $17,000.

School Buys Park Avenue Site.

The Brearley School has bought a new site for its future home on the southwest corner of Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street, in the heart of the big co-operative apartment house section. The corner plot, a vacant lot 20 by 100.5, has been bought from Dr. W. Gill Wylie, and the adjoining plot, occupied by a four-story dwelling, 19 by 100.5, from Jacob Kottek, giving the school a plot with a frontage of 39 feet. The sales were made through the brokerage firm of Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company. The school, which has been located in Forty-fourth Street, west of Fifth Avenue, will erect a fine building at once on the Park Avenue corner.

Four 70th Street Dwellings Sold.

Mrs. Edith Brice has sold to I. Randolph Jacobs and Robert M. Silverman the four-story dwellings 305, 307, 309, and 311 West Seventieth Street, on a plot 80 by 100. The property is located 100 feet west of West End Avenue, and will probably be resold to a builder for an apartment house site. Charles Griffith Moses & Brother were the brokers in the transaction.

Investor Buys Tenement.

An investor has purchased from Joseph Edelson 436 West Twenty-sixth Street, a five-story tenement with stores, on a lot 25 by 98.9. The adjoining house, 438, was sold several days ago to Max Rothstein.

Harlem Flats in Trade.

Henry M. Fitch has sold, through Shaw & Co., 2,330 Seventh Avenue, a five-story flat, on lot 27 by 100, adjoining the southwest corner of 127th Street. In part payment Mr. Fitch takes 134 West 131st Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 20 by 100. Title to the parcel was acquired by Harold B. Abrams a couple of days ago.

King Model House Sold.

Builder Buys Heights Plot.

Jackson & Stern have sold to a builder for development a plot 75 by 99.11 on the north side of 157th Street, 200 feet east of Broadway. John P. Kirwan negotiated the sale.

Bank Buys New Site.

Having outgrown its present quarters at 149th Street and Bergen Avenue, the Bronx National Bank has purchased a site in 149th Street, near Melrose Avenue, for the erection of a new building for its own banking purposes.

Through R. E. Scoble the bank bought from Samuel E. Jacobs the plot, 50 by 80, on the north side of the street, about 250 feet west of Melrose Avenue, where a large number of substantial business improvements have been made in recent years and property is firmly held. Ground will be broken at once for the new structure.

Sterling & Sterling have sold to Katherine V. Garlock 428 East 136th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling, for occupancy.

Bronx.

The Danenbaum estate has sold through John A. Warch the block front, having frontages of 65 feet on 182d Street, 163 feet on Honeywell Avenue, and 98 feet on West Street.

Mark A. O'Brien has sold 429 East 142d Street, a four-story double flat, on a lot 25 by 100.

Alexander Selkin has sold for the George Bagg Construction Company the four-story building on the northeast corner of Prospect Avenue and 165th Street on plot 25 by 81 feet. The house was recently taken in part payment for the Cortez apartment house at 625 East 165th Street, bought by Joseph Liebertz from the George Bagg Company through the same broker.

Suburban.

Erasmus D. Garnsey has sold to William Starcey of Colrain, Mass., a parcel having a frontage of 95 feet on the east side of Emerald Street, 195 feet north of Broadway, Ozone Park.

Mary E. Bellinger has sold to Adolph Shick of Brooklyn a parcel having a frontage of 50 feet on the east side of Prospect Avenue, 125 feet south of Orchard Avenue, Richmond Hill.

The Shore Acres Realty Company has sold to Joseph O. Allen two lots at Beechhurst Park, Whitestone.

Burke Stone has sold for David Lamb two lots on Deshon Avenue, Armour Villa Park, Yonkers, to George Gleichert, who will erect a residence in the near future.

A. Stein has sold a tract of about seventy-two lots lying between Arverne and Edgecomb, L. I. The property measures 250 by 800, and is located at Lucia and Florence Avenues, extending from the ocean to the boulevard. A. C. & A. L. Marks negotiated the sale.

Jamaica Estates reports the following sales: A plot 75 by 123 on Avon Road, a plot 67 by 128 on Radnor Road, and a plot 55 by 159 on Tudor Road.

Recent Buyers.

Minnie Brown, owner of the southeast corner of West End Avenue and Seventy-eighth Street, is the purchaser of the dwelling 262 West Seventy-eighth Street, adjoining.

Fort Comfort Inn Sale To-day.

Bryan L. Kennelly will offer the Fort Comfort Inn and cottages at Piermont, N. Y., to-day. The sale will take place on the premises, and trains for the property leave the Erie depot at 9:55 and 11:30 A. M. from Chambers Street. The property fronts on the Hudson River at Piermont, N. Y., for over a quarter of a mile.

Music Hall Fire Protection.

Plans have been filed for providing better fire protection to the Hurtig & Seamon Music Hall, at 207 to 211 West 125th Street, as required by the Fire Department. The plans show that a 4,000-gallon wooden tank will be erected on the roof at a cost of $1,000. The building is owned by Alexander Lichtenstein.

Notes.

Plans were filed yesterday for the new twelve-story loft building on the southwest corner of Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street for Klein & Jackson, owners. Rouse & Goldstone are the architects, who are also preparing plans for a hotel to be erected at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-sixth Street for the same owners.

The sale of 1,034 and 1,036 Fox Street is denied by the owner.

Ames & Co. have leased lofts in the new fireproof building at 350 and 352 West Thirty-eighth Street for George Kern: To Frazee & Lederer, the Rossmore Laundry Company, the American Morocco Case Company, E. E. Vreeland, and E. and P. Lindenthal, completing the renting of the entire building.

The Lewis H. May Company has leased at Woodmere a cottage for Samuel Heller on Willow Road to A. Holzman.

George Young, Treasurer of the Madison Square Garden Company, denied the story published in one of yesterday's morning papers to the effect that a syndicate had secured an option to buy the Garden and would erect five skyscrapers.

RICHMOND BOROUGH—SALE OR LET.

PEARSON'S MAGAZINE, APRIL NUMBER, Says—

"Every man can get rich without working if he buys real estate." We have preached this for years. You are bound to make money. Buy of a reliable broker. Be sure the property is free of debt. Buy only property with title insurance policies. Visit all brokers to be positive you are buying at the lowest price. Real Estate bought right in good locations, especially in the City of New York, is sure to make money.

Follow the above rules when purchasing on installments; then when your property is paid for you will get a good title. We guarantee to fill all the above conditions at the only piece of property that you can buy in the city of New York with large shade trees, fronts the water, only three blocks from station. Trunk line sewer through property, with ownership to bathing beach and large private dock for use of lot owners. Cement sidewalks, city water, moderately restricted, insuring high-class development; just right for summer bungalows or permanent residences; 43 trains per day. Tottenville has 8,000 population, Carnegie library, high school, public schools, banks, newspapers and everything found in a modern up-to-date city.

SEA BREEZE HEIGHTS

TOTTENVILLE, S. I.,

SPECIAL EXCHANGE OFFER

for one week only. Persons wishing to build who are carrying property and find it too far away and not practical for building purposes or wish to get rid of it for any reason at all, we have arranged with the owners to exchange the equity in their contract for lots at Sea Breeze Heights. This offer will never appear again. Take advantage of it. Exchange something you don't want for something that you can use.

FREE INSPECTION TRIP

RECORD COPPER PRODUCTION

The Output for March Is 130,532,080 Pounds.

Copper production in March exceeded all previous records, the total output of the refineries being 130,532,080 pounds, an increase of 20,703,783 pounds over the output of the previous month. The statistics of the Copper Producers' Association are put out without comment, and there was no explanation yesterday of the remarkable increase in the production of the refineries. The trade found one source of comfort in the report, and that was in the gain of only 5,370,164 pounds in stocks. It was taken as a confirmation of an increase in consumption.

The output of 130,532,080 pounds compares with the previous high record of 127,803,618 pounds made in August. Both are months of thirty-one days, but taking the per diem rate as the measure the March production of 4,210,712 pounds per day is still under the rate in June, 1910, when the average of the thirty days was 4,240,639 pounds.

Deliveries in March were 125,161,916 pounds against 95,161,916 pounds in January. This total was exceeded in many months last year. Of the total 66,080,789 was for domestic consumption and 59,081,127 for export.

Stocks on hand at the opening of April totaled 162,007,934 pounds, a gain of 5,370,164 over the March 1 accumulation, bringing the figure to the highest point since last August.

EXPECT A WAR IN COAL.

Trade Organ Says Producers Are Cutting Prices Regardless of Profits.

The disposition of coal producers to seek business at price concessions is commented on by the Black Diamond, a coal trade organ, as indicating a possible war of prices in the trade. In the current issue it is pointed out that the operators who have suffered for lack of orders for three or four months now have been brought to a state of necessity where orders are wanted regardless of profits. It says:

"On this account an insignificant thing in Chicago indicates a complete upheaval in the trade. One big retail concern, trying to settle old scores with a group of small concerns, has started a price war on smokeless coal. Behind the two groups of retailers stand groups of operators in the West Virginia field who threaten not to confine the trouble to the Chicago market, but to carry it into every other point where smokeless coal is sold. Any such outcome of a trifling matter in Chicago would completely disturb and demoralize the market throughout the Nation. Smokeless coal being reduced in price as a matter of reprisal would drag the other coals down with it perforce. That would start a long line of price cutting, the end of which is not very easy to see."

Weekly Failure Report.

Bradstreet's reports 236 business failures in the United States during the week, against 260 for the previous week and 240, 227, 258, and 191 for the corresponding weeks of 1910 to 1907. The Middle States had 88, New England 19, Southern 57, Western 37, Northwestern 17, Far West 18, and Territories 0. Canada had 23, against 26 for the preceding week. About 90 per cent. of the total number of concerns failing had a capital of $5,000 or less, and 7 per cent. had from $5,000 to $20,000 capital.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Pressure has generally risen, except in the North Pacific and South Atlantic States, but it continues relatively low throughout the Southern States, generally with resulting rains Friday.

From the Ohio Valley northeastward general rains Thursday were followed by fair weather Friday.

It is decidedly cooler from the West Gulf States northeastward into New England, but elsewhere temperature changes were unimportant. With low pressure persisting in the South, there is little prospect of settled weather during the next two days over the middle and southern portions of the eastern half of the country.

Winds along the New England Coast will be light to moderate northwest to north; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate north to northeast; South Atlantic Coast, moderate southwest to south.

Steamships departing Saturday for European ports will have moderate north winds, with generally fair weather to the Grand Banks.

FORECASTS FOR TO-DAY AND SUNDAY.

Eastern New York and New England—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; moderate north to northeast winds.

New Jersey—Unsettled Saturday; Sunday fair; moderate northeast winds.

Lost Motion.

¶ Looking for work by personal application is decidedly "lost motion." Time to go the rounds personally when you've secured an authentic list of the people you want to work for and who want your work.

¶ The quickest and surest way is to advertise in The New York Times, stating plainly your capabilities, training, and experience. The Times reaches the intelligent employers who want intelligent workers, and choose them from the environment where they are to be found. Go to any advertising agency or telephone Bryant 1000.

DEPEW SAYS TAFT WILL RUN IN 1912

Ex-Senator Lauds the President as a New Type of Executive Who Will Grow in Favor.

REVIEWS HIS OWN CAREER

Ex-Senator Depew delivered his valedictory last night at a dinner tendered him by the Republican Club. He recounted some of the incidents of his career, declared that President Taft would be renominated next year, and said that the Republican Party was responsible for the election of Senator O'Gorman.

The ex-Senator referred to President Taft as follows, after speaking of his relations with Presidents McKinley and Roosevelt, and paying them both high tributes:

"President Taft is a new type of Executive. His life has been judicial and never one of political strife, and so he looks upon questions as a Judge and not from the viewpoint of a politician, as all men brought up in political life must. It never occurs to him what may be the effect of a measure upon his own political fortunes. I believe that as President Taft's measures are better understood and his unselfish patriotism and devotion to the public service better known among the people, that he will grow in popular favor, so that when the National Republican Convention meets in 1912 there will be but one name before it, that of William Howard Taft."

The ex-Senator's reference to the election of his successor came after announcing himself as thoroughly in favor of party organization and saying some sarcastic things about "insurgents."

"We recently had some insurgency at Albany," he said. "It lasted seventy-four days, and brought praise from newspapers that had not praised anybody in fifty years. What was the result? It remained for the Chairman of the Republican State Committee, the grandson of Thurlow Weed, to propose an alliance with the insurgents. Immediately the Democrats got together and brought about an election. The insurgents had said that they would never take an Irishman; that they would never take a Catholic, and that they would never take a Tammany man. And they took one of the most popular and active Irish Catholics in New York, a President of the Catholic Society, and a Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall."

Mr. Depew spoke of his retirement in a jovial vein. "It is one thing to retire with the unanimous consent of your party," said he, "but in going down to defeat with the rest of your party, you are only one of the village buried by the avalanche. It is one thing to be stepped on by the elephant, and another to be kicked by the donkey.

"I have had a good time in the Senate, and it is not sour grapes to say that I am going to have a good time now that I am back with you."

Review of His Senate Work.

Of his career in the Senate Mr. Depew said:

"I have just closed twelve years in the United States Senate, very eventful ones in legislation and very happy ones to me. When Tennyson sang, 'Better fifty years of Europe than a cycle of Cathay,' he did not possess American experience. In the fifty years since 1861 we have passed through a crisis involving the existence of the country or its whole future every decade—the civil war for the preservation of the Union, reconstruction for the permanent peace and perpetuity of the Union, the defeat of fiat money, the resumption of specie payments, the silver craze, the establishment of the gold standard, and the experiment with colonial government were all crises full of peril, full of history, and of momentous consequence to the Republic.

"I have experienced all there was to feel by an active participation in each of these troublous periods. It has been to me one supreme lesson in the absolute indestructibility of our institutions and liberties. Every citizen passes through a period of seeing in the immediate future the destruction of his country. But while believing this prophecy, if you have seen several times the period set for the cataclysm pass by and nothing happen, predictions of evil cease to disturb your peace of mind.

"Before the conservation of natural resources had become a question of any importance, as Chairman of the committee having charge of such matters in my earlier years, I became convinced of the necessity of turning the Appalachian range into a National forest. The eight States through which the range runs could do nothing individually. The cutting off of the trees which held the moisture and distributed it beneficently was producing floods which destroyed annually 20,000,000 acres of fertile land. The tragedy of the destruction of 20,000,000 acres a year, with all their possibilities for settlement and happy homesteads, was beyond language to describe. I prepared a bill and passed it through the Senate. It took ten years of continuous effort to get it through the House of Representatives, but in this last session, including also the White Mountains, it became a law. Reform by legislation is always slow and tedious, and requires continuous and persistent effort to succeed.

"The Government had never yielded to a law which would make it liable to those engaged in its service in dangerous employments for similar compensation for death and injury to those which were universal in industrial pursuits. For years that bill had appeared and annually had been buried. President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Taft placed it in my hands, and in the last hours of the closing session of the Sixty-first Congress I succeeded in passing it and sending it to the President. I am prouder of that than of many measures of country-wide interest in whose perfection I participated."

Belief in Party Organization.

After a review of other measures of National importance in which he has been interested, the ex-Senator said:

"The most confirmed result in my fifty-four years of public and semi-public life is a belief in party organization. It has its evils, as everything human does, but they can always be cured or they cure themselves. I believe that good legislation and progressive legislation come from there being in the country two great political parties, nearly evenly divided, so evenly that the mistakes of one always lead to the triumph of the other. I tried insurgency early in life, and got over it immediately. It was when I went off with other Republicans in support of Greeley. So our friends who so blithely claim that insurgency is a brand-new invention of their own are practicing something which is very, very old. An insurgent becomes regular when he and his friends secure a majority.

"And now, my friends, we are all New Yorkers. Next to his country, a man's allegiance and pride should be to his State. My ancestor got his farm from the Indians before Gov. Dongan, and those who came after have largely remained by the old fireside. The great men who have adorned our history from the time of Hamilton and Jay are the inspirations of succeeding generations of New York youth. Thurlow Weed, who was for thirty years the dominant political factor in the political life of our State, was my preceptor in practical politics, while William H. Seward, whom I knew intimately and loved ardently, was my teacher in political principles.

"Our glorious old Commonwealth is foremost of all our sister States in all that constitutes a great empire. I have always felt, both in the Senate and out, that in working for the State, which with its harbor, its lake ports, its great canal, is the financial and commercial centre of the United States, I was doing the best service possible for my country."

Progressives Not Present.

The absence of the local "progressive" element in the party was noted at the dinner. State Chairman Barnes sat beside Timothy L. Woodruff, at the left of Vice President Sherman, at the guests' table, but the chair reserved for Chairman Griscom of the County Committee remained vacant throughout the evening. No message of regret was received from Theodore Roosevelt. The only telegrams read were from Senator Dillingham of Vermont and Edward H. Butler, proprietor of The Buffalo News.

In introducing Senator Depew, Seth Low, who presided as President of the Club, said: "This is a family gathering to bid you welcome home." Others at the guests' table with him were Charles H. Sherrill, United States Minister to the Argentine Republic; ex-Senator Thurston of Nebraska, and ex-Congressman Littauer.

Vice President Sherman expressed himself indirectly on various National issues in recounting the things which Senator Depew has advocated in his public career. He praised him for his stand for a protective tariff, a ship subsidy, the fortification of the Panama Canal, the retention of our insular possessions, the establishment of postal savings banks, and against the popular election of United States Senators.

"I now, as always, regard the tariff as the main tenet of my Republican faith," said he. "Senator Depew has always stood for the protection of American interests as against those anywhere and everywhere on the globe.

"In the question of popular election of United States Senators he has been for the continuance of a Constitutional provision which for more than a century has been proved to be sane and wise."

Senator Thurston, Mr. Sherrill, and Col. William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") also talked.

Among the 100 present were ex-State Senator Agnew, Deputy County Clerk Beyer, M. Linn Bruce, Lucien L. Bonheur, Borough President Cromwell of Richmond, ex-State Senator Elsberg, Naval Officer Kracke, J. Edgar Leaycraft, Robert C. Morris, Perley Morse, Charles O. Maas, C. C. Paulding, Samuel Strasburger, John A. Sleicher, R. A. C. Smith, ex-State Senator Saxe, Sheriff Shea, Public Works Commissioner Whittle of the Bronx, Edmund Wetmore, and Wilbur F. Wakeman.

NOT HELD FOR LIBEL.

Officers of Newspaper That Paid a Fine Not Personally Responsible.

The attempt of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to hold criminally responsible for libel the officers of the Star Company of New Jersey for a publication respecting him in The New York American failed yesterday when the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court upheld writs of habeas corpus for S. S. Carvalho, Bradford Merrill, and Edward H. Clark, President, Treasurer, and Secretary respectively of the Star Company. A fine was paid by the Star Company for printing the defamatory matter about Mr. Rockefeller.

The statute under which the proceedings were brought provided that > Every editor or proprietor of a book, newspaper, or serial, and every manager of a partnership or incorporated association, by which a book, newspaper, or serial is issued, is chargeable with the publication of any matter contained in such book, newspaper, or serial. But in every prosecution for libel the defendant may show in his defense that the matter complained of was published without his knowledge or fault and against his wishes, by another who had no authority from him to make the publication, and whose act was disavowed by him as soon as known.

The Appellate Division found that there was no presumption that the officers were the managers of The New York American, which is published by the Star Company. The New York American, on the day following the publication complained of, printed in the same position on its front page, under an equally conspicuous headline, that its publication of the previous day was an error.

GRADUATE FROM THE BROOMS

250 Street Cleaners Win Assistant Foreman's Badges.

Commissioner Edwards called before him yesterday 250 men who had been doing manual labor in the Street-Cleaning Department to bestow upon them the badges of assistant foremen, as the result of their success in the recent civil service examinations. No Commissioner hereafter may return them to their brooms.

"Your positions are now classified and you are to be advanced according to your own merit," said Mr. Edwards. "You have all put in your days of hard, conscientious work as sweepers, drivers, hostlers, stablemen, &c. Pushing the broom on the city streets all day long is very laborious work; in fact, no manual labor is any harder. The man who sweeps the street or drives a cart is not occupying a lowly position; no, indeed. It is an honorable task, one that tends to create healthier conditions whereby lives are lengthened and the death rate kept as low as possible. But to-day is the crowning day of your success. You are to wear the officer's uniform of the department."

The Commissioner advised them not to "pound the men" under them. He urged them, too, to caution the people in their districts "to be tidy and take a neighborhood pride in the sanitary condition of their streets."

WALSH RAIDS FULTON MARKET

Gathers in 13 Peddlers and Confiscates 450 Scales—Health Raid, Too.

Thirteen peddlers accused of having false weights, scales, and measures in their possession were arrested in Fulton Market early yesterday by Commissioner Walsh of the Bureau of Weights and Measures and his Inspectors. Later in the day ten of the prisoners were held by Magistrate Breen in the Tombs Court in $300 bail each for trial.

The Commissioner and his Inspectors met at City Hall at 4 o'clock and descended on the market. When they returned the Commissioner said:

"We arrested only those men whom we were sure we had the goods on. In all we confiscated about 450 defective scales. We will pursue this policy of making arrests in the most flagrant cases where the men have been previously warned. The raids of bad weights, measures, and scales will continue, and we will let this confiscation go for a first offense. We have found, however, that we must make arrests to have the idea that we mean business sink in."

A squad of physicians and police from the Health Department went raiding throughout Little Italy and the east side sections generally in the upper part of the city in the afternoon and seized thirty-two peddlers, charging some with exposing their provisions without proper covering, and others with having rotten and decayed vegetables and fruit for sale. The prisoners were fined from $1 to $3 each in the Harlem Court.

CROP OUTLOOK FINE, SAYS F. A. VANDERLIP

Will Take Seven Billion Dollars Out of the Ground if Weather Is Good.

GENERAL BUSINESS QUIET

But Will Help Correct Some Economic Mistakes—Finishing an 11,000-Mile Journey.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 7.—"There is no dark spot on the agricultural outlook, so far as I can judge at this time."

This optimistic view of crop potentialities throughout the country was expressed to-day by Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank of New York, who is completing an 11,000-mile tour of practically every section of the South and West. He arrived in the Twin City in the morning and left at night for Chicago and the East.

Mr. Vanderlip was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under McKinley's first Administration. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Southern Pacific Railroad, and he used to be a reporter. He says his present journey is made as an official of the Harriman lines to look over the system and not as a banker.

Throughout the long trip he, with Mrs. Vanderlip, his secretary, Amos Higgins, and C. V. Rich, manager of the bond department of the bank, have traveled in Mr. Vanderlip's private car. H. R. Williams, President of the Puget Sound Extension, accompanied them to St. Paul.

"So far as I have seen—and it would be hard to go over the country more thoroughly than I have on this trip—agricultural conditions are simply admirable," Mr. Vanderlip said. "Soil conditions and the crop outlook in the South are fine. They have had more than the usual amount of rain down there. I was in Texas four weeks ago and found seeding already under way and farming operations going forward exceedingly well.

"In the West there have been good snows recently, which are always a good augury. I made the trip almost entirely by daylight, lost no opportunities to look around, and found conditions favorable everywhere."

Mr. Vanderlip was asked regarding the financial status of the country at large.

"I can hardly give an entirely optimistic expression there," he replied. "Business is quiet everywhere. Some little improvement has been noticeable in the lumber trade, but that is quiet. Some of the Pacific towns have felt a reaction from real estate booms. The possibility of tariff revision is enough to cause business men to put on the brakes, if there were nothing else ahead. It is also to be expected that these should hold back somewhat to see what the Supreme Court does in the important cases pending before it. It is very probable that we shall have a quiet Summer.

"But no one could take the trip I have taken and be pessimistic about ultimate conditions. There is an enormous amount of new agricultural development in the country and a great deal of irrigation activity. These are bound to produce large results.

"A little quiet business isn't going to hurt us at all. It won't do us any harm to be a bit economical for a while, and it will help us to correct a number of economic mistakes. And at the end of that, if the weather is good to us, we shall take $7,000,000,000 out of the ground."

"In the main I think the country is in favor of it, although some of the wheat districts I visited were opposed on the ground that it was unfair to them."

PROBATION OFFICERS CONFER

A conference of probation officers of Manhattan and Brooklyn was held last night in the West Side Court building. The conference was the first of a series which will be held once a week under the auspices of the State Probation Commission. About 150 officers were present.

Supreme Court Justice Alfred R. Page opened the conference by remarking on the good work being done by the probation system. Homer Folks advised the probation officers to co-operate and work in harmony with each other. Almost every case on probation was different from the others, he said, and they must not judge one case like them all.

Mr. Folks said that the occupation of probation officer lent itself readily to acquisition of improper influence and illegitimate gain, and served warning that should such a case ever come to his notice a proper punishment would be meted out.
